It Bit Her Leg.
The Tiger's Immortality.
Trotzky's Exciting Life.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

IF YOU TALK to President Roosevelt and mention the fact, everybody says:

"Ah, so you saw President Roosevelt. Which way is he turning, to the right or to the left?"

All the wise ones assure you that he is about to turn to the right OR the left, but they don't know which. To the right, you know, means toward old-fashioned conservatism, to the left means toward Stalin, Karl Marx, the "brain trust" highbrows, and cold economic oblivion.

THE PROSAIC answer is that President Roosevelt isn't turning at all, he is just going ahead. He will ask Congress to give him two thousand million dollars more, to put people to work and keep them working; of that amount $1,600,000,000 for public works, $300,000,000 to continue the conservation corps, and $300,000,000 for the emergency work relief.

In old days, when "best minds" fell in a faint at the suggestion that $300,000,000 be spent on the Panama Canal, such figures as these could not even have been imagined.

MAXINE ELLIOTT, actress, once known to almost everybody in America, whom almost everybody has now forgotten, such is life, made up her mind to enjoy peace, quiet and "a little solitude" in France. An interesting monkey shared the solitude and friends that played backgammon.

The little monkey, while the backgammon proceeded, folded its tiny, man-like hands around the slender ankle of the actress, and bit her fiercely in the leg. Ordinarily that would be not worth telling. Ladies are always having pets that bite them.

BUT MAXINE ELLIOTT immediately had all the monkey's teeth pulled out, and he will never bite anybody anymore, and that is news. He had bitten others, but not severely, and in a rather cunning fashion. That was forgiven, but biting the leg of your owner is something else.

If all pets, from police dogs to marmosets, would begin by biting their owners instead of biting strangers, and if all owners would have all teeth pulled from all pets, this would be a better world.

THE CIRCUS kept a big striped tiger named "Boss" locked in a strong cage, strong enough to keep the tiger in, not strong enough to keep death out.

Death entered, and "within ten minutes the tiger was on his way to be made into a rug." That will be for the tiger a sort of immortality. Fire and moths permitting, his beauty may survive for fifty years, made perfect by artificial eyes, teeth and tongue, growing gradually dimmer. Man has no such certainty of eternity, apart from faith, except in his children. They do supply what might be semi-eternal representation on earth.

Parents of certain modern children, however, might well say:

"I should rather be made into a rug, and get my eternity that way."

WHEN LEON TROTZKY meets the Angel Gabriel he will be able to say truly:

"I had an interesting life."

He was a radical thinker and doer in Russia. He shared with Lenin the organizing and carrying through of the Russian revolution, was head of Russia's army and an efficient head. Soldiers of many countries, including this, that tried to crush the Russian revolution and failed, will testify to Trotzky's ability.

He saw the rise of Stalin, more determined than himself, was thrown out of Russia, lived in exile in Turkey and elsewhere, got permission to hide himself "from murderers" in France.

There he lived and worked inside a barbed wire fence, gates locked, two big dogs defending him, two pistols on his desk. French police grew suspicious, and again Trotzky is in flight, having declared that he was organizing "the fourth internationale," a revolutionary organization, intended to do away with all existing governments, including Stalin's.

Trotzky is no longer young, but he seems to have kept his energy of the days when he worked on the East Side of New York City and told incredulous friends:

"We shall soon throw out the czars in Russia."

YOU MAY NOT have any gold. Also, for the present, according to government plans, you are not to have any silver in the way of money. The government believes that the best possible money is that which has the least intrinsic value. It reminds you of the old temperance lines:

"Water, cold water, pure water for me, and rum for the tremulous debauchee."

"It's paper, cold paper, pure paper" for Uncle Sam. Luckily he has the gold, stored in Washington.

Thanks to that, the paper dollar is suspended in mid-air nicely, like a new-born buddha. Europe is afraid to sell dollars short, or underestimate them. "Old Uncle Sam might go back on the gold basis, you know," and then it would be like selling Rockefeller short.

Singing Today

MISS NAN JOHNSON

CRIPPLE GUEST OF ROOSEVELTS

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP.)—Miss Nan Johnson, 18-year-old singer of Fairmont, W. Va., today went through the final rehearsal for what she characterized as "the high-light of my life so far—the privilege of singing to President and Mrs. Roosevelt."

Miss Johnson, an infantile paralysis victim, is to sing at a White House tea late this afternoon. Among those who will be present beside the President's family is President Stenic Vincent of Haiti.

The songs she selected for her White House recital are gay and springlike. They include: Strauss' "Blue Danube," Sanderson's "Spring's Awakening" and Del Acqua's "The Swallow."

With her accompanist, Miss Katharine A. Moore of Fairmont, and her teacher, Clegg Monroe of Cleveland, she went through the program this morning.

The other events in her trip to Washington include a trip to see the cherry blossoms and a recital at the home of Mrs. Oliver Smith at Chevy Chase, Md.

Postmaster Fired, Ends Life With Gun

SHARPSVILLE, Pa., April 17.—Shortly after being notified that he had been removed as postmaster, Franklin Clary committed suicide by shooting himself through the temple. Clary, who had held the post for 12 years, was removed today and Carl Smith, Democrat, named. Mr. Clary for many years traveled as ticket seller for the Ringling Brothers circus.

Senate Tax Bill Sent to Conference

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(INS.)—The administration's new tax bill, containing sharply increased income taxes imposed by the Senate, was sent to conference by the Senate today with the insurgent bloc insisting on retention of the Senate amendments.

Conferees named were Senators Harrison, King and George, Democrats, and Reed and Couzens, Republicans.

Loses Postoffice Job, Ends Life With Gun

SHARPSVILLE, Pa., April 17.—(AP.)—Franklin Clary, Republican postmaster of Sharpsville for 11 years, relinquished his job to his Democratic successor today and then killed himself with a revolver in the mailing room of the postoffice.

STEEL UNION IN CONFLICT OVER DAVIS

Gag on Senator Sought On Charge He Aided Rival Group

Mention of the name of Senator James J. Davis today threatened to disrupt the opening session of the steel workers' convention when an Indiana delegate attempted to introduce a resolution denying Davis the right to address the covention, because it was contended he "played ball with a company union."

The incident occurred at the close of International President M. F. Tighe's speech officially opening the fifty-ninth annual convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, in Elks Club Auditorium, Seventh street and Duquesne way.

Tighe had announced that Davis, known as "Puddler Jim" for his work in steel mills before becoming Senator, would address the gathering. Davis has spoken at every national convention, with one exception, for the past 10 or 12 years.

RESOLUTION BLOCKED

R. A. Kelsey, of the Gary (Ind.) district, jumped to his feet and attempted to introduce the resolution which would deny Davis the right to talk. President Tighe pounded his gavel and shouted that Kelsey was out of order, but six other delegates from the Gary district were on their feet also protesting.

Drowning their words beneath the pounding of his gavel, Tighe ordered them to resume their seats. They did so reluctantly, muttering that they would con-

Slain Constable

MARTIN PLUTER

Constable Pluter, slain within earshot of his home and apparently with his own pistol.

FIFTH YOUTH SOUGHT IN KILLING

Wall Constable Shot Near Home; Son of Rival Wounded

A fifth youth was being sought today as a key figure in the slaying of Constable Martin Pluter, of Wall, as county detectives held four other youths in connection with the crime.

Pluter was shot to death with his own gun late last night near his home.

His death at first was believed to have been due to a "revenge murder," but this theory was put into the background when detectives heard the stories of the four suspects.

The four being held are John Arendas, 22, of Seely avenue, Wall, son of former Constable George Arendas; Zeke Zikovich, 24, of Wall avenue; Andy Plenesik, 20, of Fifth street, Wall, and Mike Petrovich, 23, of 4 Valley avenue, Wall.

ADMIT DRINKING

They told Assistant Chief of County Detectives James S. McGinley and Detective Joseph Bodner that they had been drinking last night and that they had encountered Constable Pluter on their way home.

There was an argument, they said, and the four of them departed, leaving the constable in company with the fifth youth sought in the case. They declared they did not know Pluter had been shot until they were arrested.

MYSTERY WOUND

Young Arendas, shot in the foot, said he did not remember having received the wound.

Constable John Williams, of Wilmerding, one of the first officers to reach the scene after the slaying, said he found two hats near the body—one that of the victim.

The other hat gave a clue which led to the arrest of Arendas.

Strike Threatens Tieup of Autos

CLEVELAND, April 17.—(AP.)—A gasoline shortage confronted more than 250,000 motorists today as major oil companies closed their filling stations following a strike of attendants and operators.

Watching their gauges with anxious eyes, motirists knew that when their tanks ran dry the only available supply of gasoline was at stations operated by independents—and this was fast diminishing.

Man May Lose Eye As Result of Fall

His face lacerated and facing the loss of his right eye, James McVey, 67, of 4244 Saline street, was found unconscious by police late last night at Hazelwood and Murray avenues. He was taken to Montefiore Hospital.

Police said McVey had alighted from a street car and is believed to have tripped in stepping to the sidewalk. McVey's glasses were broken in the fall, a fragment cutting his right eyeball.

BIG LEAGUES OPEN BALL SEASON

Ideal Weather Cheers Fans; Pirates Meet Cards at St. Louis

Associated Press.

Cheered by the best opening day weather since 1931 the two major baseball leagues today embarked on the 1934 pennant races with high hopes and expectations.

An ideal April day, sunny and warm, dawned in all eight cities where games were scheduled, and Gus H. Fan responded to the beaming rays of the sun by swarming around the various box offices, money in hand and a smile on his face.

Estimates of club executives placed the turnstile total for both American and National League at 185,000.

1931 BEST YEAR

Three years ago, when all 16 teams were able to carry out their opening day assignments, a total of 249,010 passed through the gates, 114,848 in the National League and 134,162 in the American. Last year only five games were played on the first day, and they were contested under poor weather conditions.

The temperature was close to 60 in New York City, where the world champion New York Giants opened against the Phillies, and everywhere the temperature was reported in the 50's and steadily rising. A long line of bleacher fans was on hand at the Giants' park before the gates were opened.

PIRATES AT ST. LOUIS

Other opening dates in the National League saw Brooklyn entertaining the Boston Braves, St. Louis playing host to Pittsburgh and Cincinnati playing Chicago in the newly-named Crosley Park.

Pirate Manager George Gibson selected Heinie Meine to do the pitching with Earle Grace catching. The Cardinal battery will be Dean and Davis.

Washington and Boston, rained out yesterday at the capital, opened at Boston in the headline game of the American League. Other openers were: New York at Philadelphia, Detroit at Chicago and St. Louis at Cleveland.

Curry Goes to Game, Foils Tammany Row

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP.)—The Gray Fox of Union Square, John F. Curry, coolly walked out on Tammany's civil strife today to sun himself at the Polo Grounds.

The maneuver left his rebellious braves feeling a trifle foolish. They were prepared to bring to a climax their demands for Curry's resignation as leader. With Curry attending the baseball opener, the "coupe d'etat" must wait.

Edwin Ruud Leaves Employes $130,000

Executors of the estate of Edwin Ruud, inventor and philanthropist, reported in Orphans' Court today that $130,000 had been set aside for the employes of the late manufacturer out of his estate of more than $1,500,000. Ruud directed that every 10-year employe receive $1,000, and 20-year workers $2,000.

Navy Near Panama, Continues 'Attacks'

ABOARD U. S. S. CHICAGO, with United States Fleet, April 17.—(INS.)—After a mock battle of submarine and destroyer "attacks," the United States fleet, divided into two units, today reversed positions in a continuation of maneuvers as the giant armada continued its way down the west coast of Mexico en route to Atlantic waters.

BANK PAYOFF URGED UPON PRESIDENT

Palmer Joins Sponsor In Citing Benefits To Recovery

By JOHN P. COWAN
Sun-Telegraph Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The fight for the McLeod bill was carried directly to the White House today.

The advantage of bank depositors' payoff legislation as an important recovery measure was argued before President Roosevelt by Representative Clarence J. McLeod (Rep.), of Michigan, author of the McLeod bill, and former Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer.

McLeod and Palmer conferred with the President at the White House at noon.

McLeod said:

"I believe that the President will agree that the payoff of national bank depositors whose funds have been frozen in closed banks will materially aid in his recovery program. When he has had an opportunity to study the question I am sure he will look with favor on the general principle. The payoff will put money in the hands of the people. That's what industry and business needs—that's what makes for recovery."

M'LEOD'S STAND

Palmer and McLeod pointed out that Mr. Roosevelt has not yet openly and seriously opposed the McLeod bill.

A meeting of the Rules Committee of the House was closely watched today for its possible re-

PARALYZED MAN ENDS LIFE

International News Service.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., April 17.—Crippled since has was shot in the spine two years ago, Joseph Melnyk, 47, former bank teller, committed suicide in an unusual manner here today.

Lying on a bed that had been his resting place since the 1932 shooting, Melnyk fashioned a noose out of a lamp cord and tied in to the top of the bed. Slipping the noose over his head, he hurled himself from the bed. Strangulation caused death.

Harry Kozambzak, of Besemer, is now serving time for shooting the bank teller as he walked from the Peoples Savings and Trust Company where he was employed. Since then Melnyk had been paralyzed from the waist down.

Aimee's Daughter Divorces Seafarer

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—(AP.)—Roberta Semple Smyth, daughter of Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, obtained an uncontested divorce yesterday from her sea-faring husband, William Bradley Smyth.

Mrs. Smyth told Judge Thomas C. Gould it was "mother-in-law trouble, but of a different kind" that parted her and her husband.

Wife Asks Divorce From 'Sullen' Rubin

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—(AP.)—Mary Rubin filed suit for divorce today from Benny Rubin, musician and entertainer. She charged he was morose and sullen in her company.

PRESTO! JESSEL TO WED NORMA

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Norma Talmadge, screen star recently divorced from Joseph Schenk, movie executive, arrived in New York today, met a representative of George Jessel, accompanied him to the Lombardy Hotel, and became engaged to the diminutive comedian almost in as short a time as it takes to tell it.

Jessel said at the hotel:

"I asked her five minutes after I saw her."

"Did she accept?"

"Sure, she did. We're officially engaged. We'll be married as soon as I fill out my contracts."

Jessel wasn't just certain when that would be. He estimated:

"Two or three months, anyway. One contract here expires next Sunday and I've got two or three others I want to clean up.

"Then we'll be married, probably in Connecticut, and go on a long honeymoon."

Garner Breaks Tie On Anti-Lobby Bill

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP.)—Vice President Garner broke a tie vote in the Senate today to bring up for consideration the Borah bill to prohibit members of Congress from representing anyone before a government department on a matter in which the United States has an interest.

Freed of Burglar Charge Because Sun Rose Early

COLUMBUS, O., April 17.—(AP.)—Because the sun rose before 6 a. m. last July, Frankie Bell, Youngstown, O., was freed in court of a burglary charge.

He was on trial for the burglary of a drug store here last July 17. The testimony of alleged accomplices agreed they had broken into the store at 6 a. m.

T. Vincent Martin, assistant prosecutor, moved that the charge be dismissed. Burglary, he pointed out, must be in the "night season" as defined by Ohio law. Judge John R. King praised the prosecution for its fairness in asking the dismissal.

PROBERS INDICT N. D. GOVERNOR

FARGO, N. D., April 17.—(AP.)—Gov. William Langer and eight other persons were under indictment today on charges of exacting political contributions from relief workers in North Dakota.

A federal grand jury voted the indictments late yesterday. An earlier result of the inquiry was the removal of Gov. Langer by Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins as head of relief work in the state.

Others indicted are Oscar Chaput, business manager of The Leader, administration newspaper for which it is alleged contributions were demanded; State Senator Oscar Erickson, listed as publisher of the paper; State Highway Commissioner Frank A. Vogel, Harold McDonald, solicitor for The Leader; R. A. Kinzer and his son, Joseph Kinzer; Paul J. Yeater, and G. A. Hample, the latter two Highway Department employes.

The charges carry a penalty of not more than two years in the federal penitentiary, or a fine not to exceed $10,000, or both.

Socialite Granted Divorce in Reno

A Reno divorce has been granted Mrs. Josefa Watjen Shiras, formerly a prominent member of the younger social set in Pittsburgh and recently of Greenwich, Conn., from Winfield K. Shiras, Jr. Shiras, also a social registerite, was charged with cruelty. They were married in 1924.

Fanciest Dresser? It's Prince George

ABOARD S. S. WINDSOR CASTLE AT SEA, April 17.—(AP.)—The fanciest dresser on board is Prince George of England.

Homeward bound after a tour of Africa, he won first prize for the most original costume at the ship's fancy dress ball.

BRITAIN AGAIN IGNORES DEBT

LONDON, April 17.—(AP.)—Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, declared to the House of Commons today that he did not propose to make any provision for the payments of war debts to America or the receipts of war debts from Great Britain's debtors.

His statement was made in the midst of a speech in which he said Great Britain now had "regained its place as the first exporting country of the world."

Some of the presents the Chancellor gave the British public in his "sunshine" budget for 1934-35 were:

A reduction of 6 pence in the pound — approximately 10 per cent—in the basic income tax rate.

A reduction of 25 per cent in the horsepower tax on automobiles.

Restoration of full unemployment relief, decreased two years ago.

Restoration, after July 1, of half the pay cuts of government employes.

A budget surplus for 1933-34 of £39,000,000 and an estimated surplus for 1934-35 of £29,100,000.

Armed Guard Patrols Tennis Star's Home

RUMSON, N. J., April 17.—(INS.)—An armed guard was observed today at the home of John Doeg, former national champion tennis player. Doeg is the son-in-law of Edward W. Scudder, publisher of the Newark Evening News, and his home is on the Scudder estate, where robbers obtained $25,000 worth of jewelry Saturday night.

At Scudder's office rumors that there had been kidnaping threats were denied.

'Jafsie' Bodyguard Arrested in Thefts

BRISTOL, Conn., April 17.—(INS.)—Al Matera, former pugilist who gained prominence as bodyguard of Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon of the Lindbergh kidnaping case fame, was under arrest here today charged with stealing two watches from guests of the Ashland Hotel.

Dr. Condon visited Matera here more than a year ago and aided him in settling his mother's estate.

Secretary Wills Estate To Wealthy Boss

A secretary's devotion to her boss was revealed today when the will of O. Virginia Alles, 49, who died March 1 at her Bellevue home, was filed for probate.

A. V. Bennett, wealthy retired vice president of the West Penn Power Company, now in Florida, was willed the $2,500 estate of Miss Alles, who ignored her four brothers and sisters in disposing of her estate.

No reason for the bequest was contained in the will. Although the document named Bennett as executor without bond, he declined to serve and Miss Alles' brother, George E. Alles, 409 Rebecca avenue, was appointed in Bennett's stead. Alles said:

"Mr. Bennett was very kind to my sister. She took the only means she knew of repaying him for many kindnesses."

Miss Alles left the employ of the West Penn Power Company several years prior to her death.

Snore Wrecks Marriage But Fails Divorce

Snoring led Albert Mach, 47, of 322 Reamer avenue, Carnegie, to the divorce courts today, but didn't open the gates to marital freedom.

It seems that all was peaceful and harmonious in the Mach household until one cold night: "S-z-z-z" Albert snored!

His wife, Albert told Judge William H. McNaugher, ordered him out of the room. Thereafter he decided to leave and he brought the suit for divorce, charging his wife with desertion. Judge McNaugher refused the divorce.

The Mach couple, married in 1905, lived at 1418 Evergreen avenue, Millvale, until the time of the husband's snore.

REQUA, FRIEND OF HOOVER, NAMED IN AIR MAIL PROBE

SOUGHT TO AID CORD CONCERN, WIRES SHOW

Black Refuses to Air 'Grilling' of Lindy By Prosecutor

WASHINGTON, April 17. — (AP.)—Mark L. Requa, Republican national committeeman from California, and described as "close friend and adviser" of former President Hoover, was pictured to the Senate air mail investigating committee today as having volunteered to use his Washington influence in 1931 in the interest of an aviation company controlled by E. L. Cord.

Chairman Black (Dem.), Alabama, read into the record a telegram from Lyndal L. Young, an officer of Century Air Lines, to L. B. Manning, of the Cord Corporation, dated in September, 1931, said Young knew Requa personally and believed "his influence with the Hoover administration can be used to our advantage." The telegram said:

"I personally know his influence in Washington is as strong as anybody's."

Young sair further:

"Have talked to Requa with reference to air mail situation and he is willing to help us in Washington if we desire."

The Cord company, it was shown in other correspondence, was seeking to have air mail routes thrown open for competitive bidding and was not trying to make a deal for any contract.

reviously Black had turned down the request of Senator Austin (Rep.), of Vermont, to summon the stenographer who sat in on the interview between Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Carl Ristine, special assistant attorney general, while the famed flier was here several weeks ago.

Reports got about that Lindbergh had ben "grilled." Ristine denied them.

Black indicated, however, he would put up to the committee later whether to summon the stenographer.

Roosevelt Tells Congress To Map Air Program

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP.)—Secretary Dern dropped the Army's air policy into the lap of an 11-man board of inquiry today.

The War Department chief opened the investigation into all phases of Army flying just a day after President Roosevelt called for a commission named by Congress to outline a national air policy.

Keep politics out, was the tenor of Secretary Dern's admonition to the committee of six civilian and five military air authorities. He directed them to find out what should be done to make the Army Air Corps "second to none in modern equipment and training." He said:

"Your mission is technical, not political."

The group is headed by Newton D. Baker, wartime Secretary of War. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was originally named, but declined to serve. The inquiry was decided upon after a dozen fatalities accompanied the Army's taking over of the airmail.

As the Army Air Corps investigators sat down at the War Department for their first meeting, President Roosevelt's demand for a national aviation policy was getting prompt attention on Capitol Hill.

The President, in conferring at the White House yesterday with three Congressional leaders, told them he wanted:

First: A commission named by Congress to outline a national aviation policy, and.

M'CREADY CHECK BARED IN SUIT

A few days before their marriage in 1924 Mrs. Matilda Craig Heck McCready made out to Dr. R. J. McCready a check for $5,000, according to evidence—the check itself—introduced in the will contest today.

Dr. McCready is contesting his wife's will, contending that when he signed a prenuptial agreement he did not realize the true valoe of her estate, estimated now at $1,500,000 or more.

The 82-year-old Sewickley physician cited as one example his wife's holdings in the Greensburg Gas Company, which he contended proved worth many times their ostensible value.

Dr. McCready now seeks one-half of his wife's estate. The prenuptial agreement provided him with $1,000 a month for life.

That little war, desperately serious to Bolivia and Paraguay, is entirely unimportant to the rest of the big world.

And things have happened on earth, including the so-called "big war," so desperately important to this small grain of sand, are entirely unimportant to our neighboring planets, to say nothing of the outside solar systems that do not even know that the earth is inhabited or care.

GOV. MURRAY, of Oklahoma, alias "Alfalfa Bill," orders out National Guardsmen in connection with auction sales of farms that have not paid taxes. The curious part is that Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" sent the soldiers, not to collect taxes, but to prevent the auction sales, on a "protect our homes" order.

To see soldiers ordered out to keep tax collectors of the state from fulfilling their functions, is also news.

DR. LANDIS, of Philadelphia, tells a gathering of physicians in Chicago that cutting off legs and arms is now prevented in some cases by massage. The massage keeps tissues alive, blood vessels in healthy condition, preventing gangrene that demands amputation.

One form of insanity, paresis, caused by a disease of the blood, is cured by causing the patient to be bitten by mosquitoes that have previously bitten human beings with malaria. The malaria germs, planted in the blood of the paresis victim, cause high fever and a temperature that cannot be endured by germs that cause the paresis. When these germs are dead, quinine, one of the few true specifics known, kills the malaria germs.

That sounds as strange as the witch's recipe in Macbeth for their broth.

UNION SPLITS OVER DAVIS

tinue their attempts to have the resolution brought before the convention.

Senator Davis was not in the hall at the time, but it was reported he would attend a later session, perhaps this afternoon.

Kelsey told reporters that the resolution was presented as the result of Davis' alleged aid to representatives of a Gary "company union."

The company union men visited Davis while they were in Washington to protest to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins the installation of new cold mills in the American Sheet and Tinplate Company plant, according to Kelsey. These new devices will throw many men out of work, Kelsey said. Later Davis visited Gary, but failed to visit Amalgamated headquarters, although he is a member of the group, Kelsey said.

CHARGE CALLED 'ABSURD'

Tighe, who had been handed a copy of the resolution before the convention began, termed it all "absurd."

Tighe said Davis had a "perfect right" to make a tour of inspection of the Gary mill, because he is a Legislator, and that there was no reason for the Indiana delegates to feel he favored "company unions."

The Senator could not be reached for comment.

Louis Leonard, international secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated group, disclosed that the steel workers are planning to launch a fight to write a collective bargaining clause into the Constitution of the United States.

NRA CLAUSE PRAISED

Declaring that the collective bargaining clause of the National Recovery Act was the greatest step forward ever made in the history of the organization, Leonard declared:

"The history of organized labor has one blood-stained page after another, showing that the rights of workers have been denied and that brutality was used in many cases.

"What we want is a law that will make it compulsory on the part of law-enforcing officers to see that the citizens' rights are guaranteed."

Declaring that employers in the steel industry spent huge sums on spies who reported any efforts made by the workers to organize, Leonard said:

"The money spent on this spy system would go a long way toward paying the men decent wages."

The resolution favoring a collective bargaining clause in the federal Constitution has already been prepared and approved for submission to the convention, he said.

Another resolution to be submitted will favor passage of the Wagner bill to outlaw employer-dominated unions.

N. Y. Senate Votes Job Insurance

ALBANY, April 17.—(INS.)—For the first time in the history of New York state, one house of the legislature today had approved an unemployment insurance bill.

With the aid of one Republican vote, the Senate passed the Byrne bill, establishing a system of compulsory unemployment insurance. The vote was 26 to 21.

France Ousts Trotsky For Revolt Efforts

PARIS, April 17.—(AP.)—Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian revolutionist, was ordered to leave France by the government today because of his efforts to organize a world revolution.

Minister of the Interior Albert Sarraut announced the cabinet decided to withdraw the permission granted Trotsky to live in France because he "violated the political neutrality" which was made a condition of his stay at Barbizon.

Sarraut declined to say whether Trotsky would be permitted to return to Corsica or whether he would be compelled to quit French territory entirely.

If the latter course is taken, it was presumed Trotsky—a "man without a country"—would return to his former Turkish exile which he left ostensibly because of boredom and poor health.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(INS.)—Leon Trotzky, exiled Bolshevik leader, will not be permitted to enter the United States, it was indicated authoritatively today.

The feeling prevailed that Trotzky's coming might be considered as an unfriendly gesture toward Soviet Russia, with whom diplomatic relations recently were established.

SILVER FORCES SEND ENVOY TO ROOSEVELT

Hope to Win President To Remonetization Program

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—While administration leaders began whipping Congress into line for President Roosevelt's remaining legislative program, the Congressional silver bloc today sought Rooseveltian support for their silver remonetization program.

The silver bloc took a page from Mr. Roosevelt's own notebook. They sent an emissary to the White House to arrange a conference with the President on silver legislation. The bloc's leaders expressed hope of converting the President to their remonetization program.

The Senate held the stage both for the President's program and for silver legislation. After conferring with Mr. Roosevelt, the leaders returned to the Capitol with the word that the revenue bill must be revised to eliminate taxes on Philippine imports, while tariff, sugar, bankruptcy, stock exchange and deposit insurance legislation must be enacted before adjournment. Most of these measures already have passed the House.

THOMAS FEARS SMASH

Now silver block leaders want the President to send word too that silver must be remonetized. They pointed out that commodity markets declined on the heels of a statement by Speaker Rainey that no silver legislation would be enacted this session. Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, said:

"Wheat fell off five cents a bushel. Cotton declined $1.50 a bale. Silver fell one and a quarter cents an ounce. This is only the beginning of the smash if we are not to remonetize silver.

"We know that no depression ever has been cured except through monetary action. There is no chance to get out of this depression except by cheapening the dollar by putting more money into circulation."

AIMS OF BILL

The silver bill, pending in the Senate with a recommendation from its agriculture committee, would authorize the government to sell surplus farm products abroad and accept payment in silver at 25 per cent above world silver prices, nationalize silver, by calling all silver into the Treasury at existing world prices, and remonetize silver at $1.29 an ounce.

This price would put one dollar's worth of silver into the present silver dollar coin. It would establish a fixed ratio of 25 to 1 between silver and the present gold dollar.

The silver leaders believed they could pass this bill in the Senate. They also predicted House concurrence, even against the President's opposition, but feared a veto.

CANNON, AIDE ASK RELEASE

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP.)—Attorneys for Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and Miss Ada L. Burroughs today sought to have the jury instructed to acquit them on a charge of conspiracy to violate the federal corrupt practices act.

Their contention that no evidence had been presented to prove the conspiracy charge was opposed by the prosecution.

Justice Peyton Gordon planned to render a decision as soon as the arguments on the motion were completed.

WIRT DID ALL TALKING, SAY PARTY GUESTS

Six Who Dined With Professor Deny Talk Of 'Kerensky'

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP.)—Chairman Bulwinkle (Dem.), of North Carolina, today told reporters the special House committee could "not prosecute Dr. William A. Wirt for perjury, but there is no reason why the District Attorney and the grand jury shouldn't be able to take notice of the case."

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP.)—One after another of the six who dined with Dr. William A. Wirt on September 1, the occasion on which he says he heard administration workers discuss revolutionary intents, told House investigators today he had testified untruthfully.

After hearing the six, the Bulwinkle investigating committee adjourned.

From the hostess down through the five other guests, came testimony constantly in denial that there was incendiary talk such as the Indiana educator alleged a week ago.

To the contrary, various of the witnesses portrayed their accuser as a "monologist," as having talked four hours that evening in Virginia without letting others have the floor.

PROFESSOR ACCUSED

Specifically they called "false" assertions attributed by Dr. Wirt to one or another of them about having President Roosevelt helpless "in the middle of a stream," about calling him "only the Kerensky of this revolution."

The schoolmaster, with Counsel James A. Reed by his side, sat silent while some laughter in the large audience greeted the testimony. Once in a while there was applause for the witnesses.

First, Miss Alice Barrows, hostess for the dinner, then Miss Hildegarde Kneeland and Miss Mary Taylor—all government workers—challenged assertions by Wirt about them.

Then, as the first of the other men diners, Laurence Todd—Soviet news agency reporter here—said he had called the President "a strong leader" rather than "only a Kerensky."

WIRT CAUSED 'STRAIN'

Todd called the dinner "a most wearying experience x x x a strain," in view of the way Wirt was said to have held forth.

As to the two remaining diners, Robert W. Bruere, chairman of the Textile Code Advisory Committee, seconded assertions by his fellow witnesses. He declared Wirt's statements "slander."

The view of David C. Coyle, of the Public Works Administration, also was that "no one else had a chance" to do any talking.

The hearing went on long after the House had met. Expectations were for an early committee report finding the Wirt allegations unjustified. Republicans, however, were pressing to broaden the inquiry, with the Democratic majority voting down their requests to call various administration officers.

Tableland Council Names New Heads

Frank C. Haller and George W. Pierce have been named chairmen of the Allegheny Tableland Council and the Wholesalers Council of the Chamber of Commerce for the year beginning May 1, it was announced today. Other officers named are H. S. Metcalfe, vice chairman and George R. Aufderheide, H. W. Leonard, P. A Boyd, J. I. Alexander and John J. McShane, Jr., directors of the Tableland Council, and C. E. Showalter, vice chairman, and Emil Freyer, second vice chairman of the Wholesalers Council.

Mexidivorced

JANET SNOWDEN

'SPITE' BRIDE WINS DIVORCE

EL PASO, Tex., April 17.—(AP.)—The "spite" marriage of Janet Snowden, oil investment heiress, to Prince F. Caravita Siriggnano, of Italy, was terminated today in a Mexican divorce.

Granting of the decree at Juarez late yesterday ended the efforts of the 19-year-old heiress to rid herself of her titled husband, son of a wealthy Italian family and one of Italy's well known racing drivers. Her efforts in that direction started just five days after their marriage in New York last August when she announced she was seeking an annulment.

In connection with the annulment proceedings, the Princess described her husband as "a nice fellow," but declared her marriage to 'im was prompted by spite and that she loved another man.

The Supreme Court of New York denied the annulment. Its referee had recommended the young heiress be freed.

Janet's older sister is the wife of another Italian nobleman, Prince Rospiglioso.

NYE JIBES NRA IN TALK HERE

Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, here to speak tonight before the state conference of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom in the Hotel Schenley, believes that the country is not making much progress under the present NRA set-up.

Nye said:

"Generally speaking, I have been glad to support the President's program. I am afraid, however, that we are standing stock still and that this situation is going to prevail until there can be accomplished a change in NRA policy.

"Unless there is a reformation of the NRA, we are going to run into a worse crash than in 1929.

"NRA is in the hands of those who have not yet learned the lessons of the depression. It is in charge now of those whom it was intended to curb."

Senator Nye will speak on "The Profits of Preparedness."

$1,000,000 Released By Opening of Bank

BROOKVILLE, Pa., April 17.—(AP.)—Releasing almost $1,000,000 in deposits for immediate use, the Brookville Bank and Trust Company, successor to the Brookville Title and Trust Company, opened on an unrestricted basis.

LOSS OF HOMES FACES 66,000 FAMILIES

Aid Group Threatened With Eviction By End of Week

Sixty-six thousand relief families in Allegheny County will face the possibility of being set out on the street with no means of getting new shelter by the end of this week.

This warning was given today by John W. Lawrence, chairman of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board, in announcing the board of directors of the Community Fund of Allegheny County has alloted $10,000 to the board to continues its present relief rent program.

Lawrence declared:

"At the present rate of expenditure, it is estimated that this sum will not carry the rent program beyond the end of the week. After that date, 66,000 families on relief will face the possibility of being set out on the street in case of eviction."

REAL ESTATE BOARD

Lawrence joined forces with the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board in demanding that the State Emergency Relief Board "do something" about sheltering needy families, citing:

"Both state and federal relief legislation included shelter as one of the items for which it was legitimate to use public funds. But, constantly facing the possibility of exhaustion of funds, the State Relief Board ruled, and has stuck to the rule, that no rent may be paid from public funds in this state.

"This is in contrast with two adjoining states, Ohio and New York, in both of which regular payments of rent for relief families is being made from state and federal funds."

Charging that the present policy in Allegheny County is "demoralizing," Lawrence said it virtually forces the relief families to deceive prospective landlords.

NOTICE OF EVICTION

As explained by him, a relief finally upon receipt of final notice of eviction is given the first month's rent in a new house. He added;

"The giving of this month's rent in cash to the family is necessary in order that the prospective landlord may not identify the family as dependent upon relief and unable to pay any additional rent.

"The Allegheny County Relief Board and social workers from both public and private agencies have opposed such a policy as demoralizing to the family and unfair to the landlord. That it has been followed for the last three years is due to two powerful factors: First, the necessity of securing shelter for dependent families; and, second, the constant inadequacy of funds for relief."

The Pittsburgh Real Estate Board made this same assertion recently when it inaugurated a state-wide campaign to secure shelter relief for the benefit both of needy families and the landlords whose property is occupied by non-paying relief tenants.

STATE BOARD STAND

Its requests to the State Emergency Relief Board to permit payment of amounts sufficient to cover taxes and maintenance costs was turned down by Director Eric Biddle. He explained that the board is sympathetic but does not have funds for food relief beyond the end of April and cannot assume responsibility for shelter payments.

Lawrence today said he believes:

"The present situation points to the likelihood of a special session of the State Legislature to act on the whole relief problem. And this session may be the opportunity long desired for a definite settlement of the rent problem."

Meanwhile, the County Relief Board will utilize credit for the new allotment of $10,000 made by the Community Fund, although the fund does not actually have the $10,000 immediately available, according to Lawrence. It means, he said, that the fund's deficit has been increased by that amount and must be submitted to contributors in the campaign next fall.

Non-Resistance Scored Before D.A.R. by Dern

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—American opponents of preparedness today had a strong admonition from Secretary of War Dern to concentrate their activities on elimination of the causes of war rather than attacks against the Army and Navy if they really desire peace.

In a stirring defense of the nation's military forces, Dern told the D. A. R. Congress that an adequate army and navy was the best safeguard against war.

Referring to the opponents of preparedness' doctrine of non-resistance, or turning the other cheek, Dern said there are millions of earnest peace advocates in the country who may be willing to turn the other cheek, but they do not find anything in the Scriptures that tells them what to do after being smitten on both cheeks.

He declared he does not believe in disarming the country while the rest of the world remains armed to the teeth.

Urging the peace societies to engage in more effective activities in behalf of world peace, Dern said:

"Let them begin at home by breaking down our own bumptious sense of superiority, our prejudices against other countries and other forms of government, our selfishness and our provincialism, so that we shall recognize that peoples of other nations are human beings like ourselves and not some other sort of animal to be hated and feared."

BRIDE SHUNS MATE WHO ASKS $25,000 FOR LOST LOVE

FATE IN HANDS OF PARENTS, GIRL SAYS

Wealthy Couple Silent On Balm Suit Of Student

Irene Reed Hepburn, the 19-year-old bride, today apparently had no intention of returning to her husband, no matter how highly he values her affections.

William Hepburn, Jr., estimates his wife's love at $25,000—the figure he named in the suit for alienation of affections which yesterday he filed in Atlantic City, N. J., against his bride's wealthy parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Reed, of 6810 McPherson boulevard.

Irene and William, a medical student at University of Pennsylvania, eloped last August 4 to Elkton, Md., while the Reeds were spending the summer at the seashore.

Ten days later, when the Reeds learned of the elopement, there was much excitement, ending with Irene going back to her home.

Today Irene was in the home of her parents. As to the suit, she said:

"My parents are out of town and it's in their hands."

Hepburn, son of a well-known New Jersey politician, lives in Ventnor, N. J. He contends that when his young bride returned to her home for her clothes she was spirited away to Louisville, Ky., and since then his letters to her have gone unanswered—although, he adds, she had expressed a desire to continue living with him.

Irene's father, an engineer, is associated with James L. Stuart, the Relief Works Division Administrator in Pittsburgh. He and Mrs. Reed are seeking to have the suit removed to Federal Court.

BROWN'S WIDOW AWAITS CALL

Universal Service.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., April 17.—With detectives from three states seeking the sweetheart of Edward Adamski as a witness in the Bradway Brown murder investigation, authorities here are making swift moves to bring to trial Adamski and two others held in connection with the murder.

Brown, a wealthy young publisher, of Palmyra, N. J., was shot down in front of the garage at his home 15 months ago. Mrs. Ruth Brown, former Beaver (Pa.) resident, his widow, telegraphed Prosecutor Eastwood, of Burlington County, yesterday, offering to testify in the case whenever her presence is desired. With her daughter, Barbara, she has been spending the winter in the South.

Gov. A. Harry Moore, of New Jersey, signed papers asking for the extradition of Adam Scewozak, now serving a term in the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia, to stand trial on the New Jersey murder charge. The papers were forwarded to Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania, who had indicated he would sign them as soon as the law allowed.

BANK TO RAZE BUILDINGS

Workmen will start next week demolishing all of the buildings bounded by Fourth and Third avenues, Wood street and the west line of the Aoppol Building, excepting the Columbia Bank Building.

Arthur R. Atwood, receiver for the closed Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., today announced the Federal Court had signed an order permitting the demolition to make way for a parking lot.

Atwood explained:

"We have been consistently losing money, and by tearing down old buildings we will reduce the annual loss by between $7,000 and $8,000."

BLOCK STATUE FOR INGERSOLL

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP.)—Unless the House in the future changes its mind, there will be no monument in the national capital to the memory of Robert G. Ingersoll, the agnostic.

A resolution already approved by the Senate to permit the Robert Ingersoll Monument Association to erect a marker on federal ground was brought before the House. Representative Wolcott, of Michigan, said:

"I don't think that kind of man should have a monument in the national capital, and be held up as a model to the youth of the land."

Representative ellar, of Illinois, replied:

"But they propose to erect this monument to a great orator—."

Wolcott continued:

"We are not interested in his oratorical ability, but in what he said. I don't believe we ought to erect a monument here to an agnostic or any other unbeliever."

Wolcott's one objection was enough, under the procedure, to block House adoption of the resolution.

SOVIET ORDERS LOAN REPRISAL

MOSCOW, April 17.—(AP.)—An active Soviet reprisal against the newly-enacted United States law against further loans to debtors came today in an admonition to Soviet economical organizations by "The Newspaper for Industrialization" to alter their reputed intention to give preference to American materials and equipment for the remainder of the second five-year plan.

The newspaper warned that the Soviet government will not be coerced into a debt settlement.

The statement by the official organ of the commissiart of heavy industry was the first public reaction to the Johnson law. It described it as "a menace to Soviet-American trade" and declared in effect that Soviet Russia will not deal with a country placing such an obstacle in its way.

The organ asserts the Johnson bill complicates matters between the two countries "just as a large scale business is in the process of concrete negotiations."

Two Held in Theft Of Officer's Cycle

Two Homestead men were arrested in connection with the theft of a policeman's motorcycle which was found wrecked late yesterday.

The motorcycle was stolen while Patrolman James Summers was investigating a disturbance in Dickson street, Homestead. Later Summers found the damaged motorcycle and arrested two men who gave their names as Anzy Hall, of Third avenue, and Joseph Gress, of Fourth avenue.

Columbo Loses Suit Over Fee to Agent

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—(AP.)—Ruggiero Columbo, better known as Russ Columbo, singer and orchestra leader, was ordered yesterday to pay a judgment awarded against him in the New York courts for $1,083.30 plus $54 interest and costs for commission to a booking agent.

L. Henry, who filed the suit here, said the New York judgment was awarded Lou Irwin, booking agent, against Columbo July 14, 1932.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure covers the interior of the country, extending in a ridge from the North Pacific coast eastward over the northern plains to the Middle Atlantic states, with centers over Western Pennsylvania (Pittsburgh, 30.10), and Washington (Seattle, 30.18), and pressure is low over Western Ontario (Port Arthur, 29.82), Saskatchewan (Prince Albert, 29.82), and over the southern states. Showers, mostly light, have occurred over the northeastern states, and most of the southern states and scattered showers continue this morning in Virginia, Eastern Tennessee, Louisiana, Texas and Kansas. It is slightly colder in the plateau region and the Upper Ohio Valley, while over the plains and the Canadian Northwest temperatures are rising.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Franklin is 5.4 feet. Lock No. 7, 13.2; Pittsburgh, 11.8; Dam No. 4, 11.4; No. 6, 12.8; No. 10, 13.6, and No. 12, 11.8. The dams are down. The rivers will continue to fall.

COUNCIL PUSHES BUSINESS BID

To encourage merchants and manufacturers to locate in Pittsburgh, Council is prepared to appropriate $30,000 to the Pittsburgh Development Commission.

A resolution setting aside the money has been introduced in Council by P. J. McArdle.

The commission, active about 1914, is to be revived in an effort to bring new plants to Pittsburgh. In addition to the money which Council is asked to provide, private subscriptions to bring the fund up to $100,000 will be sought, it is reported.

F. F. Nicola is active in bringing back the commission. He was associated with it in its earlier years. The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and a number of Boards of Trade are reported as interested in the movement.

John Fagan Dead; Mine Union Helper

John Fagan, 44, brother of P. T. Fagan, district president of the United Mine Workers of America, died suddenly in his home at Bridgeville this morning. He has been associated for several years with the United Mine Workers movement and during the past year was an organizer.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Natleia Fagan; nine children; his father, Thomas Fagan; and three other brothers, William, Joseph and Gerald Fagan.

FLOG CONVICTS AFTER BOLT

CANON CITY, Col., April 17.—(AP.)—Six lusty lashes, applied to bare backs of three convicts who failed in an effort to escape the Colorado State Penitentiary, ended the episode as far as they were concerned, but prison officials pushed a search today for two others who managed to get away.

The three, William Crosby, Marvin Green and Roy McVey, were captured soon after the quintet, armed with an improvised knife, marched Joe Moschetti, labor observer, through an open gate of the prison late yesterday and attempted to flee.

The other two were Claud Reeves, who was believed to have fled in a stolen motor car, and Raymond Perry.

Shortly after McVey, Green and Crosby were returned to the prison they were taken to a storeroom for the flogging. The whip was applied by Jim Pate, husky Negro guard. Each prisoner later promised to behave.

Warden Roy Best said these were the first whippings at the institution in several years.

Youthful Singer To Wed Baritone

NEW YORK, April 17.—(INS.)—Dorothy Chapman, pretty 23-year-old opera singer, announced her engagement today to Claudio Frigerio, former Metropolitan Opera baritone. They will be married in the fall.

SNAKES SCARE MAIL CLERKS

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—(AP.)—Clerks in the information division at the postoffice chopped, whacked and flailed when more than 40 snakes escaped from two tin containers and went wriggling over the floor.

A hurried telephone call brought keepers from the Philadelphia Zoo. The keepers lost little time in rounding up the snakes.

There were snakes in plain gray, brown and green, and fancy spots. Some were three feet long. The first batch squirmed to freedom after John McKeever, a clerk, pulled the lid off one of the cans. The rest escaped as McKeever knocked over the second can in leaping to the top of a desk.

Lila Lee Files Suit For Custody of Son

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—(INS.)—Lila Lee, film actress, today had on file in Superior Court an action to win legal custody of her son, James Kirkwood, Jr., 8. Attorneys for James Kirkwood, the actor, now in New York, said he would oppose the suit of Miss Lee, his former wife.

Downtown Crowds See Rubbish Blaze

Smoke pouring from the basement of a four-story building at 209 Fifth avenue attracted homeward bound theatergoers last night. Firemen said the blaze originated in the basement among rubbish. The damage was slight.

DEATH OF DOGS AIDS WAR ON PNEUMONIA

Physicians Predict Artery Hardening May Be Ended

International News Service.

CHICAGO, April 17.—Experiments that brought death to 16 mongrel dogs but disoovery of a new technique in combating pneumonia in human beings were outlined before members of the American College of Physicians in session here today.

The new method, it was explained by Dr. Simon S. Leopold, of the University of Pennsylvania, is one that had previously been used to treat tuberculosis. It is known as artificial pneumothorax, or the process of collapsing an infected lung by filling the cavity with sterile air.

Not until 36 stray dogs were subjected to the tests were Dr. Leopold and his colleagues convinced that the same treatment could be successfully applied to treatment of pneumonia.

Only three of the 18 dogs whose infected lungs had been deflated died. Of the other group of 18 animals, infected with lobar type pneumonia but not given the treatment, 13 died.

At some time in the future, the 3,000 delegates were told by Dr. Nathan S. Davies III., of Chicago, science will be able to control hardening of arteries by hereditary elements, for the disease is mainly hereditary.

The ailment was described as one of the most feared enemies of the elderly and middle-aged.

Dr. Davis advised that those over 45 should be moderate in all things.

"Sport should be for exercise rather than competition. Eighteen holes of golf is all right if you feel well at the end—but suicidal otherwise."

There is no evidence that tobacco and liquor bring on hardening of the arteries, he explained.

Drug That 'Burns' Fat From Body Revealed

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP.)—Latest test of a new way to get thin—a drug that puts your body under "forced draft" and "burns" the fat off you, making you feel better at the same time—were outlined today to the American College of Physicians.

The drug, one of the chemicals known as "dinitro compounds," can be used to take off any amount of weight desired when used properly, said Dr. Edward L. Bortz of Philadelphia. He warned at the same time, however, that people who use these drugs without a physician's advice are running grave risk of ill health and perhaps death.

The new reducing medicine "lets more air into the furnace." A fat man is like a slow fire burning in a furnace with the damper barely open. His bodily fuel is burned up slowly in the production of heat and energy, which scientists call basal metabolism. The new medicine "opens the damper," and the slow fire burns faster. The fat melts away because the body is producing heat and energy faster than before. Scientists call it accelerating the metabolism.

Buses 'Unsafe,' Charge in Ohio Crash Killing 6

DRIVER WILLIAM DANIELS

Equipment Assailed In Report Made to State March 1

ELYRIA, O., April 17.—(AP.)—Equipment of the Nevin western lines was reported to the Ohio Utilities Commission March 1 as "unfit and unsafe for road service," it was revealed as the Lorain County grand jury was called into special session to investigate the deaths of six persons in a bus-truck collision near here early Sunday.

Charges of manslaughter, meanwhile, were placed against William Daniels, the bus driver, and Andrew Schaffer, driver of a truck which officials say was parked along the road at the place where the accident happened.

The report condemning the bus line's equipment was made by H. W. Cone, inspector for the State Utilities Commission. The commission today ordered Herbert Baker, superintendent of motor transportation, to investigate the crash.

CHARGES DENIED

W. C. McCarthy, general manager of the Nevin Bus Lines, one of whose buses crashed near Elyria, O., Sunday, killing six passenger, issued a statement today denying that the company's equipment "is unfit and unsafe for road service."

McCarthy's statement replied to charges by H. W. Cone, inspector for the Ohio Utilities Commission, in a statement submitted to the commission last March 1, McCarthy said:

"The equipment of the Nevin western lines always has been as fit and safe as it is possible for manufacturers to make it. At no time has a bus not in condition been sent out on a highway."

'BOMBS' CLEAR TWO THEATERS

Several hundred patrons of the Regal and Weiland theaters, in Wilkinsburg, were routed within an hour late last night when two harmless phosphorus bombs were discharged, filling the theaters with smoke.

While police were investigating the incident at the Regal Theater, at 712 Wood street, a second "bomb" was reported to have been set off in the Weiland Theater, at 904 Wood street.

No damage resulted.

Residents Seek Park Enlargement

Drug Trace Sought In Wealthy Man's Mystery Drowning

NORWALK, Conn., April 17.—(AP.)—The familiar police dictum, "cherchez la femme," was taken out of the Arthur Todd mystery today.

Prints of a woman's shoe, and other information that a woman might have had something to do with the 70-year-old man's death last week, had led investigators to hope that solution of the case might be found through a woman.

Lieut. Martin Lengyal, of the Norwalk detectives, dispelled this theory today. The woman, he said, was a casual acquaintance of Todd, and had no connection with the case.

DRIVER TELLS OF MEETING

The driver of a bus told how Todd had alighted from the vehicle in downtown Norwalk last Thursday. A woman left with him, and as they walked away the bus driver heard her say:

"Are you here already?"

This inquiry, Lieut. Lengyal said, indicated (the woman is a resident of Bell Island, where Todd owned a summer place) an expression of surprise that Todd had started for the island so early in the season.

A solution of the tragedy that befell Todd, retired businessman, was sought from two other sources—a study of fingerprints and an examination of the vital organs.

The fingerprints were found on four glasses, an empty bottle and a bottle of whisky in Todd's 21-room summer home on Bell Island, where he rarely entertained and even more rarely drank.

NEW EXAMINATION

The vital organs were examined at the Yale Medical School to determine if Todd had been drugged when he met death in Long Island Sound, at the foot of a retaining wall about a quarter of a mile from his home.

The medical examiner found that Todd, a powerful man for his years, drowned some time between Thursday, when he was last seen alive, and Saturday, when he was found dead.

Whether he was slain, fell or jumped into the sound through a break in the retaining wall, investigators said was still undetermined.

The wallet in which police first estimated that Todd was carrying about $8,000 was found near the spot—empty.

The estate of Todd was estimated at more than $100,000 by one of the trustees. One-third goes to each of his children, K. Stanley Todd, of New Haven, and Mrs. Ethel Hames Merritt, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and the rest to the children of a third child, the late John Todd.

MILLENS JOKE WAITING JURY

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

DEDHAM, Mass., April 17.—Three alleged young machine gun killers—the brothers, Murton and Irving Millen, and Abe Faber—today yawned and wisecracked in their iron prisoner's cage as the selection of a jury was begun at their murder trial.

The trio is charged with killing Patrolman Forbes MacLeod during an audacious holdup of the Needham Trust Company. A second policeman also was slain.

Abe Faber, as usual was the most dapper of the three defendants. He wore a new suit. His little moustache was neatly trimmed.

The Millen brothers both have a crop of black curly hair. They brush their hands quickly through it every so often.

Norma Brighton Millen, daughter of a minister and 19-year-old bride of Murton, is to go on trial next on the charge of being an accessory after the fact in the robbery. She was less nervous today and her dash of hysterics was gone. Norma embroidered quietly in her cell. She is decorating linen for her stepmother.

Pageant to Depict Education History

Celebrating the hundredth anniversary of education in Pennsylvania, Duquesne High School will present an historical pageant at the school at 7:30 p. m. today and tomorrow.

More than 400 will be in the cast of the show, written by the faculty and students, and opening with a scene of the first school in Mifflin Township in 1837.

Flaming Youth Tragedy Told by Playing Cards

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—The ace, the deuce and the trey of hearts, taken from a deck of playing cards, today had served as mute evidence of a flaming youth tragedy that brought death to Dorothy Smith, 20, and placed Charles Johnson, 22, the former sweetheart whom she refused a farewell kiss, in the shadow of the gallows. Johnson wrote on the ace:

"Here is my heart. It is yours. Do with it as you will. Crush it. Break it. Tear it apart or kiss it. It beats for you alone."

An on the deuce:

"This is our heart. As we were once. Two minds with but a single thought. Two hearts that beat as one."

The youth scrawled these words on the trey:

"This signifies the things that might have been. A little piggy of our own."

Then because she refused to kiss him goodbye and again declined to marry him, ordering him to "get out," Johnson assertedly shot the girl with a borrowed gun in her Monrovia apartment. Yesterday Dorothy died.

Voliva Loses Election, Closes Schools

International News Service.

ZION CITY, Ill., April 17.—Wilbur Glenn Voliva's schools where they teach pupils that the world is flat as a pancake and not round like an apple were closed today.

The closing order came after Voliva threatened to "crack down" on Zion unless his school board candidates were re-elected. In all, 1,300 pupils were told to take their books home and stay there for the rest of the school year.

In last Saturday's contests the voters defeated Sylvester De Pew, president of the board, and two of Voliva's board members.

Voliva took a leading part in the campaign for De Pew's re-election and before election said that in the event of De Pew's defeat he would "crack the town wide open."

The notice of the school shutdown said:

"Because of a shortage of funds the city of Zion cannot afford to support the schools further this year."

M'LEOD TAKES BANK FIGHT TO ROOSEVELT

port of a rule allowing the McLeod bill to be reported for consideration. If the committee fails to act before April 20 a petition for the discharge of the committee will be placed on the Speaker's desk and the action of the House in the case of the Banking and Currency Committee's maneuvers last week will be repeated.

Friends of the McLeod bill say that there is no question about getting the necessary 145 signers to have the Rules Committee discharged.

At the office of Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, today it was denied that he has declared that assets of closed banks exceeded by one billion dollars enough funds to pay off deposits of $2,500 or less.

PARTY ON DEFENSIVE

The demand sweeping the country for relief of depositors admittedly has put the administration on the defense. Democratic chiefs were being bombarded from all sides for the bill. Letters and telegrams poured in by the scores. A militant band of House members will fight adjournment until the bill is voted on.

At the same time, a powerful administration agency, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, indicated it was ready to go to the relief of depositors. The relief, however, would be far more meager than provided in the McLeod bill for 100 per cent payoff.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, although he has publicly opposed the McLeod bill, declined to say whether he disapproved the principle or would indorse a modified measure. Advocates found encouragement in this statement and readily indicated their desire to meet the administration half way in working out a satisfactory bill.

Pay Bank Depositors

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS:

As an important help toward national recovery, the undersigned urge passage of the bill introduced by Representative McLeod, now before Congress, which provides for paying in full depositors of closed banks which belonged to the Federal Reserve System.

Toward this end we urge that the RFC make loan arrangements with the closed banks.

This procedure would give positive stimulus to business by converting frozen, idle and at present useless bank deposits into immediately available purchasing power.

We urge immediate Congressional action on the bill introduced by Representative McLeod.

FIVE BOYS HELD IN CAR THEFT

A short time after police broadcast a description of Tom Salvo, 18, of 1706 Locust street, and Sam Terisi, 18, of 65 Van Braam street, reported missing from their homes, Oakland police said they had the pair under arrest, charged with the theft of an automobile.

Held with them were three others, Melvin Keene, 18, of 51 Van Braam street; Michael George, 18, of 1626 Forbes street, and Donald Derarei, 17, of 1318 Ivanhoe street.

The five, police said, were arrested after their automobile was wrecked in the Boulevard of the Allies, near Dawson street. The auto and license plates had been stolen, according to police.

Speakers from all parts of the country will address the sessions on the latest developments in the industry. Exhibits also will be a feature of the meeting. Frank A. Hornstein is president of the organization.

Dr. Martin to Lead Seminar on Sabbath

More than a score of North Side churches will participate in a seminar on the Christian Sabbath April 23 to 27 in the Community House of the First United Presbyterian Church, Union avenue.

Dr. R. H. Martin, president of the National Reform Association, will lead the meetings, his address each night to be followed by an open forum. Among subjects are "The Day—Its Contribution to American Life," "Blue Laws," "Sunday Amusements and Sports," and "How to Save the Sabbath to America."

McLaglen Upheld In Film Scuffle

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—(AP.)—After telling how Victor McLaglen, movie actor, struck him in the face during a horse racing scene in which they appeared, Thomas R. W. Hughes, English character actor, lost his $10,382 damage suit against McLaglen today. A non-suit was ordered.

McLaglen testified he was merely following the director's orders to exhibit enthusiasm during the running of a make-believe horse race and did not know Hughes was injured.

LAWYER FLAYS MAGISTRATES

Pittsburgh's Police Courts and the minor judiciary of Allegheny County in general were subjected to a severe criticism today by Attorney William S. Doty.

Doty, prominent member of the bar association, spoke before the Legislative Council, an organization of women, at a meeting in the Board of Education Building.

He declared that Mayor William N. McNair had failed to keep pre-election promises to appoint only attorneys to the magistrate's court, adding that Police Court magistrates, squires and aldermen know little or nothing about law and deprive defendants of constitutional rights in forcing them to testify against themselves.

Elimination of the fee system of compensation for squires and aldermen was urged by Doty.

BANKING PLANS APPROVED

A plan for the reorganization of the National Bank of America at Pittsburgh has been approved by Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor.

The bank, formerly located at 709-711 East Ohio street, was closed during the bank holiday a year ago. It had deposits of $3,500,000. It has been operated since by Conservator T. W. Friend.

Under the plan of reorganization, according to George G. Schmidt, cashier of the bank, new capital of $250,000 must be raised. Of this, $125,000 would be preferred stock which would be subscribed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and $125,000 in common stock to be sold locally.

'Silver Shirt' Plea Fought in State

HARRISBURG, April 17.—(INS.)—Secretary of State Richard J. Beamish today announced April 25 as the date for a public hearing on the application of the Silver Shirts Legion of America to register in Pennsylvania.

Application for registration was made by William Dudley Pelley and H. F. Sieber, of Asheville, N. C. Opposition has been filed by the Jewish war veterans of Philadelphia. State Senators Harry Shapiro and Samuel W. Salus and Judges Harry S. McDevitt and Joseph Kun, all of Philadelphia.

SPADES GARDEN, FINDS GOLD

Florence Forest, 30, unemployed huckster's helper, today became a firm believer in dreams, and his mother, Mrs. Mathilda Forest, was all ready to plant a new lawn in her yard at 232 Cedarville street, following a record-breaking "spading" race.

Mr. Forest

Florence dreamed Sunday night that he would find $10—and he did.

Mrs. Forest had unsuccessfully urged her son for weeks to spade the back yard. Yesterday he tackled the job.

Almost the first spadeful of dirt yielded a $10 gold piece, coined in 1881, and crusted with dirt.

Neighbors, hopeful of finding more of the "buried treasure," joined with pick and shovel. They didn't find any more gold, but Mrs. Forest's yard was spaded at last.

POWER TRUST REVELATIONS SCANNED

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP.)—A lull in its investigation of the Associated Gas and Electric Company today gave the Federal Trade Commission time to study testimony to date and further prepare its witnesses for a related New York inquiry.

The hearings brought out:

1—Letters said by witnesses to have passed between Associated and W. T. Thayer, New York State Senator. The New York scouting of Thayer's activities resulted. The commission has attempted to show by times during its investigation that utility companies have attempted to prevent degislation they believed harmful.

2—Total valuation write-ups of some $88,000,000 by E. J. Cheney, an appraiser described by a commission investigator as being controlled by Associated. This is part of more than a billion in write-ups so far brought to light by the commission. High valuations theoretically result in high rates to consumers.

3—What was described as plan of the power industry to establish utility executives in each state to make contact with educational administrative officers. The commission has heard a wide range of testimony concerning the alleged employment of college professors, writers, and so on in the utilities' efforts to convince the public of the correctness of their activities.

N. Y. Senator Admits Letters to Power Firm

ALBANY, N. Y., April 17.—(AP.)—State Senator Warren T. Thayer readily admitted to the Senate Judiciary Committee yesterday that he corresponded with the Associated Gas and Electric Company when he was chairman of the Senate's Public Service Committee, but denied that this made him guilty of misconduct.

His admission was promptly challenged by counsel to the committee as "not wholehearted" and "evasive." Thayer was charged with seeking to obstruct a broad investigation into his relations with the utility company.

The afternoon hearing, first in the Thayer investigation, was marked by a brush between Paul J. McCauley, counsel to the committee, and Senator George R. Fearon, Republican minority leader, a member of the committee. The hearing later was adjourned until May 7.

DELAY DETROIT TOOL STRIKE

International News Service.

DETROIT, April 17.—The threatened general strike of automotive tool and die makers was postponed today.

Mathew Smith, executive secretary of the Mechanics Educational Society of America, independent union, announced shortly after noon that the general strike would be withheld for the time being.

Smith said meetings will be called in all automobile plants in the Detroit area this week, at which the MESA members in each plant will vote on the general strike proposal. The purpose of this move, he said, is to take a referendum of the entire membership, rather than leave the decision up to committees.

At the same time he announced that the entire day shift at the Gorman Tool and Die Company, one of the larger shops supplying the auto parts, had walked out today because the company refused to recognize the union.

RWD WORKERS GET SLASH IN PAY

When the employes of the administrative office of Allegheny County's Relief Works Division are handed their pay checks today they will find they have been given reductions ranging from 10 to 12 per cent, it was announced by Philip H. Lantz, deputy administrator.

The checks, Lantz said, should have been given out Saturday, but the resultant confusion in changing over from the Civil Works Administration to RWD and the reduction in pay ordered by state officials prevented their distribution.

DELAYS JOBS

Because the checks were not given out in time, 15 contact men attached to the administrative office could not buy gasoline for their cars which they used to travel to the various jobs throughout the county, Lantz said. The contact men are assigned to check and assign men at new projects. The 15 men, according to Lantz, are "sitting around" waiting their pay.

Lantz said that the blank checks had arrived Saturday, but following the checks came instructions to lower the pay of administrative employes. The time required to draw up new pay schedules for the 385 administrative workers caused the delay in paying, he said.

The checks which the workers are to receive today are for the period from April 2 to April 12.

CROWD RELIEF ROLLS

Hundreds of jobless who are unable to obtain work under the new RWD program are being added daily to relief rolls, George P. Mills, emergency relief director, revealed today.

During the past week, 1,736 cases directly attributable to loss of CWA employment were added to the relief list, he said.

They comprised more than half the new cases added during the week. Many of the remaining 1,201 new cases were those of men who had fought to keep off relief in the hope of obtaining government work, he said.

Lantz termed the situation "most distressing."

PUBLIC HEARING ON RELIEF

A public hearing on emergency relief in Allegheny County will be held in the Council chambers in City-County Building Thursday afternoon.

Announcing the meeting, Joseph A. Rectenwald, chairman of the state legislative committee on relief investigation, said:

"All persons who have a grievance or specific charges against the administration of relief are urged to appear in person at the hearing."

'RACES OF MAN' ART WORKS COMMENDED

By PENELOPE REDD

The thousands who already have seen the plaster history of the "Races of Man" in the sculptures by Malvina Hoffman at the Field Museum will welcome the opportunity to inspect at leisure in Pittsburgh 55 of these bronzes reduced in scale from the life-size ones owned in Chicago. The collection is at the Carnegie Institute through May 13.

Miss Redd.

Miss Hoffman, who has always been interested in reality in her sculpture and who is our first woman art explorer, was commissioned to bring into being a long cherished plan. Dr. Berthold Laufer, Curator of Anthropology at Field Museum, and Sir Arthur Keith, British authority on anthropology, were her scientific mentors.

Dr. Laufer evidently was determined to avoid the awkward plaster casts adorned in costume and rightly believed as Miss Hoffman's sculptures prove, that art was a more sympathetic method of presentation. His comment impresses one with the significance of Miss Hoffman's achievement. He said:

"With the advance of our civilization and the white man's expansion all over the globe many primitive tribes are now doomed to extinction and are gradually dying out. It may be questioned whether any vestiges of the life and culture of primitive man will have remained on this earth by the time the following century arrives."

Dr. Laufer concludes with the declaration the many a vanishing race will continue to live only in Miss Hoffman's racial portraits.

Sir Arthur Keith likewise praises Miss Hoffman's work:

"We professional anthropologists can never hope to obtain by mere measurements the accuracy of racial portraiture which comes by instinct to the true artist. I hold that the busts, figures and groups modeled by Malvina Hoffman are priceless registers of anthropological fact and in the full sense of the term are scientific documents as well as the finest racial portraiture that the world has seen."

In lending the services of her art to the exact requirements of science, Miss Hoffman has chosen the geographically near as well as the remote primitive peoples.

DON'T GAMBLE ON OLD TIRES!

PUT ON NEW GOODYEARS RIGHT NOW

"There's a tread with GRIP"

MAYBE this will surprise you but—you're taking a double gamble wearing out old tires this Spring—the gamble of a price increase greater than what your present tires may be worth, added to the gamble of accident.

That's the situation—with tires priced ridiculously low—with rubber, cotton, wages and other costs often as much as doubled—with Goodyear quality at new high peaks.

And that's why smart folk are putting on new Goodyears these days—full sets!—at really bargain cost they're protecting their safety for a long time to come.

Better get our prices on your size—and let us show you why more people are buying Goodyears than any other tire, for the nineteenth successive year.

Play safe on prices, on driving, on quality—let us equip your car with new Goodyears right now!

SPEED 50,000 INCREASE IN ARMY ROLLS

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Hailed by the chief of staff as offering a cure for present "glaring weakness" in national defense, a bill was introduced in the House to add 50,000 men to the standing Army.

Representative Clark W. Thompson (Dem.) of Texas, who introduced the bill, was immediately assured of powerful and widespread support.

The bill will go today to a subcommittee of the House Military Affairs Committee headed by Representative McSwain (Dem.), of South Carolina, and it may reach public hearing before the full committee as soon as tomorrow.

SUPPORT PLEDGED

Although support for the bill was enthusiastically promised from many quarters, one of the first large organizations to throw its entire weight behind it was the Reserve Officers' Association, whose national president, Col. L. K. Williams, conferred with Representative Thompson.

Shortly after the bill was introduced Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the Army's chief of staff, told Universal Service:

"Enactment of this bill into law would correct a very glaring and critical weakness on land defense establishment."

The Thompson bill was hailed both as an aid to unemployment in that recruiting would be done from relief rolls, and as a forward stride toward adequate national defense. Commenting on the bill, Gen. MacArthur said the Army was now "below the danger line" and too small to perform its mission.

SPEEDY ACTION

Shortly after he introduced the bill Representative Thompson said:

"We want to get action as soon as possible. This would not only strengthen our national defense but would be a great aid in the relief movement and would actually save the government money, as it costs more to keep a man on relief or in the CCC than in the Army.

"The bill would not give us a big Army but only a moderate one. Counting in the National Guard, it would still be only a little more than half the strength authorized by the National Defense Act."

Col. Williams, after conferring with Representative Thompson and agreeing that legislative action should be sought at this session, said:

"My association, which has more than 25,000 members, but which President Roosevelt has recognized as representing all the 120,000 reserve officers, will give its full support to this bill."

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS :-:

Gossip Flies Fast on Changes Looming In Cabinet

MURMURINGS

WASHINGTON, April 16.—There is more or less authentic gossip among the New Deal elite about the possibility of changes in the cabinet.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau is supposed to harbor a secret ambition to be ambassador to Paris some day. His Treasury job is rather dull and will become duller. He has been getting along all right in it, but he does not appear to be having much fun.

It is notable that he has left the post of first assistant secretary vacant for an amazingly long time now. That fact has encouraged some of those close to him to suspect that he did not want to make a choice because he planned to get out at the first opportunity and desired to leave the choice to his successor.

Jesse Straus, the Paris ambassador, has been in ill health and his resignation is even now somewhat overdue.

TRIPLE SWITCH

There also has been some inside talk about a switch involving Attorney General Cummings, District Attorney Martin Conboy, of New York, and ex-Prosecutor Pecora of the Senate Stock Market Committee.

The White House is quite ill pleased with Cummings, but some of the New Dealers have a feeling that the administration of justice is no place for a political leader. They have no particular incident in mind, but they think that the justice situation does not exactly fit into he picure President Roosevelt has been trying to paint of the New Deal.

These people have been conducting virtually an under ground campaign to make Cummings the new chairman of the Democratic National Committee, or Governor General of the Philippines. The Governor Generalship is the post for which he was originally slated. It is now filled.

CONBOY ON SLATE

If Cummings goes, Conboy undoubtedly will get the job. He has been an intimate friend of the President for many years.

That switch would open the way for the administration to carry out the original intention of making Peroca district attorney in New York City. His friends confidently expected he would get the job at the time Conboy got it.

At that time, however, he was deeply involved in the Senate stock market matter. Now he is free.

Such changes would be considered as permanent reorganization corrections, now that the emergency has passed. They would afford a better rounded front for the administration for the long haul.

ROMANCE

You will see on the front pages before long a story about the forthcoming marriage of the widow of a nationally known Republican figure. The bridegroom is another nationally known Republican.

VENDETTA

The legal divisions in the various government departments will set up a cheer at any change in the Justice Department.

Men like Richberg in the NRA, Margold in the Interior, Frank in AAA and Oliphant in the Treasury are more or less disgusted with the Justice attitude.

That is the real reason why Richberg set up the extensive legal division in the NRA. He could not get any co-operation out of the Justice Department. At least, he felt he could not.

The ice code situation is what pained Richberg most. The NRA made recommendations to the Justice Department for prosecutions. The Department of Justice did not like the case and neglected to institute any proceedings.

HUEY

The administration groups generally believe that Huey Long is on the way out, but apparently Huey does not. He is planning to branch out.

His pals talk in whispers about dreams he still harbors for a Southern political empire such as this country never has seen. They grow enthusiastic when they suggest that he will go into Mississippi this time against Senator Pat Harrison. They assert he already has a foothold there (the Governor is friendly), as well as in Arkansas (he elected Hattie Caraway), Texas, Alabama and probably even Tennessee. They say Huey has not yet decided whether the time is ripe for going into Tennessee in a big way, but he will eventually.

They laugh off his New Orleans mayoralty defeat. They say Huey never had New Orleans with him in any election.

The administration crowd does not take much stock in the Long empire possibilities, but it is watching them warily.

NOTES

Inside preparations are going on every day to make a big ballyhoo out of the new home building program. That is the main thing which took Gen. Johnson down South to see the President . . . The Cleveland indictments against Joe Nutt, O. P. Van Sweringen and the bank president were the ones referred to in the prophecy three weeks ago that three new indictments were coming against a nationally-known Republican figure and two business men . . . The Wagner bill is thoroughly bottled up in the Senate committee. The inside plan is to prevent it from getting to the floor for a vote. It might pass if voted on, but a number of Senators apparently believe it is a bad time to consider such legislation with the Congressional election coming on . . . A certain wealthy lawyer had $200 in gold and was determined that the government should not get it. He took the gold to a poor friend and said: "I was going to throw this in the river rather than let the government get it, but I will give it to you." The friend melted the gold coin and made a paperweight which now adorns the lawyer's desk.

BLAINE, FORMER SENATOR, DIES

International News Service.

BOSCOBEL, Wis., April 17.—Funeral services for John J. Blaine, 58, former United States Senator and at his death last night a director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, today were set for Thursday.

Death came to Mr. Blaine at his home here after a week-long fight against bronchial pneumonia that developed when he came to Madison for a conference of RFC officials.

Five specialists attending him had noted a steady improvement in his condition, but a sudden relapse occurred and Mr. Blaine died at 8:45 p. m. Oxygen had been administered at intervals.

As a protege and close associate of the late Senator Robert M. La Follette, he won the Republican nomination in 1920 for the governorship. He was elected and twice re-elected.

Three Women Hurt In Crash of Autos

Three women were injured late last night in a collision of automobiles in Sixth street between Penn and Liberty avenues. One of the injured was Mrs. H. Bloom, of 5639 Forward avenue, driver of one machine. The others were Helen Reed, 28, and Frances Caplan, 45, both of Washington, passengers in the automobile of Harry C. Walker, also of Washington.

NILA PROPOSED, CABIN BOY DECLARES

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP.)—Albert N. Hutchins, late ship's cabin boy, today gave his version of the start of his romance with Nila Cram Cook, who now seeks an annulment of their marriage.

In a copyrighted story in the Chicago Herald and Examiner, Hutchins was quoted as saying that the initiative came from the former disciple of Ghandi.

He told of receiving a note from her on board the ship on which the former Iowan was ordered deported from England and on which he was a steward. It was brought to him by another steward. Hutchins called the note "the first undeniable sign that she had her eye on me." He said:

"I remember seing her come on board. She kept her eyes closed—and I wondered why. For five days she remained in her cabin."

The first note, he said, declared her love for him and that she was looking forward to seeing him. In it she asserted she could do nothing but dream of him all the time, he said.

Hutchins said he believed the note was a hoax until one night they met in the corridor of the steward's quarters, and she proposed they get married. He said:

"It startled me, I was not prepared for such a proposal. But she repeated it on several occasions, and I finally suggested that we might have a trial marriage."

The answer to that suggestion, he said, came in another letter. She spurned the idea, he related, and wrote in poetic phrases of his "wonderful strong shoulders."

Hutchins said he did not intend to give his wife grounds for a divorce and that there could be no annulment.

Nila's 'Dream Man' Prince of India

NEW YORK, April 17.—(Universal.)—Nila Cram Cook said yesterday she married Al Hutchins, her cabin boy sweetheart, because he was a baffified symbol of the beaten people of the earth.

And she will try to have the marriage annuled, she giggled, because he foolishly resented her love for the universe, and was jealous of her creative work that never will be done.

The swirly-haired American girl who was one of Mahatma Gandhi's disciples and the heroine of a dozen Indian escapades said today:

"I married Al because I promised my dream man—my eternal dream man—that I would marry a symbol of the underdogs of the world.

"I love Al as I love reporters and the world and the universe."

Nila stubbornly refused to name her "dream man."

Then she murmured with her ceaseless giggle:

"He is an Indian prince of high degree and his people chant before and behind him as he walks:

"'All hail to the Maharajah . . . All hail to the Mararajah'."

The interview was conducted under difficulties. Mrs. Hutchins' son by a previous marriage pelted reporters with banana peels. This amused his mother, who supplied him with the ammunition.

Miss Dorothy Moulton, dramatic coach, will direct the production.

PARROTS LISTED WITH CITY

More than 100 reports from parrot owners have been received in the city Bureau of Infectious Diseases, which is enforcing the new ordinance designed to control psittacosis.

All birds of the psittacine family must be reported to health authorities along with the date purchased and the shop from which they were bought.

The health department has the authority to destroy such birds brought to Pittsburgh after January 1, 1933. Through an error this date was printed Monday as January 1, 1932. Fourteen months is considered the period during which the birds can carry the infection.

Divorces Sought by Six; Four Granted

Six new suits for divorce were on file in Common Pleas Court today and four decrees had been granted.

The new suits were filed by Rose Berman against Max Berman, Wesley Jordan against Corine Jordan, John W. McNutt, Jr., against Christena McNutt, Anna I. Harrigan against William C. Harrigan, Helen B. Caffell against Goeffrey Caffell and by Florence R. Carson against Jack Carson.

Divorces were granted to Jane Bair from John C. Bair, Jr., Susan Wagner from Julius J. Wagner, Roberta F. McGinnis from Joseph D. McGinnis and to Anna F. Muhl from Frank B. Muhl.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

Things I Never Knew 'Til Now

(Which just goes to show you!)

Vito Orofino, an Italian, of New York, says that many Italians believe if you have your hair cut on the first Friday in March—that you will never have a headache the rest of the year. (Oh, sure.)

It gets 30 below in Florida. (A town in New York State.)

Part of the Pacific Ocean is East of New York City!

It's against the law for women to wear trousers in Big Lake, Ark.

A course for janitors was recently conducted at the North Carolina State College. (It's about time!)

An egg sandwich often stops that ill feeling when drunk.

Amber beads, to obtain a high gloss, should be washed in milk.

Cream in your coffee increases the stimulant, according to a scientific research at Oklahoma City. (How uninteresting!)

A Cairo, Ill., guy has been married four times to girls named Alice. (The last part of the column is much better.)

A feller named William O'Brien, of Chicago, got 25 years in jail, and laughed. (Bullet wounds gave him a year to live!)

Municipal office workers in Rome are allowed five hours for lunch during the summer months. (Probably to outfumble for the check.)

A Richmond, Va., woman mortally wounded a man and what do you think? (She was found guilty and fined one cent!)

Choir singers with bobbed hair are barred from a certain religious group. (I could do card tricks, but for all I know there may be a lotta spies around.)

Ladies who wish to remain slim, or who are reducing, should not drink Alexander cocktails, one of the more popular drinks, because the cream in them naturally encourage tonnage.

There is only one Scotchman connected with Scotland Yard! (He is Superintendent Lauder.)

Alice Hawthorne, who wrote the wordage to "Listen to the Mocking Bird," was in reality, Richard Millburn, who wrote the music.

A woman graduated from a St. Louis public school at the age of 42. (Oh, I read it some place!)

Among other rulings at the gay Deauville Casino is that no woman may come in with naked limbs—(very low gowns, okay, though.)

Under St. Ann's Church in Heidelberg, there is a keg containing 18,600 gallons of wine. (I like the next line better.)

They bathe in lemon juice in the West Indies because it refreshes the skin. (Show this to a clarinetist while he's clarineting!)

The canary will sing if you rub a damp cork on a glass or a bottle. (If that fails be sure and waste stamps telling me.)

And in that ditty called "My Little Grass Shack in Hawaii," the line reading, "Huma, Huma, Nuka, Nuka, Apuaa," meaning the smallest fish in Hawaiian waters—and the "Mu" is the largest!

The most useful of my recent birthday gifts came from the Universal Service correspondent, James Cannon, who brought this batch of observations entitled: "How They Look to Me from a Ringside Seat."

Dorothy Parker: A china doll whose little girl mother has grown tired of ner . . . Helen Hayes: Anybody's older sister.

Helen Morgan: Camille in waltz-time . . . Paul Whiteman: The maitre d' hotel in the town's classiest beanery . . . John Barrymore: A bad actor's conception of a good one . . . Theodore Dreiser: A gold mine whose ship came in . . . Dudley Field Malone: Robin Hood's pal, the jolly friar . . . Primo Carnera: The ogre who lived in the beanstalk Jack chopped down . . . Clara Bow: Rainy sunset.

Huey Long: A jester in marble halls . . . Fanny Hurst: The villainess in the old-fashioned melodrama . . . Kate Smith: The girl next door who minds the neighbor's babies.

Nancy Carroll: The girl on the billboard—any billboard . . . Ernest Hemingway: A tough guy in a tuxedo . . . George Jean Nathan: A blizzard in a high hat . . . Jack Pearl: A picket in the garment center strikes . . . Mary Brian: The belle of the high school . . . Prof. Einstein: The leader of the backyard German band . . . Eddie Horton Signs Pact To Star

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, April 13.—Hello! Stirring up the Blvd. mixing bowl of latest gab and newsy stuff . . . Bouncing Edward Everett Horton, the clever comedian of the "double-take" (meaning quick second glance), wore out a perfectly good fountain pen signing contracts at Paramount. Eddie's set for stellar roles in "Kiss and Make Up," a comedy-drammer of the cosmetic racket; and another title ditty called "Should Ladies Listen," in which he can clown to his heart's content. . . .

Wynne Gibson's life is just one thrill after another—the other day, while out giddy-up trotting, she saw, stopped and conquered a nifty rattlesnake to the tune of 13 buzzers!

Arriving home after a downtown shopping tour, she found her house full of bees! Quickly seizing the maid's vacuum cleaner, Wynne captured all the stingers—and once again proved that "necessity is the mother of invention."

In case you ever need a beetrap, use Wynne's "invention." There are no patents pending.

* * *

Wandering around Hollywood . . . E. M. Asher, Universal's Don Juan, and Peggy Gottler, are definitely on romantic ice! . . . Jean Muir, who causes Milton Sperling, Hal Wallis' secretary, an extra heart beat, always rehearses her dialogue in front of four mirrors—so she gets an idea of all camera angles. . . Lupe Velez and Adrienne Ames have leased Walter Muller's beach house, and will use Johnny Weissmuller as a lifeguard and Bruce Cabot to watch the house. . . Carol Lincoln has landed a nifty role in "The Merry Widow" at M-G-M. Incidentaly, Director Lubitsch has decided to do away with the villian's role (silently portrayed by Roy d'Arcy) . . . Hal Wallis, the Warner production boss, has purchased "Big Hearted Herbert" as a stellar flicker for Guy Kibbee . . . Adolphe Menjou took Verree Teasdale to the circus, buying her balloons and pink lemonade! . . . Little Dickie Moore has scarlet-fever! . . . Gail Patrick, the "Panther Woman," is calling Lyle Talbot her "Tiger Man!" . . .

Super-snoopings . . . Gwen Lee, the blonde vamp of some years ago, is attempting a cinema comeback . . . Rochelle Hudson has gone in for wooden jewelry—a present from that New York boy friend . . . Franchot Tone is working at Fox, and the entire studio is practically agog because Joan Crawford is sending him gardenias daily! . . . Joseph Jefferson O'Neill (but you can call him Joe), formerly one of the big town's best newshawks, is playing technical advisor for "Manhattan melodrama" at M-G-M.

Two Districts to See 'Second Man'

Wednesday and Thursday evenings, April 25 and 26, the Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse will present "The Second Man," by S. N. Behrman, in the Brookline School. On Monday evening, April 30, it will be staged in the Frick School in Oakland. The Playhouse presented "Second Man" for a week during its summer season last year, and also in Wheeling.

Thriller

Frank Buck, trapper of jungle beasts, whose "Bring 'Em Back Alive" thrilled film audiences, will be seen in another picture record of his hazardous work, "Wild Cargo," coming Friday to the Stanley.

Dancing Girls Vie In Variety Show

"The Beauty Parade, current in the Variety, has several girls vieing for top dance honors. Among them is Tiny "Ginger" Huff, in "The Dance of the Nile. Another stepping specialty is the "Sultan's Delight," by Darlin' Lucky. Honey Bee Keller, called "The Mae West of Burlesque," is featured in the show. Ann Mitchell, Frances McAvoy and Reggie "Tassels" White are other dancers. The comedy part of the show features Max Furman, George Murray, Joe De Rita and Abe Sher. Al Golden, straightman, and Jack Ryan also are prominent.

Epworthian Players Offer Comedy

The Epworthian Players will present "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" in the Nixon tonight for the benefit of the Epworth Woods Farm for Undernourished Children. The cast includes John J. Davis, Dorothy Ackley, Marie Seaberg, Margaret Doescher, June Williams, Wilda Morris, H. B. Trautman, Lionel Poulten, Ralph Davis, Charles Neilson, David Aitken, Helen Levens and Clarence Herisko. It is under the direction of D. M. Hall.

Newman Cast In French Farce

By E. REEVES COCHRAN

The Newman Players, under the direction of Madeleine Skelly Foust, last evening offered the fourth in their season of six productions at the Cathedral High School.

An old French farce, "Master Pierre Patelin," of fifteenth century vintage by an unknown author, was the vehicle and it proved hardly stout enough to carry a modern evening's entertainment.

As an example of elementary farce it was interesting, but a story of a lawyer who swindled six yards of cloth from a merchant, with no slight suggestion even of romance or love interest, is hardly worth more than one act, and spun out to three it becomes painfully thin.

The setting of a market place done by Gerald A. Doran was excellent, and the costumes by Catherine Delaney were picturesque and colorful. The lighting effects were uneven in quality, and the production failed to prove that footlights are unnecessary in the theater.

Roy Henry gave an original and amusing interpretation of the title role, although it seemed hardly probable that he was the type the author had conjured. Clarissa Gailliot acted the one feminine character with assurance and success.

Michael Healy, as the merchant, and Donald Sanker, as the judge, added color to the picture, while Joseph Mackil in a small part did the most convincing bit of acting in the play. The performance will be repeated tonight.

Notes About New Bills

"Six of a Kind," with Mary Boland and Charlies Ruggle in the featured roles, will open tomorrow at the Enright.

* * *

"Coming Out Party," with Frances Dee and Gene Raymond in the starring roles, is the next picture coming to the Fulton screen. Miss Dee plays a rich society girl who falls in love with Gene Raymond, a poor lad feeling that their respective social standings are a bar to marriage.

* * *

George Raft, Adolphe Menjou and Frances Drake have the principal roles in "The Trumpet Blows," screen attraction coming to the Penn Friday. Raft plays a Mexican educated to become a "gentleman," but he falls in love with Frances Drake. Learning that she also loves his brother, Adolphe Menjou, he takes up bullfighting. "Fifty Million Frenchmen" will be the stage attraction.

* * *

"Wild Cargo," new animal picture, with Frank Buck, will come to the Stanley Friday. The picture shows how wild animals are captured for zoological gardens.

* * *

"A Very Honorable Guy," with Joe E. Brown, is a farce comedy coming to the Warner screen Friday. Brown plays a gambler who sells his body to raise cash. Alice White is the girl he loves.

* * *

Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert are featured in "It Happened One Night," photo play opening Friday in the Seridan Square. It is a comedy romance.

Mimic

Venita Gould, featured in "Fifty Million Frenchmen," stage presentation coming to the Penn Friday, is a comic whose characterizations include such widely varied types as George Arliss and Mae West.

'Henry IV, Part Two,' Played By Tech Students

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Presented in the Elizabethan manner," to quote the program, which, to revive the spirit, also was done in the quaint style of printing that prevailed in the period of Queen Bess, the second part of "Henry IV" was produced on a scale comparable to that of a Ziegfeld revue by the Department of Drama, Carnegie Institute of Technology, last night. If you understand our meaning, in all its implications, you can get some idea of the pleasure of the houseful in attendance when we state that we can echo the sentiment of that audience with the terse comment—"Hurrah for the Elizabethan manner!"

Besides the elaborate production, and a fine performance by a cast representing 47 speaking characters, and scores of lords, attendants, officers, soldiers, messengers, street dancers, citizens, etc., there was the complete text of the play, as written by Shakespeare, with the omission of not a word, to enthrall not merely seekers of an evening's entertainment, but the veriest stickler of a Shakespearean student. The opulence of it was enough to amaze those accustomed to seeing presented cut versions of plays of the Bard.

Incidentally, it, in a manner, completed a circle of historic kings that have come to notice recently. Last week we saw Richard of Bordeaux deposed by Bolingbroke, who became Henry IV. Last night we heard that monarch bemoaning the uneasiness of the head that wears a crown in the beautiful soliloquy extolling the blessedness of sleep. And when he passed we saw that troublesome crown upon the head of another Henry—the fifth of that name.

"Henry IV" is really two plays in one, the dramatic story of a monarch and his rebellious subjects, with the reformation of his harum-scarum son from a ne'er-do-well to a regal person, and a farce dealing with the escapades of that fat and merry knight, Sir John Falstaff.

Falstaff, the liar and boaster, is really the leading character of the play. The king seems the puppet and the subject the monarch—and a veritable Old King Cole is he. This was the fine characterization of Franklin Heller.

Space permits mention, without detail, of only a few of those who deserve fuller credit, including William Beal, John Dawson, Walter Derdeyn, William Bales, George McCalmon, Audrey Kelly, Louise Suess, Jean Speller and David Preston.

An orchid to B. Iden Payne for direction.

All In A Day

By MARK HELLINGER

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"DEAR MARK:" writes Leonard Lyons. "It happened down at Union Square the other day. A tall, bedraggled man was orating about the evils of the capitalistic system.

"Only five or six listeners stood before the platform when he began to speak, but his eloquence quickly attracted a crowd. Then the Communist swung into literary action with a vengeance.

"'I've got a wife and two kids,' he shouted, 'but due to the capitalistic propaganda to keep the working class unemployed, we are starving!

"'Look at my clothes; they are tattered and torn! Look at my shirt; it's the only one I own! Look at my shoes; the soles are worn clean through! Mass action, comrades, is what we need. A United Front! Militant pressure!"

"The crowd applauded vigorously as the speaker stepped down. Another man—well dressed—approached him.

"'My name is Jones,' said the newcomer. 'I'm the president of the Jones Manufacturing Company. I was very much interested in your speech, and I think I have just the right job for you. Are you interested?'

"'A job?' replied the Communist suspiciously. 'What kind of a job?'

"'Well,' said Mr. Jones, 'you seem to be able to handle men pretty well. There's an opening for a good foreman in my plant. The hours are from 9 to 5. You only work five days a week, and the salary is $40. Does that sound interesting enough?'

"The Communist nodded slowly.

"'Good,' Mr. Jones went on. 'Here's my card—and whenever you're ready to begin, call at this address. There's just one thing, though, that I think I ought to mention.'

"'What's that' asked the Red.

"'It's about my other employes,' said Mr. Jones. 'They're very much satisfied in their work. Their hours are short and their pay is high. I don't want you making any strike speeches to them at any time.'

"The Communist glared at Mr. Jones.

"'Hah!' he shouted triumphantly, as he tore the card to bits. 'I knew there was a catch in it.'" . . .

"AN authoress says," writes S. Mortimer Sussman, "that the husband should by all means have a voice in the furnishing of his home.

"Oh, but he does . . . the invoice." . . .

* * *

"DEAR MARK:" writes Phil Baker. "Just a line to inquire if you've heard about Mae West's meeting with the Invisible Man.

"'Hello,' said Mae to the Invisible Man, 'come up and see me some time.'

"'I have already,' replied the Invisible Man." . . .

"I'VE just figured out what a politician is," reports Jack Arthur. "A politician is a man who can now prove that Repeal is to blame for the same things for which we used to blame Prohibition." . . .

"A FRIEND of mine," insists Alvin Hamburg, of Chicago, "was recently informed that wine, women and song were the ruination of man.

"Being a wise lad, he knew exactly what to do. He stopped singing." . . .

"WITH the price of the yellow metal still going up," says Al Schwartz, "I know a dopey crooner who is insisting on a higher salary.

"He claims that, in the near future, he is going to become a golden-voiced baritone!" . . .

* * *

"I JUST finished reading a wild account of a whoopee party," writes Hugh Wedlock, Jr., "and it seems interesting enough to pass on to you.

"It seems that a bunch of nudists were romping on a beach when one of them suggested a drink. One drink led to another—and finally one daring, nude gal said: 'Who's game enough to follow me?' By this time everyone was drunk and ready for almost anything—so they all shouted their approval.

"As I said, the girl was very drunk, so you probably know what she had the nerve to do. She put all her clothes on! Yes, sir—and the rest of the party was so drunk, they all dressed too!

"The nudist periodical in which I read the story said that the affair was shocking—and that it only goes to prove what false courage is gained by whisky!" . . .

* * *

"DEAR MR. HELLINGER:" writes J. M. J. "I nurse an idea that a certain ancient line should be switched to fit the times. Here's the way I'd do it:

"'It's better to have loved and lost—than to have loved and still be paying alimony on it!'" . . .

* * *

"FOR sheer perseverence," —wires Paul Sabin, "you must take your hat off to those Russians.

"They seem to be determined to make a success of that Five-Year Plan—even if it takes them a century to do it!" . . .

"HERE'S big news, Mark," offers Spencer Hare. "One of the hotels in the West Forties is considering changing its name to The Pocahontas.

"Seems that, for the past two weeks, every gal who entered the place registered as the wife of John Smith!" . . .

COUNCIL SAVES ONLY $182,076

The net result of City Council's economies in the budget sessions is a transfer of $182,076 to the Councilmanic savings fund.

Most of the saving was accomplished by a $100,000 reduction in the appropriation for garbage and rubbish collection. In the bureau of police there was a reduction in expenditure of $69,230.

In addition to the money placed in the savings fund substantial sums were set aside for other purposes. The city insurance fund was increased by $30,000, the Lake Erie Canal Board received $5,000 and the Western Pennsylvania Historical Society, $1,000.

The city's $21,000,000 budget is still $1,500,000 out of balance. The National Economy League's efficiency and economy committee is due to arrive at City Hall next Monday.

Edgeworth Holds Bridge Match Lead

Winning from the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, the Edgeworth Club maintained its lead in the inter-club duplicate bridge tournament last night. The Edgeworth Club now has 10 victories and three losses.

In second place the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club won from the Engineers' Society. In other matches the Pittsburgh Golf Club defeated the Keystone Athletic Club and the University Club won from the Duquesne Club.

Echoes From the Cabarets of Pittsburgh and Vicinity

Freda Pope, Show Boat manager, has responded to her guests' numerous requests by recalling Marianne Rohrkaste, featured dancer, and Tommy Flynn's Orchestra. Tommy's band opens tonight and Marianne, who returned from Buffalo a missus, will begin this week or next. Marianne's "hubby" is Robert Barnhart, Jr.

"Flea" Madden, reputed world's fastest drummer, will return to Eddie Peyton's after a three-month Miami sojourn.

Would you believe that Freda, the cute Plaza cigaret girl, is married and is the mother of a 9-year-old boy? While at Latimer Junior High School she portrayed Ophelia in Hamlet.

When the Weston Sisters, now appearing at the Ritz Hotel Club Petite, East Liberty, put on an act, the whole Weston family struts its stuff. Papa Weston does the managing and booking, Mama Weston plays the piano accompaniment, and the sisters—Elaine, Dot and Betz—harmonize.

Those Six Rocket Girls and that Irish tenor at Fred Sanders' New Inn received such a big hand Saturday night that Sanders had to combine both sections of the floor show in the early evening show. Sanders has lined up another array of talent for this Saturday night at his Steubenville pike rendezvous.

Eddie Hartner, formerly of the Towne Club, has engaged two of the most popular entertainers, Ted Blake and Peggy Manning, for his new Morado Cafe, Beaver Falls, formerly known as the Club Casino.

Elmer Bachman's debut at the Hi Hat Club, Aspinwall, will feature another Night in Spain at the club next Saturday night.

J. H. Nash, manager of Gay Paree, Riverview Park, reports that attendance last Saturday night was the best yet. Reason—favorable weather, he thinks.

ACTRESS WINS TILT FOR LOVE OF MARQUIS

International News Service.

LONDON, April 17.—An international battle between Peggy Worth, American actress, and an Italian society girl for the love of Marquis Vincenzo Regoli, handsome Italian army captain, with victory perching on the banners of Peggy was revealed here today.

Miss Worth was still slightly hors de combat in a hospital here—but her Marquis was back with her again and promising immediate marriage.

SUICIDE ATTEMPTED

The Italian girl, a Miss Manzi, member of a wealthy banking family, was reported in a Paris hospital recovering from an attempt at suicide when she learned the dashing marquis loved only Miss Worth.

Miss Worth and Marquis Regoli met in London on April 2. Their engagement was announced April 6. Peggy declared she never believed in love at first sight until she met the handsome Italian army officer.

When news of the engagement was published in Paris Miss Manzi told the Paris newspapers there must be some mistake because the Marquis was engaged to her. Then she hied herself to London.

RUSHED TO PEGGY

Miss Manzi tried to see Peggy, it was learned, but did not get to first base. But Marquis Regoli, whom Peggy calls Tony, disappeared. Peggy collapsed when she learned Tony had gone to Paris.

Rallying after the first shock, Peggy sent an English friend to Paris to find Tony. The friend found him in a hospital, himself recovering from shock as a result of an attempt by Miss Manzi to take poison.

As soon as Tony felt a little better, however, he went to Miss Manzi and told her he loved Peggy and was going back to her. Today he arrived back in London and rushed to the arms of Peggy.

New Organization to Hear Lowell Thomas

Lowell Thomas, radio celebrity, will address a meeting sponsored by The Junto, young men's organization, in McKeesport Junior High School next Monday night. Organized in 1932 to stimulate the interest of the younger generation in civic affairs, the group took its name from a similar society formed by Benjamin Franklin.

"It's toasted"

LUCKIES ARE ALL-WAYS KIND TO YOUR THROAT

"Luckies are made of only the clean center leaves—the mildest, best-tasting tobaccos. And then, 'It's toasted' for throat protection. Every Lucky Strike is round, firm, fully packed—no loose ends. That's why Luckies 'keep in condition'—do not dry out. Luckies are always in all-ways kind to your throat."

U. S. TO HONOR COHAN FOR WAR SONG

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Believing George M. Cohan has made important contributions to American patriotism in writing the songs, "Over There" and "It's a Grand Old Flag," the House Library Committee today prepared to ask Congress to award him a special medal of honor.

Representative Peyser (Dem.), of New York, already has introduced a bill calling for the award and Chairman Keller (Dem.), of Illinois, said the majority of his committee favored the plan.

Peyser contended the martial strains of "Over There," which led American doughboys to battle, constituted an important factor in this country's victories in the World War. He said:

"Even the War Department recognizes this fact. The original manuscript of the song is now a prized possession of the department's archives.

"In my opinion, the average person is better acquainted with the words of this song than the "Star Spangled Banner."

The committee plans to ask Cohan to appear before it either next Monday or the week following so the members can meet him.

Bishop Hayes Here To Confirm Class

Bishop Ralph L. Hayes, of Helena, Mont., former pastor at St. Catherine's Catholic Church, Beechview, will confirm a class in his old parish at 7:30 p. m. today. An invitation to confirm the class was extended Bishop Hayes by Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, of the Pittsburgh Diocese. Bishop Hayes left Pittsburgh last September.

Park Concession Costs Are Reduced

The depression has hit the city park concession business. In an ordinance setting up rentals for park privileges, introduced in Council yesterday, the charge to the concessionaire at the Schenley Park Lake and Conservatory shelter house is cut in half to $25 per month. Decreased business is given as the reason by Public Works Director Leslie M. Johnston.

Seek Reservoir Site Along Ohio River

A committee of the Mississippi River Commission on Flood Control, making a survey for rerervoir sites along the Ohio and Monongahela rivers, arrived in Pittsburgh last night. They were to go to Huntington, W. Va., today for inspections in that district. Members of the committee conferred here with Maj. W. D. Steyer, district commandant of the United States Army engineers, after inspections of possible sites on the Monongahela River.

Wagner Bill Attack Brings Vet's Arrest

Accused of passing handbills attacking steel companies opposed to the Wagner Labor bill, Stanley Neff, 34, of 517 Fifth street, Duquesne, was arrested late yesterday at the entrance of the Carnegie Steel Company plant in Munhall, police reported.

Neff, who said he was a World War veteran, was charged with violating a borough ordinance and released on a $10 forfeit.

Postoffice Destroys 25,357 Pieces of Mail

Figures released today by W. F. Stewart, chief of the inquiry division of the Pittsburgh Postoffice, show that during the first three months of this year 32,850 pieces of mail incorrectly addressed found their way to the dead letter branch of the office here. Of that number 25,357 pieces, mainly letters, were destroyed because there were no return marks on them. More than 7,000 pieces were returned to the senders.

There are 181 pieces of mail which contain vaulables and money. These are kept one year, after which time they become the property of the government.

'Rogue Song,' Varieties On Air

The famous film operetta, "The Rogue Song," with Gladys Swarthout and John Barclay in the leading roles, is heard over WCAE tonight at 10 o'clock.

The Russian Symphonic Choir contribute a number of native Gypsy songs. Tiny Ruffner serves as narrator.

* * *

"Two Hundred Years of Dancing" sounds like a marathon, but it's a medley of gavotte, polka, minuet and modern dance music heard during tonight's Pittsburgh Variety Program on KDKA at 7:45.

* * *

William B. Rodgers, guest speaker on the broadcast, discusses Pittsburgh Waterways.

With the air mail bill due to come up before the Senate early next week, Republican Senator Warren Robinson, of Vermont, a member of the special committee investigating air and ocean mail contracts, discusses the situation over WJAS tonight at 11 o'clock.

* * *

Ginger Rogers, stage and screen star, is heard over WCAE at 9 p. m. as guest of Ben Bernie.

* * *

Gov. Gifford Pinchot is heard over KDKA tonight from 10:30 to 10:45.

* * *

Ed Wynn, Graham McNamee and Don Voorhees' orchestra entertain the WCAE audience at 9:30 p. m.

* * *

John Cabot Lodge, descendant of the famous Massachusetts Lodges, who has recently crashed the Hollywood movie lots, is heard over WJAS at 8:45 tonight in the "California Melodies" program.

'Main Street' Dramatized For Radio

By AIRCASTER

To cover his furtiveness, the gentleman who has formed the habit recently, of stalking the radio studios, assumes an air of nonchalance, but it is no secret to the amused and thrilled few who have recognized him that his purpose is to study radio dramatization.

The gentleman alternates his visits between the Columbia system's corridors and the NBC's temple in Radio City, attending only the major attempts at serial drama.

The visitor is toying with an idea. It is a notion that if adopted, would provide something in the way of entertainment that would justify the word, "Sensational."

And when it becomes known to the network headmen that this nocturnal visitor is no other than the satirist of Sauk Center, Minnesota, doubtless the covert visitations will end with the appointment of reception committees and the unrolling of the hospitable red carpets.

The satirist of Sauk Center, of course is Mr. Sinclair Lewis, novelist, Nobel prize winner, expert in literary portraiture and more recently, aspiring radio author.

Chief among his ambitions is a desire to dramatize his own novels. His studio visits are preliminary to this job and designed to permit a thorough absorption of the technique demanded by the microphone.

'MAIN STREET'

Responsibility for this excellent notion may be traced to Mr. Lewis' novelistic confrere and pal, T. S. Stribling, who has blazed the way in this field with his "Conflict," now current, serially, on WJAS.

Lewis has been stringing along with Stribling, fascinated by the possibilities presented by radio. He has been attending rehearsals secretly and is already an ardent student of the formulae which has assured success for the Stribling piece.

The microphone's hypnosis has so gripped Lewis that he had planned the other evening to speak a few lines, incognito, in the drama, but he abandoned the scheme when we newspaper boys got wise and prepared to back him into a corner and make him tell all.

Already, Mr. Lewis has taken typewriter in hand to adapt for the kilocycles his 1920 novel, "Main Street" as poignant a bit of modern satire as you may want to stumble across.

He might even go so far back as his "Mr. Wren" (1914) and, of course, "Babbitt" would be perfect.

But not so, "Elmer Gantry." That is an opus which, in the terms of radio row, would be dynamite. Modern novels for radio is a fresh idea.

W. F. H. Wentzel fills an early evening spot with a Humane Society talk.

Three good bets—Jimmy Bridges' romantic music at 5:45; Baron Elliott's band at 6:15 and Paul Gannon at 6:45.

Eddie Peyton's band again plays "Little Grass Shack" as a feature of the 11:30 Frivolities.

Globe Trotter

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I'm not through with Friday the 13th material yet. I could hardly ignore a letter from Elmer Altenhof, who writes:

"You speak of Friday the 13th being unlucky. Not for me, big boy, it's my weakness. I was born on Friday the 13th, have 13 letters in my name and received my bonus check on Friday the 13th."

I'll bet that you have already looked through the calendar to find out when Friday falls on the 13th again.

* * *

Joseph A. Newell, Oakland.—Good Friday fell on the 13th day of April in 1906 and before that in 1827 and 1838. The next time will be 1979.

According to the World Almanac, the English word "Easter" is derived from the name of the Saxon Goddess, Eostre, whose festival was in April.

* * *

An interesting Globe Trotter activity has been revealed by the wife of the blind veteran, Cloud H. Bryan, 3456 Corona street, North Side.

During the last four years Mr. Ryan has busied himself making an ornamental and useful, too, chair out of horns from the Texas steers. His work is complete and is the talk of his neighborhood friends.

Baseball Scores Given on WCAE

Starting today, WCAE broadcasts the daily baseball scores at regular intervals during the afternoon and two periods in the evening.

The score announcements are sponsored by the Pittsburgh Brewing Company.

"The Mystery of Pier 94" is heard at 7:30 from WCAE.

Your dog, too, will appreciate Red Heart diversified diets

Here's something Utterly NEW in Dog Foods!

DOG lovers are clamoring for Red Heart dog food with its diversified diets, A, B, C. It's the same story everywhere this new and marvelous food has been introduced.

And no wonder—this rich, wholesome food contains a balanced ration of everything in vitamins and minerals that is best for your dog, and, in addition, each of these three diets has a distinctly different taste.

In individual cans, labeled Diet A, Diet B and Diet C . . . each of these three diversified diets is basically the same (beef products, vegetables, cereals, bone meal and cod liver oil) . . . but the first (A) has a distinct beef flavor, the second (B) contains wholesome, boned fish, and to the third (C) is added highly nutritious and easily digested cheese—potent with vitamin G—the kind of cheese recommended for children. All of these flavors are pleasantly different in taste and highly appealing to your dog.

Boy! How your dog will love this daily change of diet. Buy all three Red Heart Diets at one time. Feed Diet A today—then Diet B — and next Diet C. Watch the gusto with which he eats, day after day, month after month and see his health improve. Buy three cans from your dealer today. They cost no more than ordinary dog food. Do it now while you can get that wonderful can opener absolutely free which sells for up to 75c.

WARNING

Be sure the dog food you buy contains only clean, wholesome, NOURISHING ingredients and be sure you know what they are. These exact words "U. S. INSPECTED AND PASSED" are on every can of RED Heart. Insure cleanliness. Look for them on the can when you buy.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Says you really feel clean, sweet and fresh inside, and are seldom ill.

If you are accustomed to wake up with a coated tongue, foul breath or a dull, dizzy headache; or, if your meals sour and turn into gas and acids, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

Tomorrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal.

Those subject to sick headaches, backaches, bilious attacks, constipation or any form of stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying this morning inside-bath.

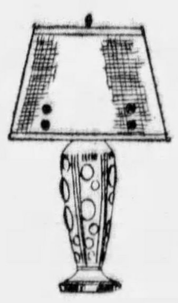
Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.

Spring

Song

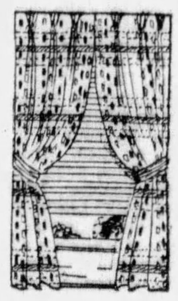
FOR THE HOME

We have the "inside" story on Spring and we're telling the world about it . . . star-spangled glassware . . . lamps with a Spring light . . . dark linens . . . light china . . . counter after counter with newly sprouted colors flying and styles as fresh as the daffodils. We've all the Spring refreshments and home prescriptions to put your house into proper Spring fashion.



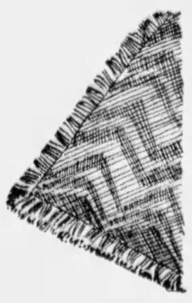
You'll see that we take our "light" responsibilities seriously . . . with glass lamps that look fragile but aren't . . . with chromium in the graceful curves of vanities . . . with the especially modern Havilands, by world-famous pottery makers who have recently began designing lamps as charming as their china.

With draperies it's a "fabricated" story. . . . They're roughing it on our third floor in exciting new weaves, plaids, and tweedy mixtures, ranging from trim tailored things to elegant formality as dignified as a dowager. And our curtains are getting rough too, especially in nets.



Linens, in a fashionable dark mood, make navy or brown dimity luncheon sets that you'll not resist. Trick guest towels hang darkly, too . . . and the antics of our best bath towels border decidedly on the shady side—dark blue, red, and black trims.

Stars on the table, in glassware, for formal or informal gaiety . . . checkers on your shakers . . . clear translucence or dark colors in your decanters . . . all brand new patterns for a brand new Spring.



Rugs have a modern tale to tell and it's not expensive! Simplicity in curves and angles . . . tuftings that make soft walking . . . and a moderately priced zig-zag pattern seen from the Gulistan looms before only in expensive handtufted floor coverings—a plain shade with pattern worked in bold relief.

Spring Neo-classic furniture streams its lines smoothly. There's a Spring interest in the lowliness and softness of its chairs, the height of its hassocks, and the sophisticated manner in which it combines metals with traditional furniture materials—as in this trick coffee table with metal tray and metal tips on its toes.

There's a dainty white china with a Wedgwood look to it . . . and there are patterns with a fancy for individual shapes. On another set there are three poppies growing in stylish seclusion, all by themselves . . . all of these are as fresh as Spring itself, and as delightful.

Your furniture will presto! become 1934 models if you use the new non-slip mohair cloth in this chevron pattern . . . luscious colors: aqua or cinnamon. Then there are plaids, and linens, and crashes that will have you trying them all over the house . . . new, new new!

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

It seems as though just everyone is busy these days, surrounded by benefits or plans for benefits. The Children's Home Society of Pennsylvania benefit plans grow day by day as more and more committees are chosen to assist with the work. And the Vassar scholarship benefit has already won the support of a number of Pittsburgh women.

Committees have been chosen for the Briarcliff Alumnae Association's benefit on May 16. Mrs. Charles Bedell Monro is general chairman of the benefit which will be the organization's annual bridge luncheon to be held in the Longue Vue County Club as a benefit for the Children's Home Society of Pennsylvania, Aiken avenue.

Mrs. William R. Gellatly is in charge of catering, assisted by Katherine Whipple; Mary Elizabeth Creighton has charge of reservations, and Carolyn Clare Snow the president, is ticket chairman.

The tables and chairs committee is headed by Marjorie Mercer, and she is aided by Alice Ladley, Anne Steitz is cigaret chairman; Adele Lippincott is doing the posters; Mrs. Charles H. Johnston, Jr., is arranging the lucky number contest, assisted by Mrs. Wilson K. Ray, and Mrs. George C. Stephenson and Janet Hardie are doing publicity.

Vassar Alumnae Benefit Patronesses

A partial list of patronesses for the bridge benefit the Pittsburgh branch of the Associate Alumnae of Vassar is giving in the College Club tomorrow afternoon includes Mrs. Horace Forbes Baker, Miss Ida Allerton, Mrs. Charles W. Dahlinger, Mrs. W. Eugene Gary and Mrs. George R. Gibbons.

Others lending their support are Mrs. Maurice B. Cohill, Miss Eleanor T. Grier, Mrs. George J. Willock, Mrs. William R. Thompson, Mrs. George E. Shaw, Mrs. Marcus Aaron, Miss Grace R. Kelly, Mrs. J. D. Watson and Miss Eleanor P. Kelly.

Proceeds from the affair will be used to raise the fund for a Vassar scholarship. Mrs. Charles T. Siebert, Jr., is general chairman.

Pittsburgh Boy Elected Captain

Clement D. Gile, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clement M. Gile, of Pitcairn place, has been elected captain of the baseball team of one of the intramural clubs at Avon Old Farms Preparatory School for Boys, Avon, Conn.

Avon Old Farms has been one of the leaders in the current movement for intramural rather than interscholastic athletics. Clement is captain of the Diogenes team, which has met its rivals of Eagles in 22 contests this year, in football, hockey, fencing, boxing and skiing. The Diogenes are leading with a total of 45 points to the 41 for the Eagles. The clubs meet this spring in six track contests and five baseball games to determine the year's championship.

Cap and Gown Premiere Thursday

Thursday evening at the Nixon Theater the premiere of the Pitt Cap and Gown Club will be sponsored by the Civic Club of Allegheny County. A lengthy list of patronesses has already been announced and today the following list is added.

It includes Mrs. Samuel Adams, Mrs. E. B. Bothwell, Mrs. Robert Book, F. F. Brooks, Miss Mary Agate Brown, Wilson A. Campbell, R. L. Clause, S. G. Cooper, J. C. Crutchfield, Frank C. Darlington, Mrs. Charles E. Dickson, Mrs. Herbert Du Puy, Mrs. A. S. Freeman, W. D. George, Mrs. J. D. Hailman and Mrs. Thomas H. Hart.

Others are Mrs. William R. Jarvis, Mrs. B. F. Jones, Jr., B. F. Jones, III, Thomas Liggett, Mrs. James H. Lockhart, William F. Lloyd, Mrs. Frederic I. Merrick, Mrs. William B. Miller, Mrs. James B. Oliver, Miss Eleanor Park, Mrs. J. G. Pontefract, Mrs. James H. Reed, Mrs. William Walker, John S. Wendt and Mrs. Edward A. Woods.

'Interesting Things' Wilkinsburg Topic

Mrs. Charles R. Beall, leader for yesterday's meeting of the Woman's Club of Wilkinsburg, summed up the day as being "The Most Interesting Day" instead of "An Interesting Day," as the year book had scheduled. Varied talks on "most interesting" things were given by Mrs. [illegible] S. Evans, Mrs. John Hepburn, Mrs. W. C. Young, Mrs. W. G. Reinemann, Mrs. Robert Beaton and Mrs. Howard Harper.

The musical part of the program was provided by John Dickson Fulton, tenor, with Homer Wickline at the piano.

The fine arts department will meet Monday at the home of Mrs. William G. Marshall, East End avenue. Miss Vanda Kerst, of Pennsylvania College for Women, will be guest speaker.

Thursday, May 10, has been set as the date for the flower festival which the Women's Civic Club of Wilkinsburg will give in the Second Presbyterian Church.

Association Readers' Group To Hear Mme. Owens

When the Readers' Group of the Women's Association, University of Pittsburgh, meets tomorrow in the Old College Club, the speaker will be Mme. Marguerite Meinssonnat Owens, who will discuss international problems under the caption of "Two Points of View." A list of 12 new books will be outlined.

Marianne Genet, Pittsburgh composer, will present a program of her own works, assisted by Marjorie Evans Stewart, soloist, and a double quartet from the University of Pittsburgh Boys' Glee.

Flags from many foreign countries will form the international background and aides for the tea will be dressed in foreign costumes.

Mrs. George Gould is chairman of the group. Mrs. Alexander Silverman will be in charge of the tea, Mrs. John W. Hallock and Mrs. C. G. King are taking care of the decorations. Mrs. R. J. Ferguson, Mrs. C. L. Van Sickle and Mrs. W. N. St. Peter are assisting with hospitality and Mrs. J. A. Heberling is ways and means chairman.

Parish to Hold Dance, Card Party

St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church parish will hold its annual dance and card party in the Schiller-Glocke Hall, Twenty-sixth and Jane streets, tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Peace League Conference Opens

Members of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom from all over Pennsylvania are here to attend the two-day state conference being held at the Hotel Schenley today and tomorrow.

Among the officers of the state organization appearing on the program are Mrs. Edwin J. Johnson, state president; Mrs. Mildred Scott Olmstead, executive secretary, and Miss Ellen Starr Brinton, field secretary. During the opening session Mrs. Lucy Biddle Lewis, of Swarthmore, and Mrs. Hannah Clothier Hull, of Philadelphia, with Mrs. Olmsted, will give a past, present and future view of the stand for world peace.

At the dinner meeting tonight Senator Gerald N. Nye, of North Dakota, will address the conference, his topic being "The Profits of War and Preparedness." The Rev. Dr. Bernard C. Claussen, of the First Baptist Church, will also speak.

* * *

Mrs. T. M. Schuchman was elected president of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club at the annual meeting in the Y. W. C. A. last night. Others newly elected are Mrs. Francis B. Hardy, vice president; Mrs. Robert E. West, recording secretary; Mrs. Thomas H. Cable, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Malcolm D. Ross, treasurer.

Miss Louise Jennewine discussed the season's outstanding fiction and Mrs. W. P. Kelly commented on possible Pulitzer prize winners.

Sponsored by the Ladies Aid and the Home and Foreign Missionary Societies, a pageant of brides will be given in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church next Tuesday evening. Mrs. Louise Reel and Mrs. J. H. Caughey have been collecting the gowns, some of which have an interesting history.

State Juniors Meet Here Saturday

The spring district junior conference of the State Federation Saturday at Hotel Mayfair roof garden has a varied program which promises a swiftly moving discussion of club problems, some delightful entertainment and a pleasant dinner hour in which to renew acquaintances. The conference will begin at 2:30, preceded by a program conference at 1:30 with Mrs. Richard B. Perry in charge.

There will be a number of guests at the conference, first in importance being Mrs. Richard J. Hamilton, state president. Mrs. James G. Chalfant, president of the southwestern district, and Col. Morris Frank and his dog, Buddy, from the Seeing Eye will also be present.

An open forum is planned in which each president is to give one highlight of her club year. After dinner the Crafton Juniors will present a musical satire, "The Ladies' Aid," and Miss Betty Beazell will give a reading.

Mrs. B. J. Barth has charge of reservations. Miss Pearl Douglass is in charge of tickets. Miss Mary Florence Taylor and Miss Margaret Halligan are chairmen of ushers and hostesses.

20th Century Club Hears MacLeish

What was said to be a racial consciousness in quality rather than in the content of American poetry was spoken of yesterday before the Twentieth Century Club by Archibald MacLeish, winner of the Pulitzer prize for his "Conquistador." Mr. MacLeish described his "American Ballet," which was successfuly produced last week in Philadelphia. A terrific intensity, a suppressed expectation which almost reaches the breaking point before release was said by the speaker to characterize modern American poetry.

Mr. MacLeish supplemented his talk by reading some of his own poetry.

Federation Has Varied Subjects

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

A forum on a number of varied subjects is the chief feature of this morning's session at the district meeting of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women in the William Penn Hotel.

Mrs. James Graham Chalfant, district president, is presiding and conducting the forum, in which the participants are district chairmen of departments and divisions. They include Mrs. Paul Howe, of Beaver, district chairman of the home department; Mrs. Samuel Cuthbert, of Wilkinsburg, chairman of motion pictures; Mrs. J. Charles Runk, of Bradford Woods, chairman of fine arts; Mrs. E. Burt Evans, of Butler, citizenship chairman; Mrs. Maud B. Trescher, Jeannette, legislative chairman; Mrs. H. D. Stark, of Pittsburgh, club institute chairman; Mrs. S. D. Cummins, Washington, public welfare chairman; Mrs. Charles E. Gilchrist, Pittsburgh, Americanization chairman; Mrs. S. D. Pearson, of New Castle, conservation chairman, together with Mrs. Joseph M. Steim, state chairman of juniors.

The morning session closes with an address by the state president, Mrs. Richard J. Hamilton, of Ardmore. The afternoon speakers are Mrs. Florence McKelvie Clegg, of Youngstown, who is speaking on "International Understanding," and the Rev. Dr. Bernard C. Clausen, speaking on "A Century of Progress."

Bounding into the sports department of one store we found ourselves gaping at rows of the new ginghams . . . nd percales . . . all at $3.95. Neat and natty little numbers in which to bustle 'round the house or off to sports events.

One . . . two . . . and three-piecers, these, with colored buttons . . . and huge plastrons of white pique . . . and belts . . . patch pockets, and some with shorts — not all on one frock, naturally, but nicely spattered 'round where they do the most good! Sizes for women and misses. And what a mob scene they'll stage!

Buttons like butter plates! Neck scarfs like big wings growing out of your collar bones instead of your shoulder blades! These are some of the swagger suits that are getting to have more than a bowing acquaintance with goodly souls in town.

For they're wonders at $8.95! Grey . . . dawn blue . . . and beige —in excellent quality tweed with an eye to good detail. Crossover flaps (the wings at the throat button down with "butter plates" and the same button down the front. A swagger suit like this and you're a made woman (no pun intended!)

Radio Talks On Episodes Arranged

Students and adults alike participating in the Mount Rushmore National Memorial inscription competition today had additional assistance arranged for them in the preparation of their 600-word texts.

Dr. Oliver

A series of three special radio talks by prominent educators will be broadcast from Station WCAE beginning Thursday night. The first speaker will be Dr. John W. Oliver, head of the history department of the University of Pittsburgh. He will discuss three of the nine specific episodes of history that must be contained in the text which will be selected by President Roosevelt and the national committee as the basis of the final inscription on the South Dakota mountainside.

Dr. Oliver, scheduled to speak at 5:45 p. m., will discuss the effect the following three episodes had on the progress of the nation, viz: 1—Writing of the Declaration of Independence; 2—Drafting of the American Constitution; 3—Purchase of Louisiana.

OTHERS TO TALK

The remaining six episodes will be discussed on the two succeeding Thursday nights, April 26 and May 3, by other educators. These additional episodes are: 4—Ceding of the Floridas to the United States; 5—Rise of the Republic of Texas and its entry into the Union as a state; 6—The Mexican War and the acquisition of California; 7—Settlement of the Oregon boundary dispute; 8—The Alaska Purchase; 9—Building of the Panama Canal.

These educators are contributing their services, that every man, woman and child might be aided in preparing their part in the patriotic project sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers.

STUDENTS CAUTIONED

Pupils attending schools which do not have active participation will submit their entries direct to the Pittsburgh Memorial Committee, care of the Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh. The special entry blank appearing on this page must be attached to these entries.

STUDENT SPECIAL ENTRY FORM

Students attending colleges and schools in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia without active participation arrangements should attach this blank to their text entries. Address entries to:

Mt. Rushmore Text Rules for Students

Rules for student participation in the Mount Rushmore National Memorial competition follow:

1—All students in the public, private and Pittsburgh Diocese parish schools, day and evening, in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia, are to submit their texts to the principals of the respective schools. The principals of Pittsburgh public schools, Allegheny County public schools, and the Munhall, Duquesne and Wilkinsburg schools will submit all entries to the Pittsburgh Memorial Committee, in care of the Sun-Telegraph.

Principals in Pittsburgh, Diocese, Carnegie, Rankin, East Pittsburgh, Crafton, Dormont, Mt. Lebanon, Clairton, Tarentum, New Kensington, Braddock, North Braddock, Homestead, McKeesport, Bellevue and Stowe Township schools will submit the best text of each school to the Pittsburgh Memorial Committee.

2—All students in universities and colleges in the same area are to submit their text to the faculty member designated by the school's president.

3—In the event there is no committee in charge of the competition at the school or college of any entrant, such entrant may mail his text to the Pittsburgh Memorial Committee, in care of the Sun-Telegraph. These entrants must certify the class in which they are competing and the school from which they are entering.

4—All entries must be received by the schools or colleges of the entrants not later than 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, May 12, 1934. The same date closes entries to students submitting direct to the Pittsburgh Memorial Committee.

5—All school and college committees must complete the judging of entries in their respective schools and send the best entry from each school to the Pittsburgh Memorial Committee not later than 12 o'clock noon, Memorial Day, May 30, 1934.

6—Every entrant in this competition agrees, as a condition of his entry, to accept the judgment of any school or local or intermediate board of judges, as well as the national committee, as final and without recourse.

Read How Amazing Mineral Concentrate Richest in Newer Form of "FOOD IODINE" Is Building Up Thousands of Nervous, Skinny, Rundown Folks Where All Else Fails

"It will be a week this noon since I began using Kelp-a-Malt, and I have gained 5 pounds and I feel much better."—T. W. H. . . . "Gained 5 pounds the first package. Am very much pleased."—D. E. G. "Had stomach trouble for years. When I take Kelp-a-Malt I have a hearty appetite for everything and suffer no distress. Kelp-a-Malt has banished constipation, which I have had all my life."—W. D. C. . . . "Gained 8 pounds with one package of Kelp-a-Malt and feel 100% better."—Mrs. W. J. S.

Just a few of the thousands of actual reports that are flooding in from all over the country telling us how this newer form of food iodine is building firm flesh, strengthening the nerves, enriching the blood—nourishing vital glands and making weak, pale, careworn, underweight men and women look and feel years younger.

Scientists have recently discovered that the blood, liver and vital glands of the body contain definite quantities of iodine which heretofore has been difficult to obtain.

Modern foodstuffs, even fresh vegetables and similarly so-called "good" foods have recently been discovered to be lacking not only in food iodine but in all the other essential organic materials without which strength and health are impossible.

Supplies Newer Form of Food Iodine

Kelp-a-Malt, only recently discovered, contains practically every mineral essential to normal well-being. But most important of all, it is the richest known source of the newer form of food iodine—natural iodine, not made from iodides or other chemicals, which oftentimes prove toxic, but the same iodine that is present in small quantities in spinach and lettuce. It is the lack of this iodine which experts in nutrition say is our foremost national health problem.

Kelp-a-Malt is a sea vegetable concentrate taken from the Pacific Ocean and made available in platable, pleasant-to-take tablet form. Six Kelp-a-Malt tablets provide more food iodine than 486 pounds of spinach, 1,000 pounds of beef, 1,387 pounds of lettuce. Three Kelp-a-Malt tablets contain more iron and copper than a pound of spinach, 7½ pounds of fresh tomatoes—more calcium than 6 eggs, more phosphorus than a pound and a half of carrots—sulphur, sodium, potassium and other essential minerals.

Only when you get an adequate amount of these minerals can your food do you any good—can you nourish glands add weight, strengthen your nerves, increase your vigor, vitality and endurance.

Try Kelp-a-Malt today. Contains no yeast—doesn't cause bloating. Two weeks are required to effect a change in the mineralization of the body. At the end of this time, if you have not gained at least 8 pounds, do not look better, feel better and have more endurance than ever before, the trial is free. 100 jumbo size tablets, which are 4 to 5 times larger than ordinary size tablets, costs but little. Get Kelp-a-Malt today.

Governor Candidates Discover Pittsburgh

By MARK SHIELDS

Allegheny county finally is being discovered by the Republican and Democratic candidates for Governor.

Mr. Shields

Heretofore the only candidate of either party who has done any personal intensive work in this vicinity is Judge E. C. Bonniwell of Philadelphia, seeking nomination on the Democratic ticket. Judge Bonniwell returned today for a third visit, and consulted with officials at his headquarters, 411 Grant street.

Former Congressman Thomas W. Phillips of Butler, seeking Republican nomination, is planning to establish himself in some local hotel for two or three days, invite Republican leaders to conferences, and then determine what kind of set-up he shall have in this county. Yesterday Mr. Phillips conferred with former Mayor John S. Herron about the political situation in Allegheny county, and discovered that so far there has been little motion to the campaign, with the exception of the work being done by some county officials for Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon.

General Shannon himself has done no campaigning in this district, leaving his affairs entirely in the hands of a soldiers' committee so far.

* * *

Schnader and Earle to Come Here Tomorrow

Attorney General William A. Schnader, a third candidate for the Republican nomination, will be here tomorrow, as will George H. Earle, organization candidate for the Democratic nomination.

Earle, through the agency of County Chairman David L. Lawrence, has his campaign well under way in this section, though he has spent only one day in western territory. It is that kind of campaign, with most of the candidates letting someone else do their contacting with the voters.

Schnader has some active work ahead if he is to heavily dent Allegheny County. He has the selection of a chairman before him, the placing of headquarters, and arrangement for speeches in his behalf, including, it is assumed, one or two by himself. A lawyers' committee has volunteered to aid Schnader. Among the members are Park J. Alexander, John G. Buchanan, Judson A. Crane, William S. Dalzell, William F. Knox, Charles Arensberg, Horace F. Baker, James C. Boyer, William H. Eckert, Charles K. Robinson, Charles F. Patterson, Herman F. Ruoff, James R. Sterrett, John B. Eichenauer, Hallock C. Sherrard, N. R. Criss and John D. Meyer.

That is a start, and comprises some influential gentleman, but it is a long way from putting into a campaign the smoke and fire which this one needs, which it lacks, and which will win for almost any man in the top flight who gets into the campaign as though he meant it.

* * *

Judge Patterson Will Open Fight in Altoona

Judge Marion D. Patterson, who has been directing most of his persuasion toward Philadelphia, will open his gubernatorial campaign tomorrow night in Altoona. His committee says that speakers from many parts of the state will be present.

David E. Kaufman, of Towanda, candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor, contiued today to visit Republican leaders in Allegheny County. His first call was at the office of District Attorney Andrew T. Park. He was accompanied by former Judge James R. Macfarlane, and Mr. Park told the sleuths Judge Macfarlane's indorsement was indication that the candidate must amount to something.

There was not, however, any formal indorsement of Mr. Kaufman from the District Attorney.

Kaufman has been extremely active, and he has seen some people in the county who are influential with voters. He has made better contacts, perhaps, than any candidate who has visited Pittsburgh, and it now becomes a question of which will translate their conferences into active assistance.

Candidates may not realize it, but political leaders are skeptical about the earnestness of many. One important Republican said today that he was making no committtments until he was certain who the real candidates are. He, like many others, believe that some of the 16 candidates for the gubernatorial nomination and the 14 for Lieutenant Governor may fade any day.

* * *

Skeptical About Vigor Of Some Candidates

He specifically mentioned one candidate — not for quotation — who appears to stand in the first rank. Yet he was hesitant to express an opinion as to his qualifications, explaining that through some deal this candidate might drop out of the race.

That is the situation just four weeks before the primary election, and if it is the way the active politicians feel when trying to determine whom they shall support, the public cannot be expected at this time to exhibit much enthusiasm.

The way is open for a splurge by some courageous candidate who sticks his chest out in front of the field and makes something approximating a campaign. He may not win, but he will save the campaign from dying on its feet.

PINCHOT GIVES SENATE RACE PLATFORM

War on Money Kings, 'New Deal' Support Promised

HARRISBURG, April 17.—Promising a fight to "keep the international bankers and money kings out of control of the federal government," Gov. Pinchot today outlined a 13-point program on which he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate.

The Governor pledged support for the "New Deal," and set forth the following planks in his platform:

"To serve the people and protect the rights of farmers, miners, soldiers and all workers against grasping monopolies and concentrated wealth.

"To secure effective regulation of all interstate utilities.

BACKS BANK RELIEF

"To secure adequate federal appropriations to Pennsylvania for unemployment relief.

"To keep the international bankers and money kings out of control of the federal government, and effectively regulate stock exchanges.

"To obtain federal payment of balances due depositors in closed banks.

"To safeguard the right of collective bargaining, and advance sound social legislation.

"To protect small business, small producers and small consumers against giant corporations.

"To help NRA serve the people.

"To secure federal aid for country roads.

"To obtain federal grants for schools.

FOR 'NEW DEAL'

"To secure an honest tariff to protect American workers.

"To avoid war by eliminating private profit from munitions, and by just dealing and preparedness against attack.

"To support the 'New Deal' in the interest of the plain people."

Pinchot returned to the mansion last night after spending the day at his Milford home for the opening of the trout season. He caught no fish.

Tonight he is scheduled to make a radio talk outlining his campaign platform. Tomorrow he is to appear in Philadelphia at the meeting of the League of Women Voters.

Gov. Pinchot Fails To Snag Trout

HARRISBURG, April 17. — (INS.)—Although he did his best before a battery of cameramen at his Milford estate, Gov. Gifford Pinchot confessed upon his return to the executive mansion today that all his efforts to snag a trout on the season's opening day yesterday proved fruitless.

McNair Prepares Shock For Bonniwell

Mayor McNair today prepared to shock Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, candidate for Democratic nomination for governor.

The Mayor appeared in his office wearing a button inscribed "Over the top with Shannon." Lieut. Gov. E. C. Shannon is a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

An employe in the Controller's office asked His Honor to wear the Shannon button, and McNair made up his mind like this:

"Shannon, who is he? He don't know anything. But I guess he might make a good governor. Bonniwell's coming to see me and I'm going to put that right on my coat."

Dillinger Nailed, Failed to Pay 1879 Income Tax

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

We have just been notified that we have been made a non-active member of the brain trust.

Our first official action is the stock bill. Instead of putting up 10 per cent margin you must put up 90 per cent.

At the finish you will not have the stock. But you will be 10 per cent better off than you were in 1929.

That takes care of that little matter. Now about Dillinger. We have him nailed. We discovered he didn't pay any income tax in 1879.

Sam Insull is back from the winter sports. When public utilities toboggoned Sam went ski-jumping.

Our biggest job is adjusting the price level so somebody has the price on the level. The commodities just passed the purchasing power on a hill.

FIREMEN GIVEN FIRST ORCHIDS

Two Pittsburgh firemen today received the first of 12 "Winchell orchids" awarded by local members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association for unusual service.

Mr. Neville

The orchids, named for the Sun-Telegraph's columnist, Walter Winchell, are in recognition of the firemen's combined acts of bravery in rescuing a cat.

John S. King, of Engine Company No. 43, climbed a tree to save a cat, marooned 40 feet from the ground, last November. His foot slipped as he and the cat were descending.

Seeing his friend fall, Thomas Neville, of Engine Company 47, threw himself into a position to catch him on his shoulder.

Both firemen were hurt, King so seriously that he was a patient in Mercy Hospital for six months. But the cat was safe.

They will also receive medals Thursday from the Humane Society which is observing "Be Kind to Animals Week."

To aid the local branch of the florists' association select the next 10 individuals to receive "Winchell orchids," readers of the Sun-Telegraph are asked to write their nominations, with detailed explanations, to the Winchell Orchid Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

3 EGGS COSTING JUSTICE $15

Three eggs and Pennsylvania's eighteenth century Blue Laws had joined today in creating an embarrassing predicament for Justice of the Peace J. C. Parkhill, of Aspinwall.

Justice Parkhill is under orders from the Common Pleas Court to make restitution of $15.05 to Mrs. Mary McGrady, of 1913 Webster avenue.

Justice Parkhill collected that amount from the woman as costs of her trial for selling a man three eggs one Sunday last year, in violation of the old Blue Laws.

The Common Pleas Court ruled the justice had no right to collect the costs because he did not convict the woman. He was given until April 21 to reimburse or face possible arrest by attachment.

MAYOR URGES CREDIT MEN FIGHT TAXES

Higher Levies, Bonds Draining Reserves, M'Nair Declares

Mayor McNair urged lower federal, state and local taxes, opposed any further issuance of bonds in Pittsburgh, except for urgent projects, and flayed extravagant use of government credit in an address before the Retail Credit Men's Association last night in Kaufmann's dining room.

The manner in which the federal government is tapping the nation's reservoirs of credit is taking it away from business channels, he said, and told his hearers to do a little questioning of congressional candidates, adding:

"Ask the candidates if they are going down to Washington to issue more bonds. It's time to stop some of the spending. Members and prospective members of Congress ought to be questioned on that. If the candidate says he is going to issue more bonds, you tell him he is going to stay at home. You can see that that is accomplished by placing an X on a little piece of paper."

MOST TAXPAYERS HERE

Mayor McNair said that the government is tapping all sorts of credit upon which no bank would loan money. He emphasized that Pittsburgh is in a splendid position to start the lower tax movement.

The Mayor spoke of the various forms of taxes in other states, calling attention to the fact that 21 states now impose an income tax and reminded:

"Pittsburgh has more taxpayers per capita (income) than any other city. If we had an income tax in this state the money would go to Harrisburg and that would be the end of it.

"Pittsburgh does not tax machinery. It should not be taxed. Such a policy would tax enterprise. When you keep tax off machinery and the shelves, you put the tax on location."

The Mayor then walloped the Schenley estate for taking $1,000 a day out of Pittsburgh, stating:

"It makes my Irish blood boil when I think that Great Britain gets 50 per cent of it."

OPPOSES BONDS

Taking up the question of further bond issues in Pittsburgh, he came out flatfooted against issuing $200,000 to $300,000 in bonds to improve the North Side market. He handed out this one:

"Those who want tax-exempt securities want good bonds because Pittsburgh's credit is good. It's the same way at City Hall. You oppose something and they go and issue bonds to keep people on the payroll."

Discussing the payrolls in Pittsburgh, he said:

"A man's pay in one of our pipe mills is not a share of his profits at the end of the day. He would not take a piece of pipe home for his kiddies to cut their teeth on. I say that the man who gives to the worker what justly represents a share of production — that man is a good citizen."

Col. Franklin Blackstone introduced the speaker, and President David H. Goldman, of the credit organization, presided.

McNair Hails Police Probe by Experts

Commission of Five 'Welcome to Find What They Can'

A thorough probe of the Pittsburgh Police Bureau by a commission of five experts will be undertaken soon. Mayor McNair has approved it.

Striking at graft and corruption in the police force, Council yesterday unanimously passed John J. Kane's ordinance providing for the commission and giving it wide powers to call witnesses and hold hearings.

Mayor McNair last night said he will probably sign the ordinance. He declared:

"They (the commission) are welcome to find anything they can in the police department."

Kane has been attempting to contact experts who might be willing to serve on the commission. The selection of the group of investigators rests with Council.

William A. Magee, who had opposed the police commission ordinance in committee, voted for it on final passage.

Council yesterday avoided all mention of the appointment of Safety Director Ralph E. Smith to the $5,000 Traction Conference Board position of W. Edgar Reed.

McNair, asked later by reporters if he would withdraw Director Smith's name, said:

"Why should I do that? Let Council act on it."

He was reminded of the fact that he had withdrawn the name of Attorney William E. Schoyer for the same job, and replied:

"Did I do that? I wonder who wrote that letter?"

DAVIES FAVORS TAX SLASH

Support of recovery measures and reduction of taxation for the little fellow is the two fold program of Capt. D. C. Davies, Congressional candidate in the Thirty-second District.

Speaking last night at Arsenal High School, Davies, chief clerk in County Controller Robert G. Woodside's office, pledged himself to be alert to the interests of his constituency in all legislation.

Davies announced himself against participation in the League of Nations and its World Court.

George A. Holmstrom, legislative candidate in the Sixth District, outlined his program of social legislation in a speech last night. It includes revision of the Constitution and consolidation of municipal governments.

Another Sixth District candidate for Legislature, Johnny A. Jones, will attend a ball in his honor at the new Aldine ballroom, 954 Liberty avenue, tonight.

Club Park Assailed Yields Beer Permit

Secretary Albert Andreas of the Druiden Saengerbund, a club at 1922 Tours street, yesterday surrendered the club's beer license to District Attorney Andrew T. Park.

Last week District Attorney Park petitioned the court to revoke the permit, charging the club had sold liquor without a license and beer to minors.

'KIND' POSTERS IN LAST TEST

Final judging in the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society's annual "Be Kind to Animals" Week feature, a poster competition for school children of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, will be held tomorrow.

Posters designed and executed by more than 2,000 pupils are now on exhibition at Gimbels. The show will close April 28. Besides the pupils' work, 200 posters made by Chinese art students for the last international competition conducted by the Latham Foundation, California, many of which were prize winners, are being exhibited.

Contestants are grouped according to grades, each grade vieing for its respective prizes. In addition, inter-group contests will be conducted among the senior and junior high school and fourth, fifth and sixth grade students, with silver cups as the awards.

Mrs. Georgia Swartz, of the society, is in charge of the exhibit.

G. O. P. VOTERS' LEAD PERILED

The Democrats today appeared to be slowly filling in the slight gap separating them from the Republicans as the registration of voters so far as totalled showed 22,267 Republicans and 20,308 Democrats.

Those registering in the County Office Building quarters of the Registration Commission yesterday were 239 Democrats and 178 Republicans.

Registration will continue daily in the commission's offices, while next Saturday, April 21, will be the second of three registration days in the 408 polling places in the city.

COUNCIL HEARS PROPOSALS FOR BETTERMENT

Treatment for Sick Inadequate, Mayor's Probers Report

Emergency action is expected in City Council to clear up the worst of conditions in city hospitals described as "apalling" by Mayor McNair's special committee.

One leader in Council, however, let it be known that he expects the Mayor to act through the executive branch of the government to improve the lot of patients at the City Home and Hospital at Mayview, Leech Farm and the Municipal Hospital.

Painting a vivid word picture of unforgettable conditions, particularly in the over-crowded insane wards at Mayview, the members of the special committee, consisting for the most part of hospital executives, presented a strong case to Council yesterday.

COWS VS. PATIENTS

The chairman of the committee, Dr. Alexander H. Colwell, said:

"The cows in the barn at Mayview are much better housed than the patients at the tuberculosis camp."

Concerning the same buildings, temporary wooden structures built 27 years ago and still in use, Dr. I. D. Metzger said:

"That shack at Mayview housing 128 tuberculosis patients ought to be burned down."

Meager food, overcrowded wards, fire hazards, lack of equipment, poor sanitary conditions, inadequate nursing and medical staff and bad management were described by committee members.

MAYVIEW OVERCROWDED

Council for the most part heard them in silence. Questions regarding the extent of state aid in caring for poor patients were asked by William A. Magee.

Miss Jessie J. Turnbull, trained nurse, told of conditions she found at Mayview when she inspected it with Sister M. Rose, of the Mercy Hospital, and Sister M. Laurentine, of St. Francis Hospital.

The general hospital at Mayview was described as 50 per cent overcrowded, with much necessary equipment totally lacking. The ratio of nurses to patients on day duty is 1 to 16 and on night duty 1 to 66, whereas in a general hospital the usual ratio is 1 to 4.

At the tuberculosis camp, the committee found both sane and insane patients together in cheerless cottages. Food was found stored on the floor of one of the cottages. In general the food was very unappetizing, Miss Turnbull declared.

There was little or no milk provided for tubercular patients. The

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 17.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

A woman died at Savannah, Ga., at the age of 123. She had smoked a pipe for 112 years, while cigaret smokers figure they are passing out daily at the ripe old age of 30 and 40. I think it's the fatigue from tapping 'em on the cigaret case that wears 'em down so early.

Will Rogers

Saw a picture of the Congressmen in their march to meet the President at the depot in Washington. It was a bonus march, for yesterday they asked him for one and a half billion more to be spent by the government in their respective districts, especially the ones where they come for re-election this fall. Yours, WILL.

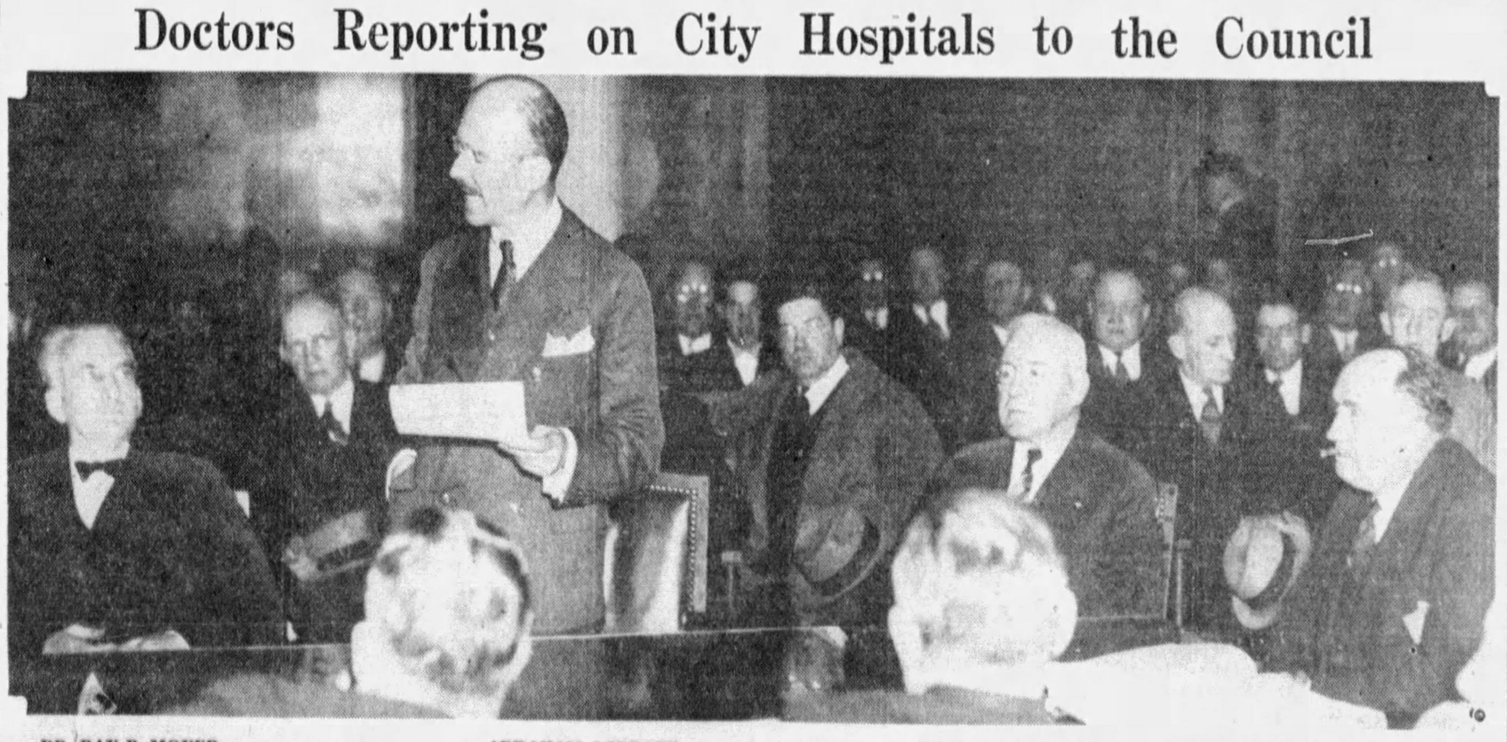
Doctors Reporting on City Hospitals to the Council



DR. RAY P. MOYER — ABRAHAM OSEROFF — DR. I. D. METZGER — COUNCILMAN WILLIAM J. SOOST

Supt. Oseroff, of Montefiore Hospital, and Dr. Metzger, members of the mayoral committee investigating city hospitals, as they reported to Council. Dr. Moyer is the city health director. Dr. Oseroff: "A director of city hospitals, untrammeled politically, should be appointed." This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

McNair, McCloskey Vie With Amos 'n Andy

Amos 'n' Andy can take a vacation any day now, for Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown, has offered to substitute himself and Mayor McNair on the network any time the two taxi proprietors want a rest.

Guests at the Amen Corner minstrel show in the Nixon Theater last night, McCloskey and McNair sat chuckling in box seats while Luke Barnett and his colleagues on the stage made fun of McNair Manor, the Democratic party, and things in general.

Barnett, as end man, ventured the opinion that Gov. Pinchot could have built the McCready Memorial more cheaply than the Mayor. The reason:

"Pinchot has the shingles."

And so it went all evening, while the two mayors grinned at the antics of the blackface comedians.

Though the Pittsburgh Mayor held the stage, it was only for a moment. When the curtain went up he was in the center of the ensemble, silent and inert while the opening chorus rang out in the half-vacant theater.

After the strains of music died down, His Honor introduced the interlocutor, Dr. M. F. Walsh. Two bushels of apples were then brought on the stage. Picking one, the Mayor took a bite of it, sauntered into the wings, and the show went on.

It was during the intermission that the Johnstown Mayor made his radio offer, saying:

"We're not in the show tonight, but anytime Amos 'n' Andy want to take a day off we'll take their place."

Moonshine Found In Cove Street Yard

Three gallons of moonshine and coloring material were found in the yard of a house at 404 Cove street during a raid by police late yesterday. George Johnson, 55, was arrested on a charge of keeping a disorderly house.

committee reported no bath tubs nor showers at the camp.

As to the closely crowded mental wards, Miss Turnbull said:

"Words cannot express what I think about the terrific overcrowding. At even a signal of fire, nothing could be done."

The committee observed an evening meal for Mayview inmates. Possessed of the information that the institution has a well paid force of cooks and dieticians they expected to see a good meal. Instead they found this:

"The meal consisted of coffee having some canned milk in it, one piece of thin cold corn bread, one-half bowl of corn meal mush so thin you could draw it through a straw, and one slice of bread with a square of butter, unspread. Our observation showed that about one-fourth the food was eaten."

CONSOLIDATION ADVOCATED

Dr. I. D. Metzger urged that all tuberculous patients except those otherwise ailing be transferred to Leech Farm. The congestion at the Mayview General Hospital might be relieved, he stated, by renting beds in other general hospitals in Pittsburgh for acute surgical cases.

He asked that all city hospitals be consolidated in one department known as the Department of Hospitals and placed under a director who would be entirely free from political dictation. A common board of directors for all city hospitals was suggested.

More social service workers for Mayview with the idea of putting out on parole a larger proportion of the inmates was suggested by Miss Isabel P. Kennedy, of the Federation of Social Agencies. The patients there have no useful occupation at present, Miss Kennedy stated.

Dr. Metzger declared that a general hospital ought not to be located at Mayview but near the central part of the city. Members of the committee pointed out that emergency surgical cases are sometimes taken 13 miles to Mayview and then wait in the operating room until a surgeon can be brought from Pittsburgh.

BEAUTIFYING SUGGESTED

Dr. Metzger described Leech Farm as a "dismal place" and urged that it be made a garden spot in which might be found "the spirit of beauty, good cheer and hope."

He suggested a $5,000,000 construction program, with the possibility of a unification of city and county facilities making Woodville the institution for the poor, Mayview for the insane and Leech Farm the general hospital and laboratory.

For the Municipal Hospital he stated that a good earthquake, in the absence of patients, would be a benefit.

Dr. Colwell pointed out that the city can take action to meet the worst of existing conditions without an elaborate building program.

EXECUTIVE DEFENDED

Abraham Oseroff, of the Montefiore Hospital, commenting on the weaknesses of service at Mayview, offered a defense for Dr. J. S. Hammers, superintendent. He said:

"While in name the directing head of the institution, he has been expected to carry out the instructions of the Director of the Department of Public Welfare or others in that office with constant interference as to hiring and firing of personnel as well as otherwise in his conduct of the work."

Mrs. Enoch Rauh, former City Welfare Director, has announced that she is greatly pleased with the recommendations of the Mayor's committee, but that there is nothing new to her in the proposals.

Practically every recommendation, she declared, is on file in previous budgets which she submitted to former Councils. She said she urged the razing of the tuberculosis cottages as early as 1923.

Here Are Lines to Flatter the Figure

Pattern 1768

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

Adaptable for morning or afternoon wear — therein lies the charm of this attractive frock. And then, too, it has been designed with the coat-like lines and unbelted silhouette so slenderizing and good for the larger figure. Contrast adds a refreshing note to the flattering collar and sleeve flares. The popular prints, cotton or silk, are ideal fabric mediums for warm weather. The new large, illustrated Instructor included with this pattern is a clear, concise sewing guide for making the frock—and of course, there's the advantage of making a frock just for your figure.

Pattern 1768 is available in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 takes 3⅞ yards 36 inch fabric and ¾ yard contrasting.

SEND 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

'Shantytown' Folk Move to New Home

Residents of Father Cox's three-year-old Shantytown are going to get a new home. Under a resolution passed by the City Council, the hundreds of men housed in the make-shift shacks near Old St. Patrick's Church will move to the unoccupied Ralston School, Fifteenth street and Penn avenue, "on or about" May 1.

Three hundred cots have been donated for the new quarters by Austin Givens and showers and a community kitchen will be installed. Painting and other necessary rehabilitation will be done by the men themselves.

Some Tidbits For Picnic Baskets

It's really not too early in the year to pack yourself a basket, settle the family in the car, and ride off for a Sunday afternoon out-of-doors.

If you want something extra fine, you might include $5 prize winner, Lady Baltimore Cake in your lunch.

And as a substitute for sandwiches, Mrs. W. W. Ahlborn suggested Breaded Breast of Lamb. She says of it:

"We like this for our lunch or picnic basket for our spring outings. It can be easily and quickly re-heated on an oil stove or camp fire."

Spring must be changing your menus, too. Prudence Penny would like to know just what recipes you find best now, and asks that you send them in to her at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. If she uses your recipe in her daily column, within a few days of publication, you will receive either a $5 or a $1 check. No recipes are returned.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. MARION McCONNELL
122 Plymouth Street, Duquesne Heights.

LADY BALTIMORE CAKE.

Three-quarter cup butter.
One cup milk.
Three and one-half cups flour.
Two cups sugar.
One teaspoon lemon flavoring.
Three and one-half teaspoons baking powder.
White of 6 eggs beaten stiff, cream butter and add sugar gradually. Sift together baking powder and flour three times and add to butter and sugar alternately with milk and flavoring. Fold in egg whites last. Bake in three layers.

FILLING.

Three cups sugar.
Whites 3 eggs.
One-half cup chopped cherries.
One cup boiling water.
One cup chopped raisins.
One cup chopped nuts.
One-half cup chopped dates.
Two tablespoons lemon juice.
Stir the sugar and water until the sugar is dissolved, then let boil without stirring until the syrup will thread from a spoon. Pour over egg whites, beaten stiff, beating constantly. Continue beating until icing gets cold, add fruit, and spread on cake.

Five $1 Prize Winners

MRS. MARGARET REYBURN,
724 Walnut street, Latrobe.

FISH SOUFFLE.

Four tablespoons granulated tapioca.
One and one-third cups milk.
Two cups canned salmon.
Four egg yolks.
Four egg whites.
One teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon baking powder.
Juice of one-half lemon.
Grated rind of one lemon.
Add tapioca to milk and cook in double boiler 15 minutes, Stirring frequently. Cool. Add egg yolks, beaten thick and lemon colored, lemon juice and rind. Add fish, mix well. Add salt to egg whites and beat until foamy. Add baking powder and beat until stiff. Fold stiffly beaten egg whites into first mixture. Bake in greased baking dish, place in pan of hot water in moderate oven 350 degrees fahrenheit for one hour. Bake uncovered.

FISH SAUCE

One-half cup mayonnaise.
One-half cup catsup.
One-half cup currant jelly.
One teaspoon salt.
Juice of one lemon.
One teaspoon chopped chives.
One teaspoon dry mustard.
Mix salt, mustard, lemon juice, chives and jelly and beat well. Add catsup and mayonnaise. Serve with hot or cold fish.

MRS. THOMAS HAYES,
502 Russellwood Avenue, McKees Rocks.

RHUBARB BETTY.

One pound rhubarb.
One Orange.
One lemon.
One-half pound sugar.
Two tablespoons cocoanut.
One cup bread crumbs.
Two tablespoons butter.

METHOD.

Cut rhubarb into small pieces. Melt butter and mix with bread crumbs. Grate rinds of orange and lemon and mix some of the juice with the cocoanut. Place one-third of the bread crumbs in a well-greased pudding pan, then half of the rhubarb and sprinkle with sugar, fruit rind and juice. Add another portion bread crumbs and the remainder of fruit, sugar and cocoanut and cover with remaining bread crumbs. Cover the pudding and bake in moderate oven.

MRS. ANNA TROYCHAK
1061 Knox avenue, Monessen.

PRISCILLA'S PET PIE

One and one-half pounds veal rump.

Two cups water.
One teaspoon salt.
One-quarter teaspoon pepper.
Three tablespoons flour.
Two hard cooked eggs, sliced.
Trim veal. Cut in small pieces. Brown in fat. Add onions, celery, water. Cover closely. Simmer until meat and celery are tender. Add salt, pepper. Add flour, smoothed to a paste in a little cold water. Stir until sauce thickens. Pour half of mixture into baking dish. Add a layer of egg slices, then rest of meat mixture and remaining egg slices. Cover top with—

Pastry—

Sift one and one-half cups of flour and one-half teaspoon salt. Add one-half cup shortening. Cut in coarse flakes. Add four to six tablespoons cold water. Roll out one-quarter inch thick on lightly floured board. Cut a small hole in center. Wet edge of baking dish. Fit on pastry. Bake in quick oven twenty minutes. A glass casserole is the nicest dish to bake this in.

MRS. ALBERT A. KAIL,
38 North Gallatin avenue, Uniontown.

PINEAPPLE WAFFLES

Mix and sift one cup flour one-half teaspoon salt and two teaspoons baking powder. Add three-fourths cup crushed pineapple, two beaten egg yolks and one-fourth cup melted butter. Fold in two stiffly beaten egg whites and cook on hot waffle iron. Serve with whipped cream or cream pineapple sauce. To make the cream pineapple sauce: Cook one-half cup pineapple juice and one and one-half tablespoons sugar for three minutes. Add one-half cup cream and serve immediately.

MRS. W. W. AHLBORN,
R. 2, Coraopolis.

BREADED BREAST OF LAMB

Two pounds breast of lamb.
One teaspoon pickle spice.
One teaspoon salt.
One egg.
Fine, dry crumbs.
Put the lamb in a small kettle and add the pickle spice and salt, half cover with boiling water and simmer until the lamb is tender. Drain, remove the bones, and cut meat in suitable pieces for serving. Roll in fine, dry crumbs, then in the egg, beaten and diluted with one-fourth cup water, then in the crumbs again. Fry till golden brown in deep fat, hot enough to brown a bit of bread in 55 seconds. Drain on crumpled paper napkins or towels and serve with gravy made from the broth.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Face Health Hazards If Too Thin

Dr. Copeland

I receive letters requesting advice about overweight. But I am sorry to say that requests for advice to gain weight are few and far between. The dangers of underweight are not realized.

No doubt you have heard the expressions, "I would rather be thin than fat;" "thin persons are healthy and live longer." I venture to say that these sayings are based on "style" and the ideals of fashion rather than on medical opinion.

It is true that the underweight adult is less susceptible to infections and constitutional diseases which afflict his more obese brother. But it is equally true that the markedly underweight individual is more liable to have many diseases. This is especially true in the case of young adults between the ages of 14 to 35.

Bear in mind that both the young child and adult need all the reserve vitality that a well nourished body supplies. This is necessary to meet all the demands made upon the body by normal growth and development.

An individual who is exceedingly underweight is more susceptible to tuberculosis. This disease is all too common among children and young adults. It is likely to follow a general run-down condition and is more apt to occur among underweight individuals. In fact, persistent underweight is a warning signal and should arouse suspicion.

But how can weight be gained? You can do this only by eating more food every day than your body requires for subsistence. The best way to do this is to add to your schedule one or two additional meals, which may take the form of a mid-morning or mid-afternoon "snack". Some claim the additional food interferes with their normal appetite. For such individuals, I would advise something nourishing before retiring.

In addition, I strongly recommend 10 to 12 hours of sleep every night. Whenever possible, a short nap of 15 minutes to a half-hour should be taken in the afternoon. This rest will prevent you from feeling "all in". Relax as much as possible.

Obtain your quota of fresh air and sunshine. Deep breathing is of great importance. Bear in mind that food, rest, fresh air and sunshine, are essential to the gaining of weight.

If in spite of these simple rules, you fail to gain weight, it is wise to consult with your doctor. A complete physical examination will reveal whether your underweight is the result of some organic defect.

A simple tonic or change in habits may be sufficient to put you on the road to more weight and better health. Let your doctor advise you and prescribe for you. Do not be impatient but follow the rules outlined for you. Above all, do not neglect underweight.

JUNIOR PATROL

We want to hear from you, captains!

When something interesting happens, we hope you will write us a letter and tell us about it. Have you had a party lately? Write us a letter and describe it. When one of your members does something to help others, we would like to know about it.

Have you noticed what is happening around Junior these days? The old soldier who has been telling Junior's gang stories about the good old days is under fire now by some busybodies. He has been using his imagination, you know, to tell Junior and the boys his exciting adventures.

These kinds of stories are called fiction. They aren't fibs, really; they are told for entertainment only.

It's fun to be a good story teller but the best kind of story is the one that seems to be the real truth even though it is exciting and unusual.

Now here are two letters from Elsie Miller and Anna Miller, both of Brady's Bend, Pa. Elsie writes:

"I have been appointed captain of our club. I have a patrol of 11. We will meet every Saturday at each other's houses. We are expecting to have a good time this summer at our meetings."

And Anna writes:

"I have a patrol of 11. I have been appointed captain of our club, so I would like to have one of your armbands. I listen in to your program. We have never had anything like this in our town before."

That's fine, girls! We are glad you have both organized clubs and we know you can have a lot of fun with your patrols this summer. Do you ever go canoeing or swimming in the river?

We are a little afraid of a canoe—they never seemed safe, especially if you aren't a really good swimmer, but maybe you girls can paddle a canoe real well. Write and tell us. Maybe you could get into a boat and row to a nice picnic spot on the river bank for lunch or supper some evening.

Don't forget, fellows, just as soon as you have 10 in your patrol, you can send for your armband after you have been elected captain.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am.
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.
I promise to study hard and do errands willingly.
I promise to be a 100% Junior Patrol member.

All Junior Birdmen Wing Towns Report Speedy Progress; Thousands Enroll Daily

By LAWRENCE SHAW, National Director

Well, well, how those membership applications are rolling in! While it is quite impossible to give you the actual number of junior birdmen recruits we already have on hand, for we still have a large staff opening the tremendous amount of mail being received daily, I do know that after the third day, which was last Tuesday, we had already enrolled over 200 members in the Sun-Telegraph wing. That is going some! And it is probably more than double that by now.

And aren't we glad of that! Just think of all the fine activities we can start right off with next Monday.

All Cities Report Large Membership

Of course our Pittsburgh area membership, through our Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph wing, represents but a portion of our national membership for there are sixteen other cities in addition to Pittsburgh which have local wings. Each of these wings cover a wide territory, enveloping the entire country.

Perhaps you would like to know in just which towns we have our wing newspapers located, for later on, when we organize our "writer's club unit" you will be writing to many members throughout the country.

In the East, along the Atlantic seaboard and adjacent territories, we have a Junior Birdmen of America wing in New York City; Boston, Mass.; Albany, N. Y.; Rochester, N. Y.; Syracuse, N. Y.; Baltimore, Md.; Washington, D. C., and Atlanta, Ga.

Going further west we have wings in Detroit, Mich.; Chicago, Ill.; Milwaukee, Wis., and Omaha, Neb. Then we drop south to San Antonio, Tex. On the Pacific Coast we find a Junior Birdmen wing in Los Angeles, Cal.; San Francisco, Cal., and Seattle, Wash.

You see, members, we are a part of a huge national organization which, in quicker time than it takes to say "til-skid," will be one of the largest youth movements in this country. An organization which every boy and girl in America will be proud to be a member of and wear its official wing emblem.

Later on I will tell you more about the local wings in other towns and from time to time I will publish interesting news of their activities, in addition to all the activities and events we will enjoy right in Pittsburgh for ourselves.

All Local Wings to Conduct Same Activities.

What is more, it is interesting to know that every time we conduct an activity in Pittsburgh, other wing newspapers will be conducting the same activity simultaneously for their junior birdmen.

When we conduct our official Pittsburgh model plane derby, every other wing will conduct a model plane meet in their city the same day. And, then the winners of these city meets will be brought together in a state meet where there is more than one wing city in the state and then all the state winners will be brought together for the annual National Junior Birdmen of America "All-America Model Plane Derby."

When we conduct various features in our column all wing newspapers too will be conducting the same features for their junior birdmen and tomorrow, when I announce the definite dates for the starting of our air dictionary, all the junior birdmen wing newspapers throughout the country will make the same announcement, so that in communicating with other members of the "writers club unit" in other cities from New York to Frisco, from Massachusetts to Texas you will be able to discuss the same topics and write on the same activities and features.

While we are enrolling our Junior Birdmen memberships in the Pittsburgh area, which includes Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Eastern Ohio, the sixteen other wing newspapers are enrolling members in their areas and within a week or so I will be able to give you the total national membership to date.

Become a Junior Birdman Now

Fill out the coupon below and enroll as a junior birdman now if you have not already done so. Be one of the first to wear the beautiful wings of the Junior Birdmen organization, such as is displayed on our masthead above. Of course the pin is much smaller than this, for it will fit on your lapel or dress or wherever you may want to wear it—to show your school chums and neighborhood pals that you are a Junior Birdman and an ardent aviation enthusiast.

Join now, so that you can participate in the first activity which will be announced early next week. It's going to be a dandy. And every enrolled member of the organization will be able to join in and have an equal opportunity to win a fine prize. Probably a three-day trip to Washington or some other award just as handsome. Watch for the details in our column next week when the real activities and features of our organization get under way.

And remember, don't get impatient because you haven't received your membership yet. No members have. A flash dispatch from the factory has just informed me that our wings are on their way and should be here Wednesday or Thursday at the latest. And your membership and the thousands of other memberships sent by boys and girls to the Sun-Telegraph wing of the Junior Birdmen will be mailed out at once as well as memberships of other wing newspapers all over the country.

Happy Landings

Yesterday I told you we were going to publish in our daily column the pictures of members. Well, hurry and send in your snapshots that I can start right in. I am waiting for them! But remember it must be a good clear photo and don't forget to put your name and address on the back of it.

Tomorrow I will give you full details of our first feature—the air dictionary—and the date that it will begin.

Until we meet in this same place tomorrow, HAPPY LANDINGS.

STORE MEN MAP SALES TAX WAR

HARRISBURG, April 17. — (AP.) — Pennsylvania retail merchants are mapping a campaign to fight any effort to re-enact a state sales tax in the next session of the General Assembly.

This campaign will be one of the chief topics of discussion at the convention of the Pennsylvania Retailers' Association to be held in the Capital May 10.

William H. Hager, of Lancaster president of the association, announcing the date of the convention, said much of the time will be spent in discussion of tax questions.

The merchants expect the 1935 session of the Legislature to be the signal for a new effort to revive the sales tax as a means of raising additional revenue.

CLEAN YOUR TEETH As Your Dentist Does—

POWDER CLEANS TEETH—as nothing else can

Outlasts Tooth Paste 2 to 1

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER—just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dull Teeth Become White

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

No Grit—No Pumice

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay.

Powder leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Once you use powder you will never go back to tooth paste. People by the thousands are changing daily.

Lasts Longer—Costs Less

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

Dr. LYON'S TOOTH POWDER

THE HEADACHE CHASER

SPEAK UP, SISTERS! :-: Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance :-: By MARION BRUNOT

Girl Afraid Boy Friend Thinks She's Wealthy

Afraid her boy friend thinks she has MONEY.

Have you ever known the beat of that!

No doubt she has heard money is the root of all evil. And she fears it may be an evil that chases out happiness. So puzzled Mary Ann worries.

It seems the boy friend's parents have heard she is dizzy with sheckels. And that may be worse still. For if she fails to produce the cash they may make the future anything but pleasant.

Planning a match and all on account of a wealth that does not exist. Not a happy thought, sisters.

Marion Brunot

Thus the girl keeps on telling this serious swain of hers that she is a poor girl and if he is looking for the long green, he had better go chase himself.

And finally like the angry wolf in the "Three Little Pigs," he has huffed and he has puffed until their house of romance has almost caved in.

And so puzzled Mary Ann writes to me:

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am sorely in need of your good advice. I am a girl of 18, and in love with a young man of 24. We have been going with each other for approximately four months and it has been understood the courtship would end in marriage. The misunderstanding came about in this way: It is a financial matter. The parents of the boy friend have gotten the impression I am a wealthy girl. In fact, it has been conveyed to me through mutual friends that my future mother-in-law boasts of this very thing.

BOY FRIEND QUITS

Naturally this distressed me, and I tried to make it clear to my boy friend, that I had no money. He laughed and said he didn't care whether I had a cent. I was overwhelmed with joy, and our courtship went on as usual

At all the social events we attended, I was quite popular, for I have been told I am an attractive girl with a pleasing personality. Many times my boy friend became jealous. Which seemed to prove he did care something for me.

Again I began hearing stories about my mythical money. When he arrived at my home one evening I took him to task. I told him that I was going to his parents and inform them I was penniless. After hearing this, he became quite angry, and said: "Do you think that that is the only reason I come to see you?" And he flew out in an indignant fashion.

Since then, which is a month ago, I have not heard from him. It seems to my puzzled heart and hurt mind that he must have been going with me for my money, and that he just played up his anger so he could make it quits.

What am I to think? I write to you in my distress.

PUZZLED MARY ANN.

I think you are very foolish, Puzzled Mary Ann . . . I do not believe this young fellow was even bothering about your money. His people may hope you have some. But hope and reality are sometimes far apart. And after a time, we all settle down to the latter. Even In-Laws.

DON'T BE MEDDLESOME

If I were you I would get over being so easily affected by what you hear. I really feel sure the young man was sincere, and that he has been very much disappointed as well as chagrinned at your numerous talks on finances. Love is something that should be much heavier than a bank account. Or it won't be very lasting. I fear your boy friend has had more emotion of the real sort than you have experienced. You have been so willing to sachet about in which ever direction the wind blew.

It would have been a very meddlesome thing for you to have gone to his parents and have told them you were poor. You might have received a peculiar welcome. And it is well you did not do so.

Try and see this young man, and explain to him that it was your pride, and nothing else that made you act in the way you did. Tell him you do so want to be loved for yourself, and not for imaginary wealth, and that it was that desire and nothing else, which made you so persistant.

He will no doubt be happy to accept your apology. If you are a poor girl, I would think your very way of living would explain that. You are right in not wanting to fly false colors. And remember, Puzzled Mary Ann, we are often to blame ourselves, for certain reports. Maybe you spend too much on living . . . on clothes, etc. And perhaps that has caused the false impression of the size of your bank account.

Be yourself, and live in the atmosphere you can afford, and gossip of MYTHICAL MONEY is likely to vanish.

Study of Profiles Is Fascinating as a Pastime, Says Fay King

HELEN WILLS MOODY HAS A CLASSICAL PROFILE
THE FASCINATING PROFILE PORTRAIT OF SARAH BERNHARDT BY BASTIEN-LEPAGE
FAY KING
MARION DAVIES HAS THE BEAUTIFUL SAUCY PROFILE

By FAY KING

One of the most fascinating profile portraits ever painted is that of Sarah Bernhardt by Bastien-Lepage.

Being but a crude "artist," I can only give a hint of its interest in my copy of the head. Have a look at a print of this painting sometime and you will see how attractive a "difficult" profile can be.

Helen Wills Moody has a truly classical profile. If she were painted in Greek robes and head-dress she would be as lovely a "Helen of Troy" as she is of tennis.

To my mind Marion Davies has the most perfect profile so popular with American artists. It is beautiful, but a bit pert and saucy, too.

If I could only paint.

Given in Marriage :-: A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge, Terrified, Rushes to Husband

Was Dicky dead? This was the first fantastic thought that flashed into my terrified brain as I saw him slumped against Harry Underwood in Hugh Grantland's car, with Edith Fairfax bending over him.

I do not know how I reached him. I must have leaped to the car door, torn it open and climbed in beside him; but I realized nothing until I heard Edith say sharply:

"Don't touch him! We don't know how badly he's hurt!"

At any other moment I should have resented what I would have termed her officiousness, but now there was no emotion in me save fear, and I answered meekly:

"I won't touch him. But is he alive?"

Dicky's head moved restlessly against Harry Underwood's shoulder and a faint, but oh! so welcome growl came from the depths of that shoulder.

"Of course I'm alive, but I'm not so steady on my pins, and I've got a clip in the shoulder that will put my drawing arm out of commission for a month."

"Oh, what does that matter, Dicky?" I exclaimed. "You're alive! That's the only thing that counts."

WANTS MADGE

"I'm sorry to seem officious, Madge," Edith said, with a distinctly acid tinge to her voice, "but if you'd climb down from the seat Harry might have a chance to get Dicky out of the car."

I started back as if her words had been a physical blow, instead of the mental one that I knew she intended them to be. But Dicky's hand shot out and clutched my arm, and his voice was suddenly strong as he growled, "Cut it out, Ede! No wonder the poor kid's shot to pieces, seeing anybody come home this way."

I put my right hand over his, which was gripping my left arm, and pressed it tenderly.

"Let me go now, sweetheart!" I adjured him, careless of what either Hugh or Edith would think. "We must get you inside on a couch as quickly as possible."

"Now you're talking," Harry Underwood said, his big, booming voice curiously softened, and I pulled my hand away from Dicky's faintly resisting one and climbed down from the car.

The rest of the group were close to the car by this time, Mrs. Arlen and Avis uttering excited little ejaculations until Philip Veritzen drew them aside, hushing them.

HUGH HELPS

Hugh got down briskly from the driver's seat of the car and came back to the place where Harry Underwood was supporting Dicky.

"If you'll just let yourself go, old man" he said to Dicky, "and lean wholly on me, I can support you comfortably until Harry can climb down and help me get you to the house."

"Thanks a lot, old chap," Dicky said, his voice feeble again. At the same time, I realized that the hand which I had put over his was wet, and the moonlight was sufficient to show my terrified gaze that the flesh was tinged with scarlet.

Dicky was bleeding from some wound! He must have been shot or stabbed. Who? What?

I brought myself back from futile, foolish questioning with a jerk. No time now for useless wonderment as to what had happened. I must bend every effort of mind and body to his aid.

"I'll have a bed ready for you in the library," I said over my shoulder to Harry Underwood, then sped up the stairs to the veranda, finding Lillian close by my side as I opened the door.

EFFICIENT KATHERINE

"I'll call the youngsters from the kitchen, send one of them for Katherine and have the rest stand by for errands," she said.

She must have given more directions than one in the minute that elapsed before her appearance at the library door. For when, working like mad, we had prepared an emergency bed in time to receive Dicky's almost unconscious figure, Marion came to the doorway with the information that a pan of water was already boiled and that another kettle was on the gas.

At the same moment Katherine appeared at the door, a vision of efficiency in spotless white uniform. If I had not known that she always had a nurses' costume hanging near to hand, I should have wondered at the record-breaking speed with which she had been able to get from her bed to the library.

She took one glance at Dicky's face, now almost drained of color, and gave a crisp order.

"Send for the doctor at once!" she said.

-:- -:- Hints for the Household -:- -:-

When fruit juice is spilt on table linen, sprinkle at once with salt to prevent a permanent stain.

A mashed banana, mixed with the white of an egg and beaten till stiff, is an excellent substitute for whipped cream.

A little arrowroot added to salt prevents caking in salt cellars or pourers.

Clean chromium-plated fittings with olive oil and polish with a dry cloth. This prevents them from tarnishing in damp weather.

A few drops of lemon juice added to a jelly will make it set quickly.

If a little lemon juice is added to the water used for mixing pastry, it will make the pastry lighter and remove all taste of fat or lard.

To remove rust from a gas stove, rub over with a cloth dipped in linseed oil.

Borax provides an excellent means of softening water, and when washing fabrics such as silk and wool, may be employed without danger to the material.

Contract Bridge :-: HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Avoiding a Finesse

When a Penalty Double made by a player in a Bridge game seems to indicate that a finesse apparently necessary to fulfill the contract has little or no chance of success, then it behooves the Declarer to see if there is not some other method—possibly some form of squeeze—to produce the game-going trick rather than tamely surrender to what may appear to be, but actually isn't, inevitable.

This was the situation which confronted Messrs. J. T. Downman and Norman L. Justice, of Los Angeles, in a recent Rubber game in which Mr. Downman was sitting South and Mr. Justice North. While in one sense of the word East cannot be too strongly condemned for his Penalty Double, it is well nigh certain that without it South would have no chance whatever of making his contract as then the obvious course of the finesse might suggest itself. East had first made a Takeout Double of the bid of one heart. His later Penalty Double of the contract of four spades indicated clearly that the finesse had little chance of winning. In view of this, the Penalty Double was no doubt a losing measure as it suggested to South the one possible way of making his contract.

North. Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

Mr. Justice

♠ A K Q J 5 3

♣ 7 5
Mr. Downman

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Double	4 ♠	Pass
Redouble	Double	Pass	Pass
	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding was accurate enough. North had a sound Opening bid. East's Takeout Double was not too good, but South, who, after his partner had opened the bidding, had made up his mind to carry the hand to a game contract in spades, decided to stop the whole matter of nuisance bidding by his opponents by going to four spades at once. East's Penalty Double was based on the hope of winning three diamond tricks and one trick in hearts or clubs or both. North's Redouble was sound as, after all, he could deliver at least three tricks to the partnership, and South must have a pretty solid and long spade suit to justify the immediate Jump to game.

In the play West opened the Knave of diamonds, and East cashed three tricks in that suit and then visibly relaxed. East then led a trump, which was won in Dummy, and the Declarer laid down the Ace of hearts and next the Ace of clubs. He then returned to his own hand with a trump and continued to lead trumps until at the eleventh trick this situation was created:

♡ Q
♣ K 10

♠ — ♡ 9 8 ♣ 8 | North / West / East / South | ♠ — ♡ K ♣ Q J

♠ A
♡ J
♣ 7

When the Ace of spades was led West's play of course was immaterial. As a matter of fact he discarded a small heart. The Queen of hearts was played from Dummy and East was squeezed. Hoping that his partner held the heart Knave, he discarded the King, whereupon Mr. Downman won the twelfth trick with the heart Knave and the thirteenth with the club King.

The student will notice that, in order to fulfill the contract, before drawing trumps it is essential that the Ace of hearts in the North hand be played, thus creating the situation known as the Vienna Coup, a comparatively rare form of the squeeze, by which a high card is established in the hand of an opponent in order that a squeeze situation may be attained. The drawing of one round of clubs was also essential in order to assure the proper timing of the hand.

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Changes Greet Baseball. Many Shifts Since 1933. Star Players Transferred. ♦ New Conditions Aid Bucs. Close Races Indicated. Aces Out With Injuries.

Changed fields, strange faces and new conditions greet the eyes of Old King Baseball today as he mounts the sports throne to begin his annual reign with the opening of another season in the major leagues, the fifty-ninth in the National and the thirty-fourth in the American. For the first time in history he will see legalized Sunday games played in Pennsylvania, and with the lifting of the ban from the three clubs of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, there no longer will be a closed spot on Sunday dates in either of the big circuits. For the first time, the main loops will use officially a uniform ball, the adoption of the American League type of pellet meaning the coming of a new and livelier sphere into the organization presided over by John A. Heydler.

John A. Heydler

Eight of the 16 clubs have changed managers since the start of the season of 1933. Max Carey, Gabby Street, Donie Bush, Burt Shotton, Bill Killefer, Roger Peckinpaugh and Marty McManus have given way to Casey Stengel, Frankie Frisch, Bob O'Farrell, Jimmy Wilson, Rogers Hornsby, Walter Johnson and Bucky Harris, the last named shifting from the Tigers to the Red Sox to be supplanted in Detroit by Mickey Cochrane. Hornsby has moved from the National to the American. McManus has shifted from the American to the National as a player. A record turn-over among the pilots in a year.

MANY FAMOUS STARS ON DIFFERENT CLUBS

An unusual number of famous star players have been transferred to different clubs, the changes involving the tearing down of the once mighty Athletics. Among the players to change uniforms are Red Lucas, Chuck Klein, Lefty Grove, Mickey Cochrane, Rube Walberg, George Earnshaw, Max Bishop, Goose Goslin, Carl Reynolds, Herb Pennock, Sam Rice, Tony Piet, Adam Comorosky, Charley Berry, Mark Koenig, Bob O'Farrell, Walter Roettger, Gordon Slade, Muddy Ruel, Harvey Hendrick, Jimmy Wilson, Virgil Davis, Dazzy Vance, Rogers Hornsby, Jonathan Stone and Marty McManus.

The death of John McGraw leaves the majors to start a season for the first time in 40 years without that colorful figure. Babe Ruth has faded to a question mark. Such famous oldtimers as Jack Quinn, Eppa Rixey and Urban Faber have passed out of the big show. The fading tribe of spitball pitchers has been reduced to a single survivor in Burleigh Grimes. Grover Hartley, Charley O'Leary, Cy Perkins, Jewel Ens and others have shifted among the coaches. Jimmy Burke has withdrawn. Hans Lobert and Mike Gonzales have come back. Joe Sewell and Val Picinich have quit playing to coach. Burt Shotton returns to a similar role. Two clubs, the Reds and the Red Sox, have changed owners since the hop-off a year ago. The old king may well wonder if he's in the right flat.

BUCS HELPED BY BEING TAKEN OFF SPOT

The very fact that the Pittsburgh club is generally rated behind the Cubs and Giants in the National League pennant forecasts is one big reason why local fans can face the new season wtih strong hopes as George Gibson takes his team to the starting line. Opening the campaign without being picked to win the flag is a help to a club, as the Giants proved in 1933. It's a good break for the Pirates to be taken off the spot on which they were placed last spring in being picked by the majority of the dopesters to finish first. A team can accomplish more when it isn't boosted to the point of causing overconfidence, and when it isn't handicaped by the feeling that it has got to live up to lofty expectations.

George Gibson

Sunday ball at home gives the Bucs another advantage they never before enjoyed. It removes the burden of having to make a lot of extra railroad jumps to play in other cities on Sundays and hop back home to perform on Mondays. That added travel and the many extra nights on trains took a lot out of the club in past years.

GOOD AS ANY IF KEYSTONE IS PLUGGED

Otherwise, the Pirates compare favorably with any other club in the race, provided Traynor's arm doesn't go back on him and the hole at second base is plugged acceptably, and there is growing confidence on both scores. The extra starting pitcher lacked in 1933 has been obtained in Lucas. Birkofer and Smith should be better for their added experience. Veltman bolsters the catching department. Lloyd Waner should be normal again in his return to center field. Vaughan appears headed for a sensational year at bat. Hitters like Paul Waner, Lindstrom, Traynor and Suhr ought to be benefited by the new ball as greatly as any other set of players in the league, and no club is stronger in reserves.

The closest pennant fighting in years is promised in both leagues. The National is practically certain to have a four-club race, with the Cubs, Giants, Pirates and Cardinals as contenders, and victory going to the team that gets the breaks. The Senators may get less opposition than last year from the Yankees, and the A's are out of it, but the Tigers and Indians, and perhaps the Red Sox and White Sox, may keep the going hot enough for a time to make it interesting. The outlook is for two good fights and the best season since before the depression.

INJURIES KEEP SOME ACES OUT OF START

Veteran fans find it difficult to recall any previous opening that saw so many prominent figures on the sidelines. Spring injuries and ailments have played havoc with several clubs, forcing them to begin the season without the services of star players long listed as starting dependables. A broken leg keeps Rabbit Maranville, one of the game's most colorful performers, out of the lineup of the Braves, and he won't be able to play again before July, if ever.

Rabbit Maranville

Lefty Grove, ace southpaw of the American League, can't start for his new Boston club, which paid $125,000 for him, on account of an ailing arm. Similar trouble may have ended the career of another star left-hander, Watson Clark, of the Giants, who as late as 1932 was good enough to win 20 games. Gus Mancuso can't catch for the Giants because of the effects of a siege of typhoid fever. Pitcher Bob Smith, of the Braves, is out with a fractured left arm. A bean ball cost the Dodgers the services of Infielder Linus Frey. Partial paralysis of two fingers took Pitcher Steve Swetonic, former Pirate, out of the picture. Catcher Ed Connolly, of the Red Sox, has a broken arm. Hughey Critz, Byrd, Cooke, Cuyler and others are unfit. Wes Ferrell is absent from the Cleveland ranks because he is a holdout. Rarely has a season begun with so many topliners out of commission.

TEMPLE MEET CAUSES WORRY AT PITT

By JESS CARVER

Great and murky clouds of gloom are hovering about the head of Carl Olson, head man of track and field activities at Pitt and when the Indiana Swede has "worriments," there usually is a reason. This time there is.

Pitt meets Temple in the opening intercollegiate dual meet of the local campaign here Saturday afternoon and last week Temple forwarded some dope on its team. Whether the figures were padded to throw a scare into the Panthers or not or whether the Owls really have as powerful a squad on the cinders and on the turf as they do on paper remains to be seen, but if they are as tough as they boast, the Pitts haven't a chance.

OWLS HAVE EDGE

According to the dope sheet, the Owls will have an edge in almost every event, figuring on the basis of comparative times and distances. That is why Coach Olson isn't eating well these days. Of course, just because a man ran a half mile in 1:58 last year is no sign he can do it again this, but then, one never can tell.

The Pitt squad took things easy in the handicap meet last Saturday. It was too chilly and wet and the track and sod too treacherous for the boys to take any chances of pulling muscles or straining tendons, so the marks turned in that day had best be completely forgotten.

Another clinic is set for Saturday, Coach Pat Corr offering a one-day swimming course in the Trees gymnasium pool in the afternoon.

Leading district aquatic authorities will assist the Pitt coach and demonstrations will be given by members of Pitt's unbeaten varsity team.

Coach-Capt. Regis Wolff, of the Pitt golf team, expects to name a tentative lineup by Thursday. Some 30 candidates are being tried out at St. Clair this week. The Panthers meet Detroit University at Detroit Saturday.

Provided the courts at Bethany are in shape and the weather propitious, the Wash-Jeff and Bison varsity net teams will open the tri-state district campaign with a dual engagement this afternoon.

The Tipoff

Messrs. Carlson, Hannum and Davies, local college basketball coaches, are at odds again. This time it's Carlson and Davies against Hannum. The three of 'em are in accord on two of three new basketball rules, but the Pitt physician and the Duquesne mentor do not see eye to eye with Hannum on the matter of stopping the watch entirely on free throws.

Carlson and Davies are of the opinion that the players in an average college contest go through enough of a grind as it is without adding to the length of playing time, as the new rule will do. Hannum, however, claims that the players are not in motion during the free throw attempt and that the new rule will prevent legal stalling in retrieving the ball after a successful charity toss.

Hunk Anderson, who did his best to fill the shoes of Knute Rockne at Notre Dame, is in town today for a brief visit. Hunk stopped off yesterday at Fairmont, W. Va., and Donora, Pa., en route here. The present North Carolina State coach is being accompanied by J. A. Clark, athletic director at the institution.

Spring basketball practice will get under way at Pitt next Monday. Coach Carlson planning to keep his Panthers out for three weeks or more. Charley Hughes, his varsity court career completed, is a candidate for the Pitt golf team.

PRESNELL AT W. VA.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 17.—(AP.)—Glenn Presnell, former University of Nebraska backfield star, has been recommended to the West Virginia University board of governors as backfield coach for the Mountaineer football team, according to the Dominion-News.

Presnell has been playing professional football since graduating from Nebraska. He arrived last night to aid Head Coach Charles C. (Trusty) Tallman with spring practice.

The university's varsity tennis card was announced today as follows:

April 20, Pitt; May 5, West Virginia Wesleyan; May 10, at Fairmont State; May 14, at Pitt; May 18, at West Virginia Wesleyan; May 19, Temple; May 25, at Duquesne U.; May 26, at Wash-Jeff.

RUTH HOPEFUL OF PLAYING NEXT YEAR

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP.)—After all, this season, his twenty-first, may not be Babe Ruth's last in the big leagues as an active ball player.

The boisterous Babe said so himself today in his best baritone.

Notwithstanding what he has said before, the Babe right now feels that his legs might be strong enough to carry him through a twenty-second season. He said:

"I'm surprised to find myself in such good condition, in fact I haven't started a season feeling so fit as I do now in five years.

BATTING EYE O. K.

"There's nothing wrong with my batting eye or my batting. Didn't I lead the boys during the training season? Red Rolfe gave me a close race but I nosed him out in the last game with Brooklyn.

"Unless my legs crumple under me, I'll not only play in more than 100 games, but I'll be in there next year, too. Of course a lot depends on what Col. Ruppert has to say, but if we both have a good year why there shouldn't be any contract trouble."

The Babe not only anticipates a good season for himself, but for the Yankees as well. He figures the Yanks the best ball club in the American League, far better than last season's pennant-winning Washington Senators, and hasn't a doubt they'll wind up with the banner.

DENIES BABE ORPHAN

RICHMOND, Va., April 17.—The Times-Dispatch in a copyright story quotes a sister of Babe Ruth, Mrs. Mary Ruth Moberly, of Richmond, as saying that the Babe was not an orphan when he started playing baseball.

His real name, the paper says, is George Herman Ruth, Jr., and he is the son of George Herman Ruth, who ran a saloon at the corner of Utah and Lombard streets, Baltimore. He is not, the paper says, George Herman Earhardt, as is popularly believed.

In its interview with Mrs. Moberly, the Times-Dispatch quotes her as saying that her brother was "mischievous, but not incorrigible," and says he was put in St. Mary's Industrial School by his family for playing hookey from school.

Generally supposed to be without kith or kin, he actually has an uncle, Joseph Ruth, a jeweler on Washington boulevard, Baltimore. Another uncle, William Ruth, is a carpenter. The Babe also has an aunt.

The Baltimore orphan who became famous in baseball as such was not orphaned, the paper's article says, until after he had become a star pitcher for Boston in 1917.

W. P. I. A. L. Nines Open Season Today

The W. P. I. A. L. baseball season was scheduled to get under way this afternoon with games carded in all three divisions.

Fayette City plays at California and Trinity at Mt. Pleasant Vocational in Section I. Crafton at Bridgeville and Findlay Vocational at Dormont in Section II, while in Section III, Edgewood plays at East McKeesport, McKeesport at Elizabeth and Wilkinsburg at Turtle Creek Union.

HEINIE MEINE . . . . ON THE MOUND FOR PIRATES AGAINST CARDINALS

The major leagues pry off the lid on the 1934 season today with two new managers in the American League and three in the National, shown above. Pitcher Heinie Meine has drawn the starting assignment for the Pirates against Dizzy Dean in St. Louis and will face the Redbirds at Sportsmans Park today. These are International News Photograph Service pictures.

SEEK LOST ICE TROPHY HERE

Search for the lost, strayed or just plain missing Hamilton B. Wills Cup, donated 10 years ago for international amateur hockey competition, has shifted to Pittsburgh and to the cupboards and cellars of Duquesne Garden.

The Moncton Hawks, of Montreal, recently defeated the Detroit White Stars for the North American amateur hockey championship. The Wills Cup was to be their prize, but when it came time to award the trophy, it could not be found.

It then was recalled that the cup had been taken out of competition some years ago, when amateur hockey was in the doldrums, and given into the keeping of William S. Haddock, then president of the now defunct United States Amateur Hockey Association.

Haddock received a long distance call from Ben Rubien, of New York, who is conducting the search for the missing trophy, and in turn got in touch with the Garden officials, asking them to search for the cup. The cup had been awarded to the local Yellow Jackets in 1924 when they won the national amateur championship. Since then it has disappeared.

SOCCER CHAMPS KEEP TITLE

ST. LOUIS, April 17.—(AP.)—The Stix, Baer and Fullers, of St. Louis, retained their national professional soccer championship by routing the Rangers, of Pawtucket, R. I., 5 to 0, in the final game of the annual cup competition here last night.

The game, postponed from Sunday because of rain, was played under the floodlights at Walsh Stadium before a crowd unofficially estimated at from 10,000 to 11,000.

The Stix's victory gave St. Louis its fourth national championship, the Stix having won twice in a row, the Ben Millers in 1921 and the Scullin Steels in 1922.

DIZZY DEAN SET TO PITCH FOR REDBIRDS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

ST. LOUIS, April 17.—George Gibson's Pirates, explorers in many a pennant quest, start on another flag hunt in St. Louis this afternoon as they assist the snappy Cardinals in the city's National League inaugural.

Six hundred miles from the home port, the roving Buccaneers feel they are almost at their own back door as they toe the tape in view of the weeks of travel and travail they have experienced since their barnstorming season got under way.

EXPECT FAIR CROWD

St. Louis perhaps is the worst opening day town in either league, but if the weather today is as favorable as has been promised by the weatherman, a goodly crowd will be on hand. The cancellation of the Sunday contest scheduled between the Redbirds and Browns is expected to help the "gate" this afternoon.

The home management has arranged for the customary opening-day ceremonials, such as the throwing out of the first ball, et cetera, but the feverish fan will feel in his element only when the official arbiter of the day shouts "Play ball!"

The opener here will get under way at 4 o'clock Pittsburgh time. Sportsmans Park, scene of the action, is still a bit soggy, although the warm sun of yesterday afternoon did much to eliminate the moist conditions.

MEINE TO HURL

Manager Gibson reiterated this morning that Heinie Meine would be on the slab for the Buccos in the jump-off battle. Gibby did not make up his mind on the veteran until yesterday afternoon, when the Luxemberg Prince rejoined his mates and advised Gibson the soreness in his back had left him. As quickly as the Pittsburgh boss received this news he stated that Heinie would be his choice. Larry

Gibson, Frisch Predict Great Pennant Race

ST. LOUIS, April 17.—Following are the pre-battle statements of Manager Gibson, of the Pirates, and Manager Frankie Frisch, of the Cardinals, as their nines clash in the National League inaugural here today:

Manager Gibson, Pirates:

"I don't see anybody claiming the pennant this year and the reason is plain. I still think there are five clubs that have a chance to cop—the Giants, the Pirates, the Cubs, the Cardinals and the Braves.

"I am not claiming the flag, but I will predict that the Pirates will have a lot to say about the disposition of the 1934 pennant. You can say that again!

"The breaks play a heavy part when things are so even. The favored club that has enough luck to go through the long grind with a minimum of injuries will be in a dandy spot to cop."

"It looks like another great race in the old National League."

Manager Frisch, Cardinals:

"If we get the pitching we can win. I'm looking for aggressiveness from the 1934 club and I'm sure I'll get it. Of course, we're stronger; we have better reserves, and, I hope, better pitching.

"I want a club—and I think I have one—that will run bases, that will always be looking for that extra base, the making of which brings victory in so many ball games.

"We have an excellent chance to win the pennant. That's not just the usual before-the-season-opens stuff, either, but my sincere belief."

MAJOR LEAGUES ENTHUSIASTICALLY LAUNCH FLAG RACES

FAIR WEATHER BRINGS OUT BIG CROWDS

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP.)—For the fifty-ninth time, the National League plunged into the opening of a new baseball season today and for the fifty-ninth time not one of the eight clubs would admit the possibility of finishing last.

Clearing skies in the East and fair weather in the Middle West resulted in the four opening games drawing a turnout of some 100,000 baseball-hungry fans who have spent a long, hard winter studying an unprecedented number of playing shifts which may turn the pennant race into a much more exciting free-for-all even than those of recent National League history.

HEYDLER OPTIMISTIC

Whatever the final outcome, President John Heydler and the owners as well confidently expected a real financial recovery after several lean years. Legalization of Sunday ball in Pennsylvania, the new and livelier ball and prospects of a close, hard-fought race right down to the finish in September all figured to produce a heavier play at the turnstiles.

Expert opinion, given with considerable trepidation after the shock of the New York Giants' flag-winning drive and subsequent world series victory a year ago, was that at least five clubs must be figured now as contenders.

If the Giants failed to get the same brilliant pitching that was responsible for their amazing triumph of 1933, the experts selected the Chicago Cubs, bolstered by the acquisition of Chuck Klein; the Pittsburgh Pirates, St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Braves as potential pennant-winners, with the well-known "breaks" as the determining factor. The Brooklyn Dodgers, Phillies and Cincinnati Reds almost universally were tagged for the last three positions in pre-season forecasts.

SENATORS FAVORITES

The American League joined in big time baseball's rousing opening chorus with no less than seven of the eight clubs harboring honest hopes of making pennant music next September.

Deprived by rain of opening the campaign under the Presidential eye yesterday at Washington, Boston's new deal Red Sox, and the Champion Senators were in Boston today to start even with the rest of the league.

Expert opinion figures Washington to land the title again, with the New York Yankees and perhaps the Red Sox, furnishing the foremost opposition. Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago rank as lively possibilities. Owners, managers and followers of these six clubs have declared them in on the championship battle.

While the experts failed to include Connie Mack's Athletics as a threat, the 72-year-old schemer thinks his team is "going somewhere." Only Rogers Hornsby, starting his first full season in charge of the St. Louis Browns, has failed to hint at expectations of being up there, but he can't see the Browns finishing last again this year.

BIG CROWDS ATTEND

Approximately 90,000 fans were on deck for the openers. The Yankees and Athletics at Philadelphia attracted 30,000, with 20,000 at Chicago to see Mickey Cochrane make his debut as Detroit's manager, against the White Sox; the same number to watch St. Louis and Cleveland at Cleveland, and 15,000 for the delayed Washington-Boston entertainment.

Washington shoved off in pursuit of a second pennant with only one important change, Jonathan Stone, who was obtained from Detroit in exchange for Leon (Goose) Goslin, in right field. Joe McCarthy gambled on two youngsters, Red Rolfe, at shortstop, and Don Heffner, at second base, to make an infield to go with improved pitching and old-fashioned Yankee slugging.

Boston, like Detroit, swung into action with a new manager, Stanley (Bucky) Harris, and the bulk of the stars Connie Mack parted with last December. Thomas A. Yawkey's bankroll brought in the great southpaw, Bob Grove, who led American League pitchers on the basis of earned runs and won 25 games last season; Rube Walberg, a useful left-hander, and Max Bishop, a tried and tested second baseman.

Rain Again Prevents Net Play Opening

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 17.—(INS.)—Rain postponed the start of the Mason-Dixon tennis championships for the second successive time today.

Strikes and Spares

Competition in the second annual tenpin sweepstakes tournament of the Iroquois alleys, East Liberty, is to get under way tonight. Inaugural rolling in the event has been postponed from last Thursday.

The Roxian team in the Roxian Junior League wound up its league campaign by taking three games from the Roberts bowling its season record to 80 games won and 30 lost, and making its league victory one of the most decisive in the history of the organization.

Leading individual feats in the Roxian loop were turned in by Driscoll, of the Fishers, who had a single game score of 256, and Evans, of the Roxians, who totaled 634 for three games. Evans compiled an average of 159 in 87 games.

The Casino N. S. league leader is maintaining its extra shooting fast pace in the Greater Pittsburgh Duckpin League. Six performers in the loop have turned in single games of better than 255 and a like number boast three-game totals of 644 or better.

The Pickles team, winner of the championship in the Roxian House Tenpin League, wound up its league season by losing three games to the Clowns. The Texans won three from the Flips and tied the Clowns for second place with 25 victories and 20 defeats. The Pickles finished in front by only one game.

Tex Williams, of perfect game fame, led the Roxian tenpinners with an average of 198 for 41 games and Art Shimer had 196 for 45 games. Shimer was high for one and three games with 279 and 668, respectively.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE RAVEN—Edgar Allan Poe's poem, "The Raven," the most momentous achievement in his life, was published in the New York Mirror on February 8, 1845. Its popularity was immediate and widespread. Poe's life at the time was beset with poverty and misfortune. Seeral periodicals had rejected the "Raven," deeming it unfit for publication. When he finally located a publisher he was paid $10 for his manuscript. In our day, first editions of the work in print would fetch about a thousand times his original fee, and the manuscript itself would be priceless.

BRAND REMAINS DISTRICT P.G.A. PRESIDENT

By TOM BIRKS

Fred Brand, veteran professional at the Allegheny Country Club, was re-elected president of the Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association at the annual meeting at the William Penn Hotel last night.

Jimmy Devlin, professional at Nemacolin, and Emil Loeffler, of the Oakmont Country Club, were elected vice presidents. Devlin was a holdover from last year, but Loeffler replaces Charley Manning, of the Shannopin Country Club, who was not a candidate for re-election.

M'KAY SECRETARY

Dave McKay, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Brand and McKay have held their respective offices since the formation of the association. The following members were present: Jock Kennedy, Eddie Melvin, George Swankie, Fiore Bruno, Dale Zimmerman, Nelson Zimmerman, Charley Manning, Dave Clark, Guido Paroline, Jimmy O'Donnell, Johnny Manley, Walter Loeffler, Emil Loeffler, Tom Bennett, George Underwood, Perry Del Vecchio, Rader Jewett, Jimmy Devlin, Willie McKay, Dave McKay, Fred Brand, Jock Sutherland, Bert Myers, Ted Luther and Paul Erath.

Vincent Eldred was re-elected chairman of the tournament committee, along with Jock Kennedy, Jimmy Devlin, Emil Loeffler and Rader Jewett.

The discussion regarding the change of date of the tri-state P. G. A. championship tourney was referred to the tournament committee, but sentiment indicated that the tourney will be played in September. The Edgewood Country Club is bidding for the event.

TEE TO GREEN

The Uniontown Country Club is giving a dinner for new members Thursday night at the club house.

Jimmy Devlin, newly appointed golf coach at Wash-Jeff, is holding a class for the college team aspirants on Thursday afternoons. This will be the second class held this week.

Perry Del Vecchio states that a few non-resident memberships are available at the Greensburg Country Club this season. The annual fee is $10 and gives a member all the privileges of the club.

The only members absent from the tri-state dinner were Walter Johnstone, Pete O'Hara and George McBride.

Walter Loeffler has his North Park staff lined up for the season, but the greens are not open. Part of the national public links qualifying round will be played over the North Park course.

James Irwin has scored the first ace of the season at the Youghiogheny Country Club. Playing with J. P. and Don Mooney, he sank his tee shot on the short No. 4 hole.

MEMORY TEST

TODAY'S QUESTIONS

How good is your memory of sports events, heroes and dates? Can you answer these questions?

1—Who were the two star pitchers picked up by the Pirates from the Birmingham Club, of the Southern Association, in the same year?

2—What was the score of the Peabody-South Hills High School football game for the city title last fall?

3—How many successive City League games has the South High School basketball team won during the last three seasons?

4—Where did Judge Walter P. Steffen, former Carnegie Tech football coach, star as a player?

5—When was Forbes Field opened as the home of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and what memorable event in the club's history occurred that year?

(Answers in Want Ad Section tomorrow. See today's Want Ad Section for answers to yesterday's questions.)

CHICSTRAW OUT OF DERBY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 17.—(AP.)—The narrowing down of the Kentucky Derby field favorites was accented by announcement in Baltimore that Chicstraw, a highly regarded nominee, would not run in the famous race here May 5.

The George E. Widener brown colt, highly regarded for the sixtieth running of the Derby, was held from proper training by unfavorable weather in the East, his trainer, Jack Joyner, said. Along with the colt who won seven of his 14 starts as a 2-year-old and was quoted at 12 to 1 in the latest winter book odds, his two stablemates, Jack Low and Kawagoe, neither regarded as serious threats, also were declared out.

While none of the thoroughbreds nominated last February is officially out until their owners fail to make formal entry the day before the race, Chicstraw and his two stablemates were among nearly a dozen already reported out, including Black Buddy, Dartle, Don Manuel, Hadagal and Essie Wessie.

A warning that lotteries and sweepstakes conducted on the Kentucky Derby are illegal and have no connection with the derby management was issued today by Col. Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf Association. He said:

"Those who buy such tickets are throwing their money away. There is no responsibility on anybody to pay winning tickets. The whole thing is illegal and we will prosecute to the limit any person or group of persons who may use the name of our organization in this connection."

HEYL TO STAY WITH CHAMPION BOOK NINE

With the opening of the City League season only two weeks away, sandlotters in the district are awaiting the publishing of the rosters of the teams in the circuit. One thing is sure, Ed and August Buch, sponsors of the Book team, defending champion of the league, have signed Alvin (Soapy) Heyl to patrol the outfield for the Olympia Park aggregation.

Heyl, former Reliance star, with his fence busting activities, has been sought by many of the teams in the league, but reports have it that Soapy is perfectly satisfied with the treatment he received from Buch and again will do his stuff for the edification of the Mt. Washington fans.

The Book strategy board will have to scout around for some new talent in as much as Walter Kimmick, the Wilmerding star, and Regis Smith, former Penn State star, have signed to play with the Harrisburg team of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

Kimmick's bat played quite a part in the Book attack, and it will be well nigh impossible to get a first baseman that will hit as consistently as the former big leaguer.

Bill Dalzell, Homewood pilot, is working hard getting together a winning combination for the East End entry in the City League. Ray Bond, Homewood boy, will play first base, and Jerry Levey, another East Ender, will be seen at second. Jerry is a former scholastic star and a brother of Jimmy Levey, formerly of the St. Louis Browns, now on the Pacific Coast. Levey, a snappy fielder and a good hitter, should go good in the fast City League.

The West Penn League will open its championship season May 4, preceded, the evening of May 3, by a banquet at the Schenley Hotel. The adoption of a schedule and the selection of umpires will be taken up at the next meeting of the league, April 26.

DOUGLASS VICTOR

MEADVILLE, Pa., April 17.—(AP.)—Charles Douglass, Meadville Negro, crowned a week ago as the 175-pound champion in the A. M. A. senior tournament at Pittsburgh, scored a third-round knockout over Joe Popleski, Titusville, in the feature bout of an amateur card here last night.

BAER IN ACTION

TULSA, Okla., April 17.—(AP.)—Max Baer, en route East for his heavyweight title fight with Primo Carnera in June, sparred with three partners, one of them his younger brother, through four rounds here last night. Baer weighed in at 221 pounds.

ELEY BEATS GREENE

SOMERSET, Pa., April 17.—(AP.)—William Eley, of New Salem, defeated Harvey Greene, of Somerset, in three fast rounds last night, the feature bout of an amateur card that drew 300 fans. Both boxers weighed 139 pounds.

Cubs, White Sox Stars Out of Openers

CINCINNATI, April 17.—(AP.)—The Chicago Cubs will open the season against the Reds today without the services of their crack center fielder, Kiki Cuyler, who had been slated to bat in third position.

Cuyler went to the Jewish Hospital yesterday for treatment of an infected hangnail on his left hand. Manager Grimm said Cuyler will not be able to play today and may not get into the other two games here.

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP.)—Jimmy Dykes, the Chicago White Sox third baseman, pulled up lame during a workout yesterday and will be out of today's opening game with the Detroit Tigers.

Dykes suffered a pulled muscle in his left leg. Third base will be manned by Joe Chamberlain, recruit infielder.

CENTERS SCRAP, M'CANNS WIN

The McCanns, of the South Side, deadlocked the playoff series for the second half title of the Allegheny County Basketball League last night, defeating the Charleroi passers, 41 to 36, on the South Side Market House floor.

The game was enlivened by a battle during the closing minutes of the first half between the rival centers, Kostolansky, of Charleroi, and Tach, of the McCanns. The two big fellows went after one another and caused a general free-for-all in the crowd. The melee was quieted down after several exciting minutes and both players banished from the game.

The McCanns took an early lead and managed to make it stand up, being ahead 21 to 13 at the half. Manning, McCann forward, was the high individual scorer with 13 points. Debnar and Janosik each scored nine for Charleroi as did Clark for McCanns. The lineup:

McCanns	G	F	Pts.	Charleroi	G	F	Pts.
Clark, f	4	1	9	Leonard, f	1	0	2
Manning, f	5	3	13	Debnar, f	4	1	9

Chastain Victor Over Rosenbloom

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 17.—(AP.)—Clyde Chastain took a decision over Maxie Rosenbloom, world light-heavyweight champion, after 10 rounds of furious milling last night. It was a non-title affair. Rosenbloom weighing 178 and Chastain 176 pounds.

There were no knockdowns and the bout was close all the way. Referee Ben Cuerry awarded the decision to Chastain, an Oklahoma Citian, in what some partisans called a "hometown" decision. Approximately 1,500 saw the exhibition.

MEINE TO FACE CARDS TODAY

French and Red Lucas are the alternatives.

Earl Grace is ticketed as the Pittsburgh receiver of the afternoon inasmuch as Pilot Frank Frisch had announced days in advance that Jerome (Dizzy) Dean would twirl for the Redbirds. In the event that the home boss switches to a southpaw twirler, Art Veltman will don the mask and protector.

LAVAGETTO AT SECOND

Gibson also announced yesterday that Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto would be at his post in the curtain-raiser. The 19-year-old Italian boy thus will be making his major league debut. The selection of Lavagetto for the second base job is a tribute to the skill and pose of the lad still in his 'teens. Gibson has two great utility infielders in Tom Thevenow and Pep Young, yet the youth will be in the middle of the fight.

The same battlefront which Gibby placed on display in the long barnstorming tour will harass the Redbirds in the first contest of the year. Lloyd Waner has a stone bruise on his right hand, but he will grace the top of the order, to be followed by Lindstrom, Brother Paul, Traynor, Vaughan, Suhr, Lavagetto, Grace and Meine in the sequence noted.

Pilot Frisch has only one doubtful spot in his array. The Fordham flash up to last night was a bit undecided as to the centerfield post. Frank has several boys ready for the slip, but only two are in his mind for the opener. Against righthanded pitching he has Eugene Moore and Ernie Orsatti awaiting orders. Moore, Texas League recruit, is said to have the favor, although Frisch might use the Italian. Whichever plays will lead off and the rest of the order will be Frisch, Martin, Rothrock, Medwick, Collins, Davis, Durocher and Dean.

Their long travelogue ended, the Pirates tapered off yesterday with a long drill in the sunshine of Sportsmans Park. The Redbirds fluttered about in a drill as the nattily-clad Pittsburgh hosts came onto the field. The Pirates sat around and watched their adversaries and when the flock vacated the playground, the Bucs went at it in a merry way.

BUCCOS ON EDGE

Although they have to face one of the greatest pitchers in the game, the mood of the Buccos this morning was excellent. Dizzy Dean holds no fears for the Corsairs, nor does any of the other Card pitchers, yet they have the respect of the Buccos.

Boss Gibson sized up the matter in a striking manner when the newspapermen sought to find out his catching selection for the opener. Said Gibby:

"If they use a righthander on the slab, Grace will catch; if a southpaw starts, Veltman will do the receiving. We don't care who they pitch. We're ready for anybody."

Chillysauce

Manager George Gibson, of the Pirates, spent a part of yesterday under the care of a St. Louis eye specialist. His eyes giving him much trouble for the past month, Gibson rejoiced when the local specialist informed him that his condition is not serious.

Gibby's doctor told him that the best thing he could prescribe would be a layoff of two weeks from all activity. The Pirate pilot balked at this in view of the important events that impend. He told the specialist he had to be on the coaching lines today and the doctor declared he would be able to do so, but advised the wearing of dark glasses if the sun be bright.

The Pittsburgh pilot is under orders to "cold-pack" his eyes three times each day for the entire summer. Gibson's ailment was the outgrowth of the manager's desire to get a good sun tan. He went hatless for days in the heat of Paso Robles and other California towns. He suffered excruciating pains while his club was in Los Angeles.

Jim Collins, Johnstown district boy, who stars at the gateway post for the saucy Redbirds, has just been discharged from a local hospital, where he underwent a minor surgical operation. Collins was confined for a week, but he is ready for the opener.

Virgil (Spud) Davis, first-string catcher of the Cardinals, has taken off about 50 rounds through a food diet which seems to have agreed with him. Spud went to work on the idea last year and the fact that he was runner-up to his Quaker clubmate, Chuck Klein, proves he knew what he was doing.

The Pirates yesterday were concerned over a consignment of bats from the Louisville factory. While the team was in the Kentucky city many of the players ordered willows of their own modes. It seems that most of the Buccos have been using the bats of the Waner boys. Lloyd had a dozen awhile back and he has only one left.

New College Loop To Be Formed

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—(AP.)—Fifteen colleges plan to organize a new athletic conference at Harrisburg on May 2, Dr. Parke R. Kolbe, president of Drexel Institute, has announced.

The new conference results from a survey conducted by the special committee on athletic policy of the Pennsylvania College Presidents' Association, of which Dr. Kolbe was chairman.

Other members of Dr. Kolbe's committee were Dr. R. C. Hutchinson, president of Washington and Jefferson College, and the Rev. E. V. Stanford, president of Villanova College.

Van Kempen, Bartell Lead in Bike Race

MONTREAL, April 17.—(AP.)—Piet Van Kempen, of Holland, and his American partner, Frank Bartell, held first place in Montreal's tenth six-day bike race early today.

The leaders had covered 387 miles, four laps, and held a one-lap advantage over William (Torchy) Peden, of Victoria, and his Montreal partner, Jules Audy, and the Franco-Canadian combination of Alf Letourner and Henri LePage.

RED WINGS WIN

WINNIPEG, April 17.—(AP.)—The Detroit Red Wings, runners-up to the Chicago Black Hawks in the Stanley Cup playoffs, defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs, 9-8, in the second game of an exhibition series with the Toronto Maple Leafs last night.

GRID PLAYER DIES

Thomas Shotting, local sandlot football player, died in the Homestead Hospital yesterday, a victim of pneumonia.

YAROSZ WINS OVER RIOS

CANTON, O., April 17.—(AP.)—Teddy Yarosz, of Monaca, Pa., contender for the world middleweight championship, defeated Tommy Rios, of Wilmington, Del., in a 10-round fight here last night.

Yarosz, using left hooks and cross rights monotonously, stayed out in front during the entire fracas, although Rios never was in serious difficulty.

Rios, ordinarily a hard hitter, could do little with Yarosz' defense, but kept boring in looking for an opening. About 2,000 fans heard the decision in favor of Yarosz.

In the 10-round semi-final, the Alabama Kid, Canton middleweight, knocked out Roscoe Manning, a stablemate of Rios. Manning opened up in the fifth round and sent the Alabama Kid back on his heels, but the Canton boy came right back with a left which floored Manning.

In the other bouts, Johnny Durso, 140, of Pittsburgh, outpointed Jackie McFarland, 140, of Canton, and Harry Weekly, 135, of Alliance, outpointed Henry Scarpuzzi, 135, of Canton.

At Mohawk, N. Y.—Lou Ambers knocked out Eddie Dempsey, 3 rounds.

At Newark, N. J.—Allie Rowan defeated Jackie Corcoran, 6 rounds; Joe Ardito won by technical knockout over Johnny Riccardulli, 1 round.

WALLACE LOSES TO CHOCOLATE

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 17.—(AP.)—Kid Chocolate, slim Cuban Negro, started his drive back toward the top of the featherweight division in successful fashion last night when he scored a 10-round decision over Frankie Wallace, game little Cleveland battler, in a brisk fight before a crowd of 4,000 fans.

The Ebony Kid, making a comeback after more than three months of inactivity, showered leather on his squatty opponent in fast flurries enough times to win Referee Toby Irwin's decision. The battle was by no means one-sided.

Joliat Awarded Hockey Loop Cup

MONTREAL, April 17.—(AP.)—Aurel Joliat, clever little wing of the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League has been awarded the Hart trophy, given annually to the player regarded as most valuable to his team.

Second oldest player in the circuit in point of service, Joliat emerged winner of the trophy after a battle of ballots with Lionel Conacher, of the Chicago Black Hawks, Stanley Cup champions. Joliat received 62 votes from hockey writers in the National League cities against 56 for Conacher.

STOCK MARKET UNDERTONE FIRMS UP

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP.)—Financial markets felt a little better today, but they still showed signs of yesterday's headache.

Liquidation tended to dry up in stocks and there even were a few modest rallies in scattered groups. Trade kept one eye on Washington and the other on the grain pit. There was little stimulus from either direction and the volume of equity transactions was the lowest in several sessions.

Wheat and corn dropped another cent or so a bushel and the other cereals were inclined to slip. At the same time most of the selling here was attributed to overnight margin calls and offerings dwindled after early adjustments. Bar silver again turned downward, but the futures recovered. Rubber was about even and cotton was only moderately lower. Bonds were mildly irregular, although some secondary issues were still in supply. International dollar rates recorded no important changes.

Much interest was expressed in the announcement of the New York Telephone Company that its periodical wage increase plan, suspended in 1931, would be resumed on May 1. The company's payroll will be raised about $2,500,000 over the next 12 months. The Western Union Telegraph Company also announced the restoration of one-half of a previous wage reduction. Part of the wage cut was restored July 1, last year.

The apparent drift to the "right" at the capital, while disheartening to some speculative forces, was viewed by a few market commentators as a hopeful indication from a longer range business standpoint.

Although the anti-inflationary trend is seen in most brokerage houses as a factor of prime market importance, the Street's principal worry at the moment seems to be the stock exchange control bill and the attitude which the President will take toward the various revisions which have been made in the measure.

The feeling in the financial district is that the regulatory bill is the President's and that, on a final show-down Congress will give him about whatever he wants in the way of a regulatory measure with "teeth" in it. The main hope in the board rooms is that the Chief Executive will approve some of the alterations.

SCOTT RESIGNS REO POST

LANSING, Mich., April 17.—(AP.)—With the resignation last night of Richard H. Scott as president and director of the Reo Motor Car Company, Ransom E. Olds, 70-year-old chairman of the board, hoped today to win complete control of his company at the annual stockholders' meeting.

The impending battle of proxies for control of one of the country's oldest automobile concerns, forshadowed two weeks ago by the division of stockholders into factions, was believed here to have ended with the statement of Scott that he was relinquishing his positions and turning his proxy vote over to the Olds faction.

As president and general manager of the company, Scott had dominated its policies for 16 years until relieved of his duties as general manager last December.

P. R. R. Stockholders Named for Board

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—(AP.)—A committee appointed at the recent annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to nominate four stockholders as directors of the company, announced it had recommended re-election of Effingham B. Morris, Pierre S. du Pont, D. R. McLennan and Franklin D'Olier.

The election is scheduled for April 24. The new directors are to serve for four years.

J. A. Gray Elected Reynolds President

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., April 17.—(AP.)—James A. Gray, vice president of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, was elected president of the company at the annual meeting of the board of directors here.

S. Clay Williams, retiring president, was made vice chairman of the board of directors, and all other officers were re-elected.

Corporate Earnings

Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., reports net loss in 1933 of $620,700. Operations for the past year, while showing a loss, were more favorable than in 1932, Wallace R. Campbell, president, said. Total sales and other income amounted to $16,804,793, from which an operating loss of $1,174,991 was incurred. Total sales in 1932 were $17,168,769 and loss was $5,206,736. Cash total $6,273,951 as of December 31, an increase of $5,971,417 from the previous year.

Brooklyn Manhattan Transit System, including Brooklyn and Queens Corporation, report for nine months ended March 31 last shows net income of $5,047,241, after taxes, depreciation, interest and minority interests, equal to $5.33 a share on the common. This compares with net of $5,107,991 in the first nine months of the preceding fiscal year.

Montgomery, Ward & Co. reports net profit of $1,277,966 for the two months ended March 31, compared with a loss of $1,906,761 for the same period last year. The profit was derived from all branches of the company's operations.

Victor Brewing Company reports for three months ended March 31 net profit of $49,609 after depreciation and provision for federal taxes, equal to 6 cents per share. This compares with 8 cents per share earned in the seven months of last year.

Gillette Safety Razor March quarter net profit was $902,202 after interest, depreciation and taxes, compared with $957,778 in the first quarter of 1933.

Century Ribbon Mills earned 47 cents a common share in the March quarter, against net loss of $62,189 in the same quarter last year.

Duquesne Light Company reports for 12 months to January 31, 1934, net income of $10,671,829 after all charges, against $11,592,219 in the previous 12 months.

Eaton Manufacturing and subsidiaries in the March quarter earned 52c a common share, against net loss of $237,179 in the first quarter of 1933.

International Printing Ink Corporation reports first quarter net profit of $258,083, equal to 69 cents a common share, against net loss of $109,509 a year ago.

Graham-Paige Motors Corporation had net profit of $15,142 in the first quarter, against loss of $86,696 in the same period of 1933.

Container Corporation of America reports net income of $291,690 for the first quarter. This contrasts with net loss of $190,868 a year ago.

Revenue Depends On Trade

By B. C. FORBES

WHO, WHAT is "Wall street?"

WHENEVER I TRAVEL over the country, I get the impression that ordinary folks picture Wall street as a coterie of big bankers and speculators wholly without conscience and bent solely upon grabbing enormous fortunes by hoodwinking the public.

Mr. Forbes

HERE ARE two sentences from a letter written by the president of a Nebraska bank which has weathered all kinds of storms for many years:

"We do our own thinking and, by the way, who is Wall street? Any one of us who owns even one share of stock listed on the stock exchange is Wall street, and there are hundreds of customers of this bank who are Wall street."

If you own one bond or one share of stock you are part of what goes under the term "Wall street."

Every second family in America contains a security owner.

Therefore, Wall street consists of at least half of all the families in the land.

DOES WASHINGTON grasp that fact?

I doubt it.

If it did, lawmakers and bureaucrats would be less eager to "punish" Wall street. They would be less eager to "soak" corporations. They would be less eager to multiply and multiply taxes on business enterprises.

When the tax screw on a corporation is given a few additional twists, who are hurt?

Not some impersonal organization, not a few bloated capitalists.

WRITES ONE READ, W. A. Lamson:

"I have read with great interest your column on corporations are continually mounting, citing specifically the case of Pacific Gas and Electric. When consideration is given to the fact that over 80,000 shareholders of this company own less than 100 shares each, the question of who foots the bill is very much to the point.

"May I recommend that you publish another column along these lines, suggesting that all corporations in their financial statements show in terms per share what the taxes now amount to? For example, in this particular case, $10,352,000 distributed over 6,274,357 shares, represents $1.66 per share. In other words, the partners in this business are deprived of 49 per cent of the earnings which would normally accrue to them."

IN YESTERDAY'S newspapers, Standard Oil of California revealed that, whereas it earned net profit available for dividends of only $7,560,902, or 58 cents a share, it "collected $21,705,977 in gasoline and lubricating oil taxes, which approximates three times the company's net profit for the year. Property, corporate, federal, income and other taxes amounted to $4,262,419."

This terrific burden fell, not upon a few millionaires, but upon consumers and upon 69,955 stockholders, of whom more than 96 per cent owned less than 500 shares.

DO OUR lawmakers realize that many and many a business enterprise hands over to tax collectors more than they hand over to their owners, the many thousands of persons of modest means who furnished the wherewithal to establish and carry on the business?

If everybody at Washington could only grasp that fact, there would be hesitancy in hatching legislation or issuing bureaucratic decrees calculated to make difficult the earning of profits.

HOW CAN the government expect to be able to foot the colossal bill it is now running up if it be made impossible for business to earn money? No earnings, no tax payments in the long run. That's obvious.

And, of course, any business, which experiences nothing but losses must finally fold its tent, dismiss all its employes and inflict heart-breaking losses on all its bondholders and stockholders.

THERE IS A Scottish saying, "We're a' Jock Thamson's bairns," meaning we are all members of the same (human) family.

Similarly, we are all part and parcel of America, the welfare of each bound up in the welfare of all.

(Copyright, 1934, B. C. Forbes.)

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XLVI.

Pippin walked into her small laboratory. She spread the examination questions on the table and pretended to ponder them. But she saw only the warm look in Kevin's eyes when his hand clasped Jane's. She was ashamed and burning with scorn for her senseless, overwhelming emotion.

Then he came in, pulled a stool next to hers and leaning down, said lightly: "What's the matter, little girl?"

He was in a happy mood. Jane had made him glad. He would be kind to the janitress if she crossed his path. This was Pippin's thought.

She did not dare look at him. His arm lay along hers. Now he reached for the paper. Their fingers touched.

She said dryly: "I flunked the bio-chem ex. I'm all washed up."

"We always think that. You couldn't have flunked it. You had it cold. How many do you think you got right?"

"The ones that are marked."

"Only five? You could have done fairly well with these three others. Didn't you even make a bluff?"

"I made a bluff on all ten. But I've failed. I know I have. My head feels dry and full of dust. I'd like to creep off somewhere and die."

"Oh, Pippin—not for a flunked examination! There are real sorrows in life. I saw a child go out with infantile last night—a beautiful little girl; the father and mother not much older than we are. We couldn't do a thing—not a thing. Just sit there and watch it gasp. That's when you want to creep off and die."

Kevin Feels Pang

He looked at her profile and the lashes black and silky against her cheek. She seemed so young. He felt a pang. He recalled the night he took Pippin to her first dance—her glib torrent of words and the eerie shine of her hair in the moonlight. She needed protection then. She needed it more now.

It seemed almost pitiful that a blithe, fiery, audacious creature like Pippin should hurl herself into this hard, remorseless work only to plunge against a blind wall.

"Almost too bad," thought Kevin, "to waste good scientific ability on a woman—and a lovely one." He looked at Pippin. His heart flushed.

"Tell me what answer you made to this question, and to this one here."

She took a deep breath and said, speaking aloud her own thought: "Was it their only child? A pretty little thing?"

"Yes and she knew she was dying. She was 8 years old. She knew everything that was going on. Let's not talk about it. I hate to see kids die."

The tears sprang to Pippin's eyes. There went rushing all through her a little warm tide of joy. It made her glad that Kevin was so deeply touched. She felt a sweet bond, as though he put his arms around her.

She blinked and, taking up the questions, told how she had answered them.

"Why, you'll get a 'B' out of that. You've got stage fright, or a hang-over, or something. You couldn't possibly get lower than a 'C.'"

She turned with a soft laugh. "I don't care. It doesn't seem so important now. You've made me ashamed. Oh, Kevin, how terrible to lose a little beloved child! I would go down before a grief like that."

Wants to Be Worthy

With that quick, bird-like move of her head, she was looking full in Kevin's face. It slowly reddened.

He said simply: "You wouldn't go down. You're very brave."

Nothing she had ever heard in all her life sounded as sweet as this. She lay awake thinking of it. He thought she was brave. Unconsciously she prayed. She wanted to be worthy of a word like that—strong and beautiful and very brave.

It was vacation—clear, crisp December days. Pippin went to the laboratory and in many an odd spare moment Kevin leaned over the microscope with her, teaching her, testing her knowledge. He seemed to delight in it. She wondered if he guessed what these brief meetings meant to her.

One day, when it was quite late and all the patients were gone, he stood at her door and said:

"Come in here a moment. Something interesting."

He put a slide under the microscope. She saw the peculiar acid fast strain, the bacilli red and the rest of the field blue. They looked like red lines drawn with a fine pen, slender and long.

"What is it?"

She looked up with a quick grin:

"Don't you think I know T. B. bugs when I see them?"

He reached to the shelf, took down another slide and inserted it under the microscope: "What's this?"

It looked similar, but the red lines were thicker and shorter than the tubercule bacillus.

"You've caught me. I don't know that one."

"Of course you don't. Bacillus of leprosy. Did you see the tall Mexican with the leonine face who came in yesterday? He has it—pretty bad."

She wanted to look at the smear, make sure she would recognize it again; she wanted to speculate on the fate of the wretched fellow — his lonely death-in-life, now and always.

"Every day," she said wistfully, "you see the raw heart of life. Your days are full of drama."

"So you think you'll become a doctor? What did you rate on the bio-chem course?"

"I pulled a 'B.' Here's my report."

"Coming along with flying colors, aren't you? How long do you intend to work after you graduate?"

"Are you asking when I plan to fall in love and marry? Can that be arranged to suit one's convenience?"

"Then you will give up your work the moment you fall in love? After all this preparation?"

"I don't know. If I were loved in return and it were sweeping—complete— I don't want to get married. It's so solemn. I'm not domestic. I'll hate keeping a house. I'd like to put the whole thing off for a few years."

Love Not to Interfere

"I should think you'd want a year or two at the job, anyway!"

She looked up and found his eyes intently watching her, his lips straight and compressed.

She said, a little breathless: "You wouldn't let love interfere—even if you were mad with it, would you?"

"I wouldn't let it interfere. Of course not! After 13 years—it's 13 years since I started college."

She recalled Jane—her dark, cloudy hair and the way her hand was tucked in his.

"Kevin—would you know that it might interfere? Oh—don't we all think that we are stronger than circumstances? That we will master a situation? Like Edward thinking Sonia is right for him."

"Ed wants to fool himself. I don't!"

The old year was passing. David was taking them all to Soda Springs, where the snow was high and the skiing perfect. They loved the sport, but only David, who had skied as a boy, was clever at it.

At the last moment David couldn't get away. He gave Kevin the holiday. So Kevin and Kathleen went along.

They had a wonderful time. Kevin taught them intricate tricks he learned in the Alps; told them when to use the telemark and when the Christiana. He was a hard, driving but tirelessly patient teacher. They all had to do what he said from Bruce up to Chickie. Never mind if they broke their necks.

Go Skiing

They stood on the crest of the precipitous slope, teeth chattering and their hands inside the heavy gloves, stiff and freezing. But you can't go in! No, sir. You came up here to ski. And conquer the mountains you shall or die in the attempt!

"Your turn, Pippin. Make it this time—you can." He went flying down the almost perpendicular slope and came to a full, perfect stop with the poise and balance of a winged thing. She stood there laughing because he seemed so wonderful.

He beckoned, demandingly. She balanced herself and started down. With an incredible thrill she found herself stopping, easily, gently.

"What did I tell you? Isn't it easy? It's all a question of sand, Pippin. If you're willing to take a beating, you can master it. You have nerve."

He said it quite simply, but it went humming all day, sweetly like a song in her thoughts.

The third day they took a cross-country hike. Kevin and Pippin reached the top of a hill where the trees were clustered. They waited for the others.

Kevin Kisses Her

The sky was a vast, darkly glimmering sapphire. The mountains fell away beneath them. All snow; all white; all dreamlike, unruffled silence.

They stood with their skis dug hard on the level crest of the mighty peak.

"It hurts," Pippin murmured. "It's more than a heart can bear—so beautiful. That dark, tall, lonely tree—"

He looked down and saw her nose red with the cold; her eager parted lips a little stiff. She was tall, but now she seemed little and very dear—and as always too intent, too violent so that he had to feel pity.

"Sweetheart!"

Her face was near to his. Sudden tears or it might have been the cold made her eyes brim. He drew her up to him. He held her close and kissed her. He could not take his mouth away.

"Don't close your eyes—don't turn your face, sweetheart!"

He kissed her again.

Even her heart seemed to stop—she wanted it to stop—this moment only to remain.

Synopsis

Pippin, pretty daughter of Chickie, falls in love with Kevin McPike. Pippin and Kevin's sister, Kathie, are fast friends. Pippin is thrilled by the first real kiss she ever had—from Kevin. When Kevin goes to Europe to pursue his studies, Pippin meets Bill Lodge, a young ensign. At a friend's home, Chickie meets Barry Dunne, the man who caused her so much sorrow. Pippin goes to a party with Bill, but after returning seems unhappy. She tells her father what she heard about her mother, and that she thought him responsible. David explains to her what really happened and Pippin is again happy. Chickie tells Pippin the real story of her life. Pippin goes on hikes with Gregg McClintock, senior at college. She then returns to college and has Vivian Drake as a room mate. Vivian's love affair with Sherry wanes. Vivian disappears and sends suicide note. Kevin returns. Edward's family and Pippin disapprove of his choice of a bride.

RECONSTRUCTION OF SOUTH—CAMPAIGNING OF NEW CITIZENS

The commanders of the five military districts of the South called state conventions to adopt new state constitutions to be submitted to the U. S. Congress for ratification. The design of these constitutions was influenced by white political adventurers (mostly emigrated to the South) known as carpet-baggers (they could carry their possessions in a bundle). The result being unsatisfactory, several states (Virginia, Texas, Mississippi) rather endured the Union military rule than adopt the proposed new constitution. Georgia, which had adopted the new Constitution, had been admitted to the Union, was placed again under military control since it prevented Negroes from voting.

Not before 1870—after omitting the objectionable clauses but ratifying the 15th amendment to the National Constitution, guaranteeing suffrage to the freed-men—the resisting states accepted the new constitution and (also Georgia) were admitted to the Union. Technically the South was reconstructed. Above: Scene in a political campaign in the South. (U. S. History)

PORTLAND AND ROMAN CEMENT—CONCRETE

Cement, a mixture of dicalcium silicate (Ca_2SiO_4), tricalcium silicate (Ca_3SiO_5), calcium aluminate [$Ca_3(AlO_3)_2$] and free lime (CaO) combines with water and forms a hard mass. It is used in building as mortar (with sand and some lime) and as concrete (with sand and gravel 1÷2÷4 to 1÷4÷8 proportions).

Portland cement is made in rotary kilns (above) by "burning" pulverized limestone or shale and clay. The material starts to fuse at the hot end (1600°C.) forming lumps (clinker). After cooling clinker is mixed with 3% gypsum ($CaSO_4.2H_2O$) and ground.

With water the reactions: $Ca_3(AlO_3)_2 + 6H_2O = 3Ca(OH)_2$ (crystallizing) + $2Al(OH)_3$ (filling spaces.) The silicates form with water a colloidal jelly ($2CaSiO_3.5H_2O$) which hardens by dehydration and keeps the rest of the material together. The added gypsum—acting as negative catalyst—retards hardening completed after four weeks or more.

Roman cement (known by Romans) is made by "burning" crushed natural cement rock (argillaceous limestone) and ground to powder. It sets quickly, but is not so strong as Portland cement. (Chemistry)

After an Old Cut

RISING AGAINST HABSBURG

The flames of revolution in the mid 19th century spread quickly from France all over Europe. One of the first risings occurred in Vienna, where streets were barricaded (above). The Czechs too thought their time had come for liberation. They were suppressed. Hungary revolted (March, 1848), dethroning the Habsburgs, establishing a government with Kossuth, an outstanding patriot as governor. Hungary, victorious against the Austrian troops, was crushed with help of the Russians (Oct., 1849); the people had to suffer the reprisals of a reactionary government. (World History)

CURSE OF SIN—LOVERS PART—QUEEN REPENTS

The eighth of Tennyson's "Idylls of the King" presents Pelleas' disheartening experiences with the cunning Ettarre and his fight with Lancelot for the betrayal of the king, in which he is defeated. The ninth idyll, the "Last Tournament," narrates the story of Trystan who presents the necklace won by him to the wife of Mark. Her jealous husband kills him.

In the tenth idyll, Lancelot, sweetheart of the queen, ceases to be careful; the queen fearful of discovery bids him to go.

The eleventh idyll treats of the discovery of their attachment. Lancelot flees with Guinevere; they part forever with a last embrace, the queen for a nunnery, Lancelot to his castle. When found by Arthur, Guinevere, prostrate at his feet, asks forgiveness.

The twelfth idyll "The Passing of Arthur" pictures Arthur's declining days. As predicted by the ghost of the knight Gawain, he is mortally wounded in a great battle. Throwing his sword Excalibur into the sea, a black barge with three queens appears to bear him away: "From the great deep to the great deep he goes."

RED BLOOD CORPUSCLES

The red cells or erythrocytes are oxygen carriers. They contain a protein—iron substance, haemoglobin (C, H, O, N, S, Fe, structure unknown), which in contact with air in the lungs is readily charged with oxygen forming oxyhaemoglobin. This is carried with the red cells to all the body cells, where the loosely engaged oxygen is given up, the reduced haemoglobin is then carried to the lungs for a new oxygen charge. Loss of haemoglobin from red cells and its solution in plasma (haemolysis) is caused by: 1, dilution with water; 2, adding ether, chloroform, salts, acids, bile salts; 3, alternate freezing-thawing; 4, foreign blood serums; 5, snake venom, products of defective metabolism (as in Bright's disease, diabetes, etc.). REPAIRING TREES—TREE SURGERY

Decay producing organisms enter tree through injuries, rot wood, so violent winds break the tree. Badly decayed trees should be removed; they may be braced, decayed matter cut out, cavity treated: 1, remove dead, decayed, injured bark, wood; 2, sterilize all cut surfaces (paint with creosote, coal tar, asphalt, oil paint, copper sulphate, corrosive sublimate or char surface with torch); 3, waterproof all surfaces (alcoholic grafting wax, shellac); 4, fill or cover cavities with cement mixtures; 5, inspect, waterproof yearly.

All new layers of wood originate in the thin cambium layer between bark and wood, hence it is of utmost importance to keep cambium healthy and uninjured. Above: How to remove a limb.

Why the O. T. S. Went Its Way

Wayne Smith, of Pelham Manor, asks us to define an old time saloon.

That's a tribute to our technique. But a rap on our education.

Mr. Smith states that the nation's best dreaders dread the return of the O. T. S. Officers' Training School.

However, this hydra-hatted monster was not really so formidable and ferocious. It spat neither fire nor flame at those who avoided it. Its clinking of glassware and porcelain static was a warning rattle to those whose feet wandered from the safety zone of temperance.

By looking under the swinging doors as a child you could learn some footwork that might carry you to dancing and fencing championships. Even though the patrons of the O. T. S. were bogged to the hubs in sawdust they were agile and light on their brogans.

The O. T. S. was generally regarded as the poor man's clubroom. It was a place where a man could meet his friends and slug them silly. The talk was coarse. The humor was physical. When challenged to a Queensbury duel the weapons were knuckles and bungstarters at two paces.

The O. T. S. collapsed in bad repute when the local politician used the back room as his civic rostrum. From that back room emerged the strong arm election wranglers.

One back room controlled a precinct. Twenty ran the ward. And a thousand controlled the city. That's the argument against the return of the O. T. S.

We attack no political party in this statement. Republicans were just as thirsty as Democrats. Even if they had to eat a little salt to make the grade.

The ancient politician controlled the oldtime saloonkeeper through threats and favors. Naturally, the barkeep always kicked in for campaign expenses. The politician could always square the circle in the D. A.'s office.

Once in a while the reform element defeated the saloon clique at the primaries. They then took over the O. T. S. themselves. After several years the ousted barkeepers became the reform element. Thereupon, they arose in their municipal ire and ran the other side off the sloping wharf.

That was considered a cross-section of the old game and we had many a Governor and twice that many Senators who never could get all the sawdust out of their hair.

WORDS OF THE WISE

To thine own self be true;
And it must follow as the night the day,
Thou canst not be false to any man.—Shakespeare.

There are a good many real miseries in life that we cannot help smiling at, but they are the smiles that make wrinkles and not dimples.—Holmes.

Never man can lose what he never had.—Walton.

For all things are less dreadful than they seem.—Wordsworth.

Power, in its quality and degree, is the measure of manhood. Scholarship, save by accident, is never the measure of a man's power.—Holland.

He is free from danger, who, even when safe, is on his guard.—Syrus.

Truth is the summit of being; justice is the application of it to affairs.—Emerson.

Silence, when nothing need be said, is the eloquence of discretion.—Bovee.

The Wreckers

The Senate Is Hurting Business With Its Policy of "Soak the Thrifty"

The Senate of the United States is running amuck on taxation.

Driven by the emotional and demagogic cry of "soak the thrifty," the upper house, nominally composed of the wise men of the nation, is playing fast and loose with the delicate economic factors making for a revival of prosperity.

Contrary to sound economic opinion and advice, the Senate has passed the Couzens amendment which added a blanket increase of 10 per cent payable on all personal incomes in 1934.

This vicious provision was sponsored, ironically enough, by the wealthiest member of Congress—Senator Couzens, of Michigan. At first blush it seems to be a self-effacing gesture, except for reports that Mr. Couzens, former partner of Henry Ford, has placed his own fortune beyond the reach of a grasping Congress BY INVESTING IN TAX-EXEMPT BONDS.

This Senate maneuver against business-building confidence was followed by increases to unprecedented peace-time peaks in the estate and gift taxes, and by further business baiting provisions in regard to corporation taxes.

As part of the effort to soak business, the Senate voted to strike out of the present law the consolidated returns provision and thereby deny to corporations the privilege of filing consolidated income tax returns for subsidiaries or affiliates.

The setup of modern business has been conditioned by the existing provision of the law, and the change is therefore needlessly destructive in character.

The net effect of the Senate's achievements in these directions tends to thwart the whole recovery movement.

It is idle to plan for business revival and re-employment in the United States while at the same time striking out to embarrass the PROSPERITY-MAKERS—the business leaders.

The punitive spirit beyond the amendments is symbolic of the rise of an anti-business bloc at Washington.

The result is that enterprisers are discouraged at a time when rising enthusiasm would have meant an expansion in the gross volume of trade and an increase in opportunities for gainful employment.

The course which the Senate has taken has been unsound not only from a psychological viewpoint but also on purely economic grounds.

When the objective of the administration is to raise the general price level through reflation, deflationary moves are not to be tolerated.

It is deflationary to seek to take from the current taxpayer too large a share of the expenses of the government.

On the other hand, when the government gets funds through borrowing, it in effect creates a net addition to the national purchasing power and to the circulating medium of the country.

To add to the burdens of industry now when business is already greatly loaded down with the heavy obligations of the NRA IS TO IMPAIR THE WHOLE RECOVERY PROCESS.

The action of the Senate is perhaps a logical outcome of a fanatic, unscientific, and demagogic taxation philosophy.

It is to be hoped that the sober good judgment of the House of Representatives will refuse to ratify the intolerable business burdens which the Senate has created.

But the time has passed for relying on patch work expediency to save the country from the worst of all possible tax systems.

The occasion is ripe for a fresh orientation on the whole subject of taxation.

This would entail mitigating the excesses and injustices of the income tax, and supplanting it to an increasing extent with a judicious general manufacturers' sales tax, such as has succeeded so admirably in Canada.

Until our national legislators turn in candor to the sales tax, our business future will be blighted by the reckless and ruinous tax procedure of bunglers, demagogues, and nincompoops.

The situation calls for the elimination in the fall campaign of the fools and fanatics from government, and the election to power in this republic of sober, sensible, intelligent and experienced citizens to conduct the affairs of a business nation on equitable and honest business principles.

Oxcart Election Methods

Voting by Mail Might Be an Improvement on the Present System

One of our governmental procedures which we have inherited from the days of the oxcart is our system of voting. In the early years of the republic, when transportation and communication were difficult, there was good reason for making every neighborhood an independent election district with its own board of election officials. But the desirability of continuing this system is open to question.

Because of the requirement that citizens shall go in person to the polling place, which is often in an unsavory locality where it is impossible to avoid rubbing shoulders with toughs, many persons abstain from voting. Bad weather always cuts down the size of the vote.

Alonzo P. Ingram, a Pittsburgh broker, has developed a plan under which all voting would be done by mail. The ballots would be sent to a central bureau where signatures would be compared to assure authenticity. Provision is made to guarantee secrecy. Mr. Ingram says that under this plan the cost of holding an election in Allegheny County would be 25 cents a vote, as against $3 a vote under the present system.

The plan is well worth looking into, and we note with approval that a committee of Pittsburgh's foremost business and professional men has been formed to arouse interest in it.

Overcrowding at Mayview

A Scathing Report Leaves No Room for Doubt a Change Is Needed

A committee of level-headed physicians, hospital executives, civic and social workers of both sexes has been investigating the city's hospitals at Mayview and Leech Farm and on Bedford avenue. In a report submitted to City Council yesterday it condemns wasteful methods of management at the three institutions and says some particularly scathing things about conditions at Mayview.

The overcrowding in the insane wards is described as "frightful." Opportunities for exercises and recreation, which are considered important in the treatment of psychopathic cases, are said to be almost entirely lacking. The inadequacy of the staff, with only one physician for every 175 patients in the Mayview general hospital, is called "appalling." The tuberculosis camp at Mayview, the committee says, "cannot be too bitterly condemned."

The use of such exceedingly strong language by a committee of responsible experts leaves no room for doubt that improvement is sorely needed.

But if a double check is needed the newly formed Efficiency and Economy Commission might give Mayview and the other city hospitals its early attention.

PETITION AGAINST U. S. JOINING LEAGUE OF NATIONS AND WORLD COURT

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign affairs," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

NAME ADDRESS

Additional names may be added to this petition by pasting a sheet of paper hereto. PRESENTED Through the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Return to League Court Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Telegraph Square, Pittsburgh, Pa.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 17.—Orchestra leaders, as a guild, express least of all the usual professional jealousies. Nearly all are close friends and when one opens at this place or that, he is certain to receive a full complement of telegrams and often flowers from his fellows.

Paul Whiteman and George Olsen have played golf together regularly for years. Rudy Vallee, on rare occasions when he has a few leisure hours, hobnobs with his professional brothers. Jack Denny and Vincent Lopez are warm friends as are Abe Lyman and Leon Belasco.

The leader of modern dance bands must of necessity lead a gypsy life. If he takes root in one spot for more than a year, he faces stagnation of public favor. There is the same demand for changing leaders as changing tunes. Their fans like to welcome them back from long tours with a Roman holiday.

While musicians generally have suffered from the advent of the talkie and the dwindle of the theater, the established dance orchestras have felt the depression as slightly as any other calling. The leaders, without exception, are financially secure. And nearly all are strictly temperate.

* * *

A guild apart, too, are professional dancers in the higher class dance halls and in movie choruses, the most devoted I know to their calling. They would rather be out there dancing than doing anything else in the world. It is proverbial that on their nights and days off they go places to dance. I think especially of Ann Pennington, who has been dancing since she was in ginghams. No matter where she is, if there is a looking glass about where she can practice new steps, she is perfectly happy, slipping into pas seuls and leaping into tours en l'air.

It is surprising how many men of affairs in New York smoke corn-cob pipes in the privacy of dens. Yet in years I do not recall seeing one out in the open. The smartest tobacconist on the avenue keeps a sub rosa supply for select customers. Most of such pipes come from Boonville, Mo., where Bill Corum was born and we have often wondered if that sport writer is an addict. To the users, the "Missouri meerschaum" does not attain its proper flavoring for about six months and in its ripe maturity must be hidden and reserved for solitary vigils if ordinarily friendly contacts are to be maintained.

* * *

I should like to read a piece by that splendid essayist Robert Cortes Holliday on a delicacy that has vanished from the New York culinary scene—home-made ice cream. The stiff and chalky substitutes, scooped out in hard globules, are a sad commentary on decadence of restaurant kitchens. Real ice cream, snowy white and silkily soft to the tongue, should be served on a large white gold edged plate in the disarray of a frozen wavelet. The flavor faint and spreading like a rift of thin smoke. And after a few tastes it should be generously "spooned" and made runny. Any flavor save vanilla is a desecration.

* * *

The nearest to old-fashioned home-made ice cream in New York is an entremet that may be often secured in the higher priced cafes. Someone tells me it is Garbo's favorite American dessert, called Coeur Flotant, a frozen heart of double cream, swimming in a custardy sauce, flecked with fruit and sprouting spun sugar strands. On most menus it is listed at $1 a copy. But it is almost a meal.

* * *

While I'm grousing gastronomically, I'd like to make a few faces at the average New York apple-eater. Only an apple-knocker knows how to handle an apple. No one munches an apple on the street here. It must be served, along with the cloying aroma of other fruits that spoil its tang, in a silver epergne. And be pared with an equally silvered knife. The enjoyable apple should be selected in person, and with great care, at a Greek corner stand. Then, sauntering on, it should be rubbed into magnificent shine on the coat sleeve. For a block or so it should be fingered gently in a light fever of anticipation and then after a few loving sniffs the first bite! If it be a well ripened and juicy Rome Beauty you are treading toward Nirvana.

* * *

Something else I wish New York would learn. Just stand there while I cross the street, shout it and skedaddle through a revolving door. "MANNERS."

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Only the Soldier Knows

The soldier, only, knows the full extent
Of all the suffering that war entailed;
Perhaps his scars which men may see have meant
Far less of woe than wounds which have assailed
His soul. Who that has never fought can paint
In his own thought the shock, the fierce alarm
Which breed how many a strange and awful taint
Of fear and hate to work the spirit harm?

No ruler, hearing marital music's strains
And the brave tramp of countless marching feet,
No statesman, no civilian feels the pains,
The weights of anguish forged in war's fierce heat.
The soldier and one more know war's array:
The soldier's mother, in whose arms he lay!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Wanting — Wanting!

Fannie Hurst has written a book like a cancer.

This is not a smarty speech. Nor is it an insult to Miss Hurst. It is simply true. It is true as a surgeon's knife is true, cutting delicately, ruthlessly, into diseased flesh, baring sick cells run amuck.

There are sick cells, run amuck, in that book "ANITRA'S DANCE." There is life run amuck—wanting — wanting—wanting—reaching out—eating out—until wanting and reaching become cancerous.

All of those people wanting and wanting. Each of them with his or her want. Most of them common people, like you and me. Common lives, wanting common things. That is what makes it so terrible. It is all so common. It is all so close to you and me—like an echo of the things we whisper to our secret selves—like a shadow of the gestures we make, as we fumble and scramble.

It is all so close that presently something happens. Something strange. You forget you are reading a book. The book crumbles. All those common lives crumble. Suddenly only one thing is left—bare—terribly alive! YOU are left. You and your story. Your secret story. The story of your wanting—wanting—wanting—lying there, stripped, like flesh under a surgeon's knife.

All those lives, WANTING. Wanting an answer to some need in themselves . . . some secret hunger. Looking for that answer in someone else. Not looking for that answer in their own growth . . . in their own normal, healthy growth. Reaching out into other lives for the answer, as cancer cells reach out—ravenously—running amuck.

The Bruno seeking the finish for his "SPAN OF LIFE SYMPHONY"—seeking a little handful of music until the need became a madness—a madness that consumed the lives around him, as cancer cells consume other flesh.

Fadella — little, wizened, old, cold—wanting youth and warmth. Wanting—wanting — clutching at the slender, dancing flame of Anitra's youth.

Sophie—flabby, foolish, furious! Sophie wanting—wanting Lep! Power over Lep. Passion from Lep. Losing them both because she could not refuse garlic potatoes! Sophie wanting, wanting—losing, losing — trapped in her own fat!

Eugene—weak, terrified by life, terrified by his father, terrified by women, terrified by himself. Wanting—wanting — wanting escape. Wanting safety. Seeking it, finding it in the strong, white body of Tessa.

Elsac — blubbering, squalling through the squalid domestic scenes, hating, loving Paul.

Gersta—big, red-faced Mother Gersta, sweating over her huge kitchen range, turning out her mountains of goulash, agonizing over that strange fungus spirit of her son.

Sistie—crawling to God in a nun's habit, mumbling, moaning for Eugene.

All of them wanting—wanting. ALL OF THEM TRYING TO FIND THE ANSWER IN SOMEBODY ELSE!

Only one, out of all of them, daring to look at life straight. Daring to ask her own questions, seek her own answer. IN HERSELF. Only one of them, and that the frailest—young Anitra, bubble light, but with a spirit strong as delicate steel. She alone could look at life—AND TAKE IT!

A book like a cancer. A book of wanting—wanting. Of YOUR and MY wanting—wanting. Of life refusing to face itself, refusing to feed itself—reaching out to feed on other life.

A true book—and a terrible one. A book you need. For YOU are in it.

A GOOD REMEDY

By Winifred Black

"Don't send for a new kind of pills if you feel sort of down and out and have a pain in the back of your head or in the pit of your stomach.

"Get a new job or a new sweetheart and you'll be all right in a jiffy."

That's what Dr. C. H. Barnacle told a clinical association in Colorado recently.

Three rousing cheers for Dr. Barnacle!

There's nothing old and musty and clinging to ancient ideas about you.

And, oh, how true it is—what you said about the new job and the new girl.

Nothing like a new job to put new life into your veins.

And if you can't get a new job and wouldn't know what to do with it when you got it, go out and get a new hat and see what that will do for you.

If you can't afford the new hat, comb your hair a new way.

Sit down in front of the mirror and take your time about it.

Now as to the new sweetheart I'd hate to commit myself along that line, but I've known a new sweetheart to make an old man young and a middle-aged woman absolutely kittenish.

Try a few new friends, too. Somebody different from the ones you've always had. Go and walk in a new neighborhood or an old one that you've never seen much of.

Read a new book—something different, not just the same old thing.

Give your mind a change of diet just for a change.

Yes, and change your body's diet, too—a green salad and some plain bread and butter and nothing much else for dinner for a day or so, and you'll find out what fun it is to get good and hungry again.

After all, the mind is the captain of the ship and it's up to your mind to keep your body full of life and enthusiasm.

Of course, if the ship's leaky, the best captain in the world can't make much leeway, but I believe I'd rather have a fair to medium ship and a first rate captain than the finest ship in the world and an idle fool on the bridge who didn't have sense enough to keep away from the breakers—wouldn't you?

What happens to us doesn't matter so very much anyhow, does it?

It's the way we act when it's happening that counts.

That's what an old sea captain told me once, and I always think of it when the clouds begin to gather and the breakers begin to roar a little too close for comfort.

A new job or a new sweetheart, that's a good, sensible prescription for you, it seems to me.

What do you think of it?

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

You'd like to be known as "hard-boiled."

You are strong for the he-man stuff, which, you think, denotes physical strength and unusual mentality.

How you reach such conclusions is not easy to comprehend.

If you hold a position of even a little authority, you go beyond its limits in your dealings with those under you.

Unreasonable demands and harsh censorship of those who do not please you are your way of expressing authority on your job.

You are strong for the "bawling-out" system to get people under you "on their toes."

You are particularly severe with the novice in your department.

You growl at him, sneer at his efforts and ridicule his training.

It seems to be your desire to belittle him as much as possible.

Such tactics show that it must have been hard to whip you into a position where your services were of much value.

That it was necessary to be severe with you is indicated by your present attitude toward others.

Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, One of the Leading Authorities On Snakes, Has Led an Adventurous Life

By Edwin C. Hill

DR. RAYMOND L. DITMARS, who gracefully supports the somewhat ponderous title of "Curator of Mammals and Reptiles in the New York Zoological Park," is a gentleman of indefatigable activity. When he isn't chasing down to the Panamanian jungles to snare one of those evil serpents called bushmaster, or snooping along the Hudson Palisades to grab himself a first-class rattler or copperhead (he is the greatest living authority on snakes), he is writing books or making motion pictures, or lecturing to popeyed audiences and illustrating his talks with living rattlesnakes and cobras.

Now he's out to give back to the boys of America the kind of red-blooded books he liked to read when he was a kid—to fill a gap in the literature of boyhood. A very interesting gentleman, Dr. Ditmars, and, without doubt, the greatest authority in the world on man's ancient enemy, the old evil that cost us the Garden of Eden and gave us men a chance to blame the ladies for our hard luck.

Has a Positive Liking for Snakes

I HAVE seen Ray Ditmars do things with these lances of death that are simply incredible. He takes a suitcase full of diamond-back rattlers and Indian cobras and uses them to illustrate his lectures. He reaches into the bag and hauls out a savage rattler as calmly as you would lift a rabbit by the ears. He not only knows exactly how to handle them, and has no fear of them, but has a positive liking for them.

He tells me a curious thing: That our dread of serpents is a thing acquired by reading and listening to snake stories, that it isn't inherited at all, and that small children usually have no fear of snakes whatever if older people haven't warned and frightened the youngsters.

Bigger, better and more poisonous snakes—that is the life work of this slight, 56-year-old, pleasant-mannered scientist who goes to Panama now to hunt down and take with his bare hands that beady-eyed terror of the jungle, the 12-foot bushmaster and the granddaddy of our rattlers. It's poison kills in five minutes.

Dr. Ditmars has been told many times that some day his hand would slip and that one of his deadly pets would nail him in a flash. But he smiles in his pleasant way and goes right on pulling the whiskers of death.

Don't believe for a minute that he, and such as he, run no risk. The most expert take their lives in their hands. It has only been four years since Charley Snyder, for years head-keeper of the New York Zoo, went out in the Ramapo Mountains in New Jersey to get himself a mess of rattlers. He was fumbling in the brush when one struck. He knew what he was in for, and cut his thumb off with a pocket knife as he ran for the nearest town. Dr. Ditmars rushed to the hospital where Charley Snyder lay gasping for breath. He injected the Brazilian serum, but it was too late. The poison had been working for 24 hours. It was the end of poor Charley.

Has Gone to Rescue Of Many Persons

TIME AND time again, Ditmars has flown by plane or taken fast trains to save the lives of men, women and children, a kind of one-man Red Cross. But the gamest thing I ever saw him do took place one afternoon years ago in the reptile house in the zoo. I was talking in there with Ditmars and Dr. William T. Hornaday, the great naturalist. We were watching the big pythons when a keeper let out a yell of terror that sent the cold chills up my back.

"Look out!" he shouted. "The cobra is out of his cage! Run!"

We whirled about, and there on the floor, not 10 feet away, was Rex, the great king cobra. His hood was spread and his eyes blazed like rubies with the ferocity that was in him. He poised there, like terror itself, his great head swaying over a body coiled like a steel spring. Then he lashed out and made for us, and though my legs were like lead, I ran for the door, for I knew that death was at my heels.

But Ray Ditmars didn't run. His eyes glinted with the joy of battle. He sprang forward, snatching up a tarpaulin as he leaped. The cobra struck at him, but he stepped aside and flung the tarpaulin over the cobra's body. He held it there until a keeper brought him a forked stick. And then, swiftly, but with the utmost care, he worked the fork of the stick up to a point just behind the great cobra's head and jammed it down.

He pinioned the deadly head and held it to the floor until a keeper got a firm grip on the writhing body. And then, as coolly as you please, that man Ditmars, with lightning speed, caught the snake behind the head with his bare right hand, gripped the neck like a vice, and with the keeper picked it up and slammed it into the cage from which it had escaped. Almost, I think, that was the pluckiest thing I ever saw.

'Big Parade' Held Tribute To Power of Presidency

By James T. Williams, Jr.

A politician thinks of the next election; a statesman, of the next generation. — James Freeman Clarke.

THE MARCH of the Congress from the Capitol to the Union Station to welcome President Roosevelt on his return to the federal city may have been unprecedented, but it was not inappropriate and it was fraught with a significance that is unmistakable.

Congress is well aware of the fact—even the present Congress—that, under the American system of government, there is no substitute for the leadership of the presidency.

The President is the only officer of the government at Washington who represents the American people in their corporate capacity as a nation.

A Senator in Congress represents the sovereignty of his state. A Representative in Congress represents the people of his district. Both share with their colleagues the representation of the nation.

The Chief Justice of the United States shares with the Associate Justices of the United States Supreme Court the authority and responsibility delegated under the Constitution to "the great tribunal," which is the capstone of the judicial branch of the government.

* * *

President Represents The Whole People

BUT THE President himself represents the whole American people. His leadership owes its power to that inescapable fact. The dignity of his exalted office, the respect that it commands, the mighty influence of its example—these are the outward and invisible signs of a power that belongs to the people, and is delegated by them for certain specified purposes and for a limited time to the occupant of the White House.

Seldom, if ever, in time of peace has the welfare of "the household of the nation" been more dependent upon the leadership of the President than it is today. Party government in both houses of Congress has well-nigh disappeared. Today it is only a ghost of its former self. This accounts in large part for the legislative confusion in both houses.

If party government is ever to be restored, its restoration can only be achieved under the leadership of the President. He is not merely the titular leader of the party in power, he is also the Chief Executive, the head of the great American family that is the nation. He is best able to quicken a sense of party responsibility in both houses and in both parties.

Calvin Coolidge admitted that his knees trembled the first time that he shook hands with the President of the United States.

"They trembled," he said, "because it came over me that in shaking the hand of the President, I was shaking hands with the American people."

In going to the railway station to welcome home the President, Congress realized that it was on its way to greet the American people. Another meeting between the Congress and the American people will take place when the senators and representatives in Congress meet the people of their respective states and districts at the polls next November. Then one-third of the Senate and all of the House will come up for election. In the meantime, the entire membership of the present House and one-third of the members of the Senate, who are up for re-election, must encounter the voters of their respective parties as candidates for renomination.

Find Themselves On the Defensive

WITH THE breakdown of party government, many Democratic senators and representatives whose terms expire with the present Congress find themselves on the defensive, by reason of the things done and left undone by them during this Congress.

The Democrats in Congress, who have failed to support the leadership of the head of their party on major questions, must explain that fact to their constituents. The Republicans in Congress who have felt compelled to oppose the leadership of the President on major questions, face the necessity of convincing their constituents that they were doing a statesman's duty and not playing party politics.

The march of the Congress to welcome the President upon his arrival was more than a tribute to the leadership of the Presidency. It was an admission by the legislative branch of Mr. Roosevelt's national popularity in the reflection of which many a senator and representative in Congress is hoping he will be able to shine in the coming contests for renomination, re-election. These are the chief concerns today of one-third of the senators and all of the representatives in Congress, as President Roosevelt well knows.
